Might Concede To Some Face-Saving

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller Monday was reported willing to concede to the Legislature a few face-saving changes in his liquor program but determine not to compromise on his basic demands.

A source close to the governor said Rockefeller believed he had scored heavily Saturday in his statewide television appeal for public support in Wednesday's special session showdown with the balky lawmakers.

The Rockefeller camp appeared convinced that he now held the upper hand in the bargaining phase preceding the session.

Will Do Some Listening

"The governor is willing to listen to reason, within the frame work of his program," the source said. "But he is not going to agree to anything that compromises the principles of that program."

Rockefeller's political startigists regard victory in the liquor battle as a "must" if the Republican governor is to avoid damage to his reputation as a leader and to his chances for the GOP presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that Rockefeller conferred privately with the Republican legislative leaders over the weekend.

He received Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino at his New York City office on Friday, and J. Mahoney called on him at the Rockefeller family estate near Tarrytown on Saturday.

The governor discussed possible changes in his program with Mahoney and Carlino, and the legislative leaders agreed to meet with him again in Albany Monday or Tuesday.

All three were due at the Capitol Monday to take up residence for the duration of the session.

Rockefeller was hoping for a one-day session, but an aide said the governor was prepared to sit it out as long as necessary.

Mahoney told The Associated Press that "nothing definite" had evolved from the talks so far, and he declined to speculate on the course of the session.

Predicts Passage

And Carlino predicted Sunday night that the governor's liquor plan would win passage at the special session.

"I would predict," Carlino said in a New York City radio interview Sunday "that the Legislature will approve the governor's program."

Mahoney said, however, that most people with whom he talked Sunday thought Rockefeller had done "a good job" in his telecast, which was carried by 12 stations in New York and one in nearby Vermont.

In his pre-recorded talk, Rockefeller stressed his plan to repeal a law that fixes minimum retail prices on liquor. Such controls he said, keep retail prices artifically high and "fleece the public of $150 million a year at the rate of at least an extra $1 a bottle—and line the pockets of a privileged few."

He said he would insist on repeal of the law, plus legislation to lift the "unrealistic" policy that obliges taverns to serve meals and to end "arbitrary requirements for fixed distances between package stores."

All three proposals were voted down by wide margins in the

Extending Viet War Not Ruled Out: Rusk

MANILA (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a closed session of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization today the United States does not completely rule out extending the war in South Viet Nam, presumably into the Communist North.

This was reported by U.S. informants after the eight-nation session. They said Rusk laid heavy emphasis on the Viet Nam war, although South Viet Nam is not a member of the mutual defense organization set up 10 years ago to halt Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

Victory Vital to West

The informants quoted Rusk as saying that a victory over the Communist guerrillas in Viet Nam is vital to the West.

The United States, Rusk said, has decided on a course of support and guidance of the South Vietnamese but he added that the United States could not completely preclude extension of the war in a situation so volatile and important to the Western world. Rusk said, however, widening of the war is not what the United States wants and is not a course that anyone would welcome.

Viet Cong Stronger

He said there is no question that the Communist Viet Cong in Viet Nam is being controlled, supplied and directed by North Viet Nam. The Viet Cong have improved their techniques and added new capabilities, but their ability to overrun large sections of the countryside does not mean they are running the countryside, Rusk said.

Rusk also discussed what he called the ineffective neutrality of Laos, also outside SEATO. He said SEATO, particularly because of Laos and Viet Nam, is in serious trouble and blamed this on Red China and North Viet Nam.

Session Set Tuesday

The simple fact is, Rusk said, that the North Vietnamese and the Red Chinese "won't leave their neighbors alone, which is the key to peace and tranquility in the area."

The closed-door session, to be followed by another Tuesday, came after an open session that got the conference under way.

At that session, Thailand and the Philippines indicated the time had come for hard talking on the alliance's ability to stem Communist aggression.

Hercules Workers To Hear Platform For Union Voting

Workers at the Hercules Powder Co. plant at Port Ewen, will attend a rally at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Municipal Auditorium to hear a platform for the election scheduled for Wednesday to decide the union representation of employes.

The rally was announced today by John H. Bach, of 83 Johnston Avenue, an employe at Hercules and president of Local 1322, District 50 of the United Mine Workers of America.

Bach said the platform will be explained to the plant workers. On Wednesday company employes will decide whether they chose the UMWA or the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local 445. The UMW is the union now functioning at Hercules, representing some 300 to 325 workers, Bach stated.

Voting Hours

Voting on Wednesday will take place in the Hercules plant cafeteria from 6:30 and 9 a. m. and 3 to 6:30 p. m.

Members of the Employes Betterment Committee of Local 445 had scheduled a meeting at the Municipal Auditorium at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, but efforts to contact representatives of that group today were unsuccessful.

About 75 employes of Hercules attended a meeting Saturday afternoon at the Municipal Auditorium which was attended by Anthony Alecca Jr., business agent of Local 445 of the Teamsters Union.

Is NLRB Election

Alecca said today the eligibility of voters was explained and he noted that people on furlough from the Port Ewen plant and those who have been laid off less than 12 months are eligible to vote. He told the group they will be protected as far as their present contract is concerned and stated the voting on Wednesday is a NLRB election.

The business agent urged all employes including those now at work, everyone on furlough and those laid off less than a year to get out and vote to select a union of their own choice.

Discussing Rail Issues in Secret, 25th Is Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP)—In virtual secrecy, rail management and labor representatives resume issue-by-issue bargaining today a stone's throw from the White House, knowing that failure to agree by April 25 could touch off a coast-to-coast strike.

The negotiators are working under a temporary truce effected by President Johnson and under the guidance of a presidentially arranged five-man team of special mediators. The sessions began at the White House and have moved across the street to the Executive Office Building so the President can pop in and otherwise make the two sides aware of his interest.

Columbia Parties Favor Drachman For Assemblyman

Dr. Theodore S. Drachman, of Philmont, Ulster County commissioner of health, who last Friday was designated by the Columbia County Democratic Committee as candidate for State Assembly, was designated Saturday night by the Liberal Party of that county to head the ticket in November.

The Liberal Party also designated the entire slate of county candidates named earlier by the Democrats.

Joseph Resnick, Ellenville industrialist, was endorsed by the Democratic committee as a candidate to oppose Congressman J. Ernest Wharton.

Full Slate This Time

Democratic leaders noted that it is the first time in 10 years that the Democrats had a full slate of candidates.

Dr. Drachman, former Columbia County health commissioner, said he was "appalled at the way one party is running things and voters this year will have the chance to decide whether Columbia County will remain stagnant or whether it will grow and prosper."

Stating that he is "very flattered and honored" by the designation, Dr. Drachman reportedly said, "I am also very much encouraged by the new leadership in county Democratic circles and the fact that I will be joined on the ticket by a slate of highly competent candidates."

Wants Issues Aired

Dr. Drachman continued, "It must be obvious that my accepting the designation, is a matter of principle. There is little material gain involved but a great deal of spiritual gain, if you make a good fight. Crowds Out To Honor MacArthur

File to Memorial In Norfolk Today

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Showery April skies were expected to dampen only slightly today the tempo of posthumous tribute to General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

Officials of the MacArthur Memorial Museum said they anticipated that further thousands would line the sidewalk outside the imposing, columned building while awaiting their turn to view the sunken crypt where the general was interred last Saturday.

The memorial held its doors open until 9 p.m. Sunday—three hours beyond the normal closing time—to accommodate the more than 6,000 persons who came to pay their last respects.

It was scheduled to be open to the public today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., but there was a chance these hours would be extended again by heavy attendance.

61,000 View Body

More than 61,000 persons viewed the body of the general in Norfolk at the end of a week of extraordinary tribute to the man who led American soldiers into battle in three major wars. His burial here, a Navy town in which he never lived, was his request because it was the scene of his mother's birth and childhood.

The last rites Saturday under brilliant skies were attended by more than 400 civilian and military dignitaries, relatives, old comrades-in-arms and representatives of 10 foreign governments.

They began with the removal of the plain military casket bearing the remains of the 84-year-old general from the rotunda of the memorial, a reconverted courthouse, to St. Paul's Episcopal Church, two blocks away.

Walk Behind Caisson

Mrs. MacArthur and her son Arthur, 26, walked behind the caisson en route to the church and on the return to the memorial.

Shortly after the memorial opened a 4-year-old girl, Vivian Bayoreta, received permission to place a wreath by the crypt. She was aided by her father, M. Sgt. Solomon H. Bayoreta, who was awarded the Silver Star for protecting MacArthur from a bomb burst on Corregidor in December 1941.

Bayoreta said he traveled to Norfolk from Syracuse, N.Y., and waited three days to place the wreath in the rotunda.

One Killed, 11 Americans Hurt In Viet Fighting

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A weekend of fierce fighting left one American soldier dead and 11 others injured, U.S. military authorities reported today. More than 100 South Vietnamese casualties were reported.

A crew member of an U.S. Army H21 helicopter was killed by Communist groundfire Sunday while it was carrying South Vietnamese troops during a battle in Chuong Thien Province, near the southern tip of Viet Nam, 140 miles from Saigon.

The soldier was the 131st American killed in combat in Viet Nam. Seven other U.S.

Midwest Area Is Hit By Twisters; 6 Dead

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dazed survivors picked through the rubble of homes and business buildings today in the wake of tornadoes that slashed through eastern Kansas, western Missouri and southwestern Iowa.

Six persons were killed and at least 50 were injured.

Most of the twisters snaked out of thunderstorms that could be seen for miles in the late afternoon — otherwise the toll could have been greater.

Two lines of the storms bracketed Kansas City—one to the northwest, the other southeast—and rolled rapidly to the northeast.

List of Dead

The dead were:

Mrs. Jack L. Wilson, 24, Independence, Kan.; Warren Kenyan Sr., 43, Neosho, Mo., and his wife, Ella, all killed near Garnett, Kan.

Charles Hedger, 13, killed in a barn near Pleasant Grove, Mo.

Victor Kerns, 50, killed near his home northwest of Leeton, Mo.

Flora Eichhorst, 90, killed in her home at Yorktown, Iowa.

One twister sucked up a line of traffic on U.S. 59 five miles south of Garnett and hurled a 50,000-pound truck, a pickup truck and six cars in all directions, killing the Kenyans and Mrs. Wilson and injuring eight other persons.

Flings Truck Quarter Mile

"It felt like the truck was lifted up off the highway," said Stephen A. Miller, 29, of St. Joseph, Mo., who was hauling 25,000 pounds of meat to Dallas.

The pickup truck was flung a quarter-mile. The driver, Christopher Lewis, 54, Parsons, Kan., suffered a knee injury.

Right behind Miller's truck, the Kenyan car was hurled 600 feet to one side. Another landed 600 feet on the other side of the road. The cars were smashed into twisted bits of metal.

A tornado roared over Leavenworth, Kan., not quite touching down, but close enough to damage about 75 homes, smash windows in the business district and uproot many trees. Seven persons were injured there.

Tobacco barns were flattened near Weston, Mo.

Elaborate Motel For Port Ewen With Golf Course

Work is progressing on an elaborate and modern motel on spacious property at the rear of The Capri on Route 9W, Port Ewen, and it is expected that a nine-hole, par three, golf course will be ready for use early this summer.

The project is being carried out by Joseph P. Costello, owner and operator of the popular restaurant, in conjunction with the Ronny Gerald Enterprises of New York City, according to Costello's son, Vincent.

Quarter Million Spent

Vincent told The Freeman today that the project in its present stage of development represents an investment of a quarter million dollars, and when completed the investment will be considerably more.

Vincent said he and his father and a brother, Joseph, designed the entire operation. He stated that 20 motel units have been completed, including a new creation lounge and swimming pool. When the entire project is finished, it will comprise come 40 motel units.

A new dining room has been added to the main building, designed in Roman decor throughout.

Membership Plan

Vincent explained that it is intended to have the golf course operated on a membership basis, and eventually the development will go into a resort plan.

Some of the motel units have been completed and ready for occupancy, and it is expected the golf course will be finished in a couple of months.

Mission Set Late This Year

Aim of Project Is MoonShot in Time

HOUST, Tex. (AP) — Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young were selected today as the astronauts who will pilot the nation's first two-man space flight—a three-orbit Gemini mission late this year.

The back-up crew for the first manned flight of Project Gemini will be Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Capt. Thomas P. Stafford.

Gemini is the intermediate phase of the long-range training program that has an objective of placing Project Apollo astronauts on the moon within the decade.

Schirra Made Flight

Of the four men selected today at the Manned Spacecraft Center, the training base for astronauts, only Schirra has made an orbital flight.

Grissom made a suborbital flight of 142.1 miles downrange from Cape Kennedy Sept. 13, 1961, and Schirra followed with a six-orbit mission Oct. 3. 1962.

Young and Stafford, former test pilots, became astronaut trainees Sept. 17, 1962.

Since the completion of the one-man Mercury flights last year, Grissom has held a primary assignment as coordinator of Gemini affairs with other members of the astronaut team that now totals 29 pilots.

Oldest of Seven

Schirra, now 41, is the oldest of the original seven Mercury astronauts now that Lt. Col. John Glenn has resigned from the program. Glenn is 42.

Schirra, while concentrating on the Gemini program, has been a coordinator of operations and training.

Young has specialized on the design and development of environmental control systems, survival gear, pressure suits, couches and other personal equipment. Stafford has specialized on communications, instrumentation and range integration.

Bridging Program

The flight will be the first American manned effort since Maj. Gordon Cooper orbited the earth 22 times in a Mercury capsule May 15, 1963.

The Gemini program is a bridge between Mercury and the Apollo moon landing project. It was announced Dec. 17, 1961, as a plan to extend the Mercury program with the development of a two-man spacecraft.

Prime objectives of Gemini are to determine man's ability to function for long periods in space and the feasibility of rendezvous and docking in orbital flights.

Irate Hamilton Board Asks Short Season for Deer

LAKE PLEASANT, N.Y. (AP) —The Hamilton County Board of Supervisors, incensed over the killing of 50 deer during a Conservation Department research project, proposes a shorter hunting season limited to bucks in the Adirondacks this fall.

In a resolution made public Sunday, the board termed the killing of the 50 deer in the Moose River Plains in February "malicious and cruel slaughter."

The resolution, adopted unanimously Thursday, accused Conservation Commissioner Harold Wilm of failing to answer a previous protest from the supervisors.

The board said, however, it had received "hundreds of letters and messages from individuals and various fish and game organizations throughout the state..."

The department said March 20 that the survey by biologists indicated a herd increase in the Hamilton County area that could, unless checked, "lead to severe starvation losses in the immediate future."

Wilm has defended the biologists who killed the deer for study, saying they were "only doing their jobs."

The Hamilton Supervisors' resolution recommended a 1964 hunting season of not more than

Quake Strikes In Yugoslavia and Hungary Today

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, (AP)—An earthquake struck a wide region of northern Yugoslavia and part of southern Hungary today, killing at least one and injuring more than 100 persons. Panic spread in the damage appeared widespread.

Downtown buildings swayed and some cracked in downtown Belgrade, where thousands fled into the streets on a warm, sunny morning. Schools and many factories and offices closed. The Budapest radio said the Hungarian capital also was shaken.

The first death was reported near the epicenter of the quake about 125 miles west of Belgrade. A 13-year-old girl was killed a staircase collapsed at a school at Djakovo.

Reports reaching Belgrade said more than 100 persons were injured in the quake area, stretching westward from Belgrade and north to the Hungarian border. Budapest radio reported panic in southern Hungary but made no mention of casualties.

GOP Speeds Up Selection Of Delegates for Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tempo of delegate selection for the Republican National Convention is speeding up. Thirty-four were chosen over the weekend and at least 73 will be picked this week.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who now has 109 first-ballot votes in eight states, and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine will test their popularity in Tuesday's Illinois presidential preference primary.

Their names are the only ones printed in the preference spot on the Republican ballots.

Results are not binding on delegates to the national convention. Forty-eight district delegates will be chosen Tuesday, with 10 at-large delegates to be picked in the Illinois Republican state convention next month.

Of the 78 persons running for the Illinois GOP delegate posts, 34 favor Goldwater, 3 are for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and one is for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. The rest told The Associated Press they were uncommitted or they made no replies.

Three states complete their selection of delegates to the Republican convention at state conclaves Saturday — Arizona, Kansas and Louisiana.

Goldwater is expected to win Arizona's 16 votes. He already has 16 Louisiana district delegates and the four at-large delegates to be named Saturday may be instructed to vote for him, too.

In Kansas, Gov. John Anderson Jr. has been battling for an uncommitted delegation. So far six district delegates are in-

61,000 View Body

More than 61,000 persons viewed the body of the general in Norfolk at the end of a week of extraordinary tribute to the man who led American soldiers into battle in three major wars. His burial here, a Navy town in which he never lived, was his request because it was the scene of his mother's birth and childhood.

The last rites Saturday under brilliant skies were attended by more than 400 civilian and military dignitaries, relatives, old comrades-in-arms and representatives of 10 foreign governments.

They began with the removal of the plain military casket bearing the remains of the 84-year-old general from the rotunda of the memorial, a reconverted courthouse, to St. Paul's Episcopal Church, two blocks away.

Walk Behind Caisson

Mrs. MacArthur and her son Arthur, 26, walked behind the caisson en route to the church and on the return to the memorial.

Shortly after the memorial opened a 4-year-old girl, Vivian Bayoreta, received permission to place a wreath by the crypt. She was aided by her father, M. Sgt. Solomon H. Bayoreta, who was awarded the Silver Star for protecting MacArthur from a bomb burst on Corregidor in December 1941.

Bayoreta said he traveled to Norfolk from Syracuse, N.Y., and waited three days to place the wreath in the rotunda.

GOP Speeds Up Selection Of Delegates for Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tempo of delegate selection for the Republican National Convention is speeding up. Thirty-four were chosen over the weekend and at least 73 will be picked this week.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who now has 109 first-ballot votes in eight states, and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine will test their popularity in Tuesday's Illinois presidential preference primary.

Their names are the only ones printed in the preference spot on the Republican ballots.

Results are not binding on delegates to the national convention. Forty-eight district delegates will be chosen Tuesday, with 10 at-large delegates to be picked in the Illinois Republican state convention next month.

Of the 78 persons running for the Illinois GOP delegate posts, 34 favor Goldwater, 3 are for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and one is for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. The rest told The Associated Press they were uncommitted or they made no replies.

Three states complete their selection of delegates to the Republican convention at state conclaves Saturday — Arizona, Kansas and Louisiana.

Goldwater is expected to win Arizona's 16 votes. He already has 16 Louisiana district delegates and the four at-large delegates to be named Saturday may be instructed to vote for him, too.

In Kansas, Gov. John Anderson Jr. has been battling for an uncommitted delegation. So far six district delegates are in-

Midwest Area Is Hit By Twisters; 6 Dead

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dazed survivors picked through the rubble of homes and business buildings today in the wake of tornadoes that slashed through eastern Kansas, western Missouri and southwestern Iowa.

Six persons were killed and at least 50 were injured.

Most of the twisters snaked out of thunderstorms that could be seen for miles in the late afternoon — otherwise the toll could have been greater.

Two lines of the storms bracketed Kansas City—one to the northwest, the other southeast—and rolled rapidly to the northeast.

List of Dead

The dead were:

Mrs. Jack L. Wilson, 24, Independence, Kan.; Warren Kenyan Sr., 43, Neosho, Mo., and his wife, Ella, all killed near Garnett, Kan.

Charles Hedger, 13, killed in a barn near Pleasant Grove, Mo.

Victor Kerns, 50, killed near his home northwest of Leeton, Mo.

Flora Eichhorst, 90, killed in her home at Yorktown, Iowa.

One twister sucked up a line of traffic on U.S. 59 five miles south of Garnett and hurled a 50,000-pound truck, a pickup truck and six cars in all directions, killing the Kenyans and Mrs. Wilson and injuring eight other persons.

Flings Truck Quarter Mile

"It felt like the truck was lifted up off the highway," said Stephen A. Miller, 29, of St. Joseph, Mo., who was hauling 25,000 pounds of meat to Dallas.

The pickup truck was flung a quarter-mile. The driver, Christopher Lewis, 54, Parsons, Kan., suffered a knee injury.

Right behind Miller's truck, the Kenyan car was hurled 600 feet to one side. Another landed 600 feet on the other side of the road. The cars were smashed into twisted bits of metal.

A tornado roared over Leavenworth, Kan., not quite touching down, but close enough to damage about 75 homes, smash windows in the business district and uproot many trees. Seven persons were injured there.

Tobacco barns were flattened near Weston, Mo.

Elaborate Motel For Port Ewen With Golf Course

Work is progressing on an elaborate and modern motel on spacious property at the rear of The Capri on Route 9W, Port Ewen, and it is expected that a nine-hole, par three, golf course will be ready for use early this summer.

The project is being carried out by Joseph P. Costello, owner and operator of the popular restaurant, in conjunction with the Ronny Gerald Enterprises of New York City, according to Costello's son, Vincent.

Quarter Million Spent

Vincent told The Freeman today that the project in its present stage of development represents an investment of a quarter million dollars, and when completed the investment will be considerably more.

Vincent said he and his father and a brother, Joseph, designed the entire operation. He stated that 20 motel units have been completed, including a new creation lounge and swimming pool. When the entire project is finished, it will comprise come 40 motel units.

A new dining room has been added to the main building, designed in Roman decor throughout.

Membership Plan

Vincent explained that it is intended to have the golf course operated on a membership basis, and eventually the development will go into a resort plan.

Some of the motel units have been completed and ready for occupancy, and it is expected the golf course will be finished in a couple of months.

Mission Set Late This Year

Aim of Project Is Moon Shot in Time

HOUST, Tex. (AP) — Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young were selected today as the astronauts who will pilot the nation's first two-man space flight—a three-orbit Gemini mission late this year.

The back-up crew for the first manned flight of Project Gemini will be Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Capt. Thomas P. Stafford.

Gemini is the intermediate phase of the long-range training program that has an objective of placing Project Apollo astronauts on the moon within the decade.

Schirra Made Flight

Of the four men selected today at the Manned Spacecraft Center, the training base for astronauts, only Schirra has made an orbital flight.

Grissom made a suborbital flight of 142.1 miles downrange from Cape Kennedy Sept. 13, 1961, and Schirra followed with a six-orbit mission Oct. 3. 1962.

Young and Stafford, former test pilots, became astronaut trainees Sept. 17, 1962.

Since the completion of the one-man Mercury flights last year, Grissom has held a primary assignment as coordinator of Gemini affairs with other members of the astronaut team that now totals 29 pilots.

Oldest of Seven

Schirra, now 41, is the oldest of the original seven Mercury astronauts now that Lt. Col. John Glenn has resigned from the program. Glenn is 42.

Schirra, while concentrating on the Gemini program, has been a coordinator of operations and training.

Young has specialized on the design and development of environmental control systems, survival gear, pressure suits, couches and other personal equipment. Stafford has specialized on communications, instrumentation and range integration.

Bridging Program

The flight will be the first American manned effort since Maj. Gordon Cooper orbited the earth 22 times in a Mercury capsule May 15, 1963.

The Gemini program is a bridge between Mercury and the Apollo moon landing project. It was announced Dec. 17, 1961, as a plan to extend the Mercury program with the development of a two-man spacecraft.

Prime objectives of Gemini are to determine man's ability to function for long periods in space and the feasibility of rendezvous and docking in orbital flights.

Irate Hamilton Board Asks Short Season for Deer

LAKE PLEASANT, N.Y. (AP) —The Hamilton County Board of Supervisors, incensed over the killing of 50 deer during a Conservation Department research project, proposes a shorter hunting season limited to bucks in the Adirondacks this fall.

In a resolution made public Sunday, the board termed the killing of the 50 deer in the Moose River Plains in February "malicious and cruel slaughter."

The resolution, adopted unanimously Thursday, accused Conservation Commissioner Harold Wilm of failing to answer a previous protest from the supervisors.

The board said, however, it had received "hundreds of letters and messages from individuals and various fish and game organizations throughout the state..."

The department said March 20 that the survey by biologists indicated a herd increase in the Hamilton County area that could, unless checked, "lead to severe starvation losses in the immediate future."

Wilm has defended the biologists who killed the deer for study, saying they were "only doing their jobs."

The Hamilton Supervisors' resolution recommended a 1964 hunting season of not more than

Polish Leaders Are At Parley on China

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP)—Polish Communist leaders arrived in Moscow today for talks to strengthen Premier Khrushchev in his bitter dispute with the Chinese Communists.

Polish Communist party boss Wladyslaw Gomulka said on his arrival with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz that the Polish and Soviet Communist parties "have the same views of the tasks of the Socialist camp, of the strategy and tactics of the international movement."

Any actions directed against the unity of Communist countries "are harmful and irresponsible," Gomulka said. ..

The Poles support Khrushchev against Red China, but they have been reluctant to go along with a Kremlin proposal for a showdown conference of world Communist parties.

Denounces Chinese

In his television speech Sunday night, Khrushchev denounced the Chinese as "splitters" of the world Communist movement who eventually want to take over its leadership. He made no mention of any world meeting of communism.

Khrushchev abandoned the Soviet Communist party's claim of dominance over world communism, saying "those times have gone, never to return."

But he said the Chinese were trying to achieve the control Stalin once exercised over the Red bloc by taking a "special course which is a blend of petty bourgeois adventurism and great-power chauvinism."

Cause Much Difficulty

"The disruptive activities of the Chinese leaders have caused serious difficulties in the world Communist movement," Khrushchev admitted.

To deal with the problem, he called for direct meetings between Communist parties — as equals rather than teacher and pupil. He apparently has in mind the kind of direct talks he held last week with Hungarian leaders in Budapest rather than the gathering of the world's more than 90 Communist parties which Soviet ideologist Mikhail Suslov proposed.

Direct talks now begin with the Poles. The Hungarians gave Khrushchev full public support against the Chinese.

Migrant Worker Gets Suspended Sentence

Accused of cutting a woman during a quarrel late Saturday night in a house on the Coy Farm, South Road, Clintondale, Eugene Johnson, 52, a migrant farm worker, was arrested by Highland State Police on a second degree assault charge.

Trooper John Salters, who investigated with BCI Investigator Richard Ryan and Trooper G. W. Zappolo, said Johnson and Anna Mae Kimbrough, who also resides on the farm, engaged in a fight. The woman allegedly threw a beer bottle at Johnson, and he was accused of cutting her on the back with a beer can opener.

An ambulance was summoned from Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, and a physician treated the injured woman.

Johnson was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker. With consent of Assistant District Attorney Joseph Torraca, Johnson was permitted to plead guilty to a reduced charge of third degree assault. Judge Baker suspended a 90-day jail sentence.

Samsonville Summer Home Burglarized

A burglary of the Samsonville summer home of Theodore Ruhman of Belrose, L. I., is under investigation by Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone. The house, located on Sheldon Hill Road, had apparently been the target of someone with a "B-B" gun. Several of the windows were shot out and it was reported about two dozen men's and women's underwear was missing along with a quantity of shells and a table TV set.

The burglary had been committed some time since the latter part of March when the Ruhman family last visited the premises.

Assisting in the investigation are Deputy Sheriffs Robert Doran and Burt Wolven.

Kingston Savings Bank College Student Loans

Kingston Savings Bank has made 37 college student loans worth $44,860 as of March 1, 1964, compared to 39 loans worth $29,492 on the same date a year ago, it has been announced by Lloyd R. LeFever, president.

The bank, because of its interest in higher education, has donated its booth space at the current Lions Club Home and Auto Show to the Ulster County Community College.

LeFever said that the student loans went to students qualifying under the New York State Higher Education Assistance Corporation program. He pointed out that students participating in this statewide financing program pay no interest until they complete their studies, and then they repay the loans at a simple interest rate of three per cent annually.

LeFever said the student loan activity of Kingston Savings Bank contributed to the total of NYHEAC loans made by the savings banks in New York state. He noted that Dr. Austin S. Murphy, managing director of the Savings Banks Association of New York State, recently reported that over 36,700 college student loans worth $27,990,000 have been made by the savings banks of state, as of March 1.

Polish Leaders Are At Parley on China

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP)—Polish Communist leaders arrived in Moscow today for talks to strengthen Premier Khrushchev in his bitter dispute with the Chinese Communists.

Polish Communist party boss Wladyslaw Gomulka said on his arrival with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz that the Polish and Soviet Communist parties "have the same views of the tasks of the Socialist camp, of the strategy and tactics of the international movement."

Any actions directed against the unity of Communist countries "are harmful and irresponsible," Gomulka said.

The Poles support Khrushchev against Red China, but they have been reluctant to go along with a Kremlin proposal for a showdown conference of world Communist parties.

Denounces Chinese

In his television speech Sunday night, Khrushchev denounced the Chinese as "splitters" of the world Communist movement who eventually want to take over its leadership. He made no mention of any world meeting of communism.

Khrushchev abandoned the Soviet Communist party's claim of dominance over world communism, saying "those times have gone, never to return."

But he said the Chinese were trying to achieve the control Stalin once exercised over the Red bloc by taking a "special course which is a blend of petty bourgeois adventurism and great-power chauvinism."

Cause Much Difficulty

"The disruptive activities of the Chinese leaders have caused serious difficulties in the world Communist movement," Khrushchev admitted.

To deal with the problem, he called for direct meetings between Communist parties — as equals rather than teacher and pupil. He apparently has in mind the kind of direct talks he held last week with Hungarian leaders in Budapest rather than the gathering of the world's more than 90 Communist parties which Soviet ideologist Mikhail Suslov proposed.

Direct talks now begin with the Poles. The Hungarians gave Khrushchev full public support against the Chinese.

Migrant Worker Gets Suspended Sentence

Accused of cutting a woman during a quarrel late Saturday night in a house on the Coy Farm, South Road, Clintondale, Eugene Johnson, 52, a migrant farm worker, was arrested by Highland State Police on a second degree assault charge.

Trooper John Salters, who investigated with BCI Investigator Richard Ryan and Trooper G. W. Zappolo, said Johnson and Anna Mae Kimbrough, who also resides on the farm, engaged in a fight. The woman allegedly threw a beer bottle at Johnson, and he was accused of cutting her on the back with a beer can opener.

An ambulance was summoned from Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, and a physician treated the injured woman.

Johnson was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker. With consent of Assistant District Attorney Joseph Torraca, Johnson was permitted to plead guilty to a reduced charge of third degree assault. Judge Baker suspended a 90-day jail sentence.

Samsonville Summer Home Burglarized

A burglary of the Samsonville summer home of Theodore Ruhman of Belrose, L. I., is under investigation by Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone.

The house, located on Sheldon Hill Road, had apparently been the target of someone with a "B-B" gun. Several of the windows were shot out and it was reported about two dozen men's and women's underwear was missing along with a quantity of shells and a table TV set.

The burglary had been committed some time since the latter part of March when the Ruhman family last visited the premises.

Assisting in the investigation are Deputy Sheriffs Robert Doran and Burt Wolven.

Kingston Savings Bank College Student Loans

Kingston Savings Bank has made 37 college student loans worth $44,860 as of March 1, 1964, compared to 39 loans worth $29,492 on the same date a year ago, it has been announced by Lloyd R. LeFever, president.

The bank, because of its interest in higher education, has donated its booth space at the current Lions Club Home and Auto Show to the Ulster County Community College.

LeFever said that the student loans went to students qualifying under the New York State Higher Education Assistance Corporation program. He pointed out that students participating in this statewide financing program pay no interest until they complete their studies, and then they repay the loans at a simple interest rate of three per cent annually.

LeFever said the student loan activity of Kingston Savings Bank contributed to the total of NYHEAC loans made by the savings banks in New York state. He noted that Dr. Austin S. Murphy, managing director of the Savings Banks Association of New York State, recently reported that over 36,700 college student loans worth $27,990,000 have been made by the savings banks of state, as of March 1.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, April 13, the 104th day of 1964. There are 262 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1830, President Andrew Jackson offered a toast that was to live in history. A South Carolina states right group had planned a dinner ostensibly to honor Thomas Jefferson, but really to embarrass Jackson. But "Old Hickory" was ready for the occasion with his toast, "Our Federal Union. It must be preserved."

On this date:

In 1743, President Thomas Jefferson was born in Abemarle County, Va.

In 1818, the United States flag as finally approved by Congress was first raised over the House of Representatives.

In 1891, the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America was incorporated.

In 1931, German forces occupied Yugoslavia's capital, Belgrade.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt dedicated the Jefferson Memorial in Washington.

Ten years ago — Australian Prime Minister Robert Menzies announced that Soviet Embassy official Vladimir Petrov had been granted political asylum after disclosing the existence of a Soviet spy ring in Australia.

Five years ago—The United States, Britain and Russia resumed talks in Geneva on discontinuance of atomic tests.

One year ago—Pope John appealed for world peace in an Easter message.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As a nominee for the best supporting actress award, Dame Edith Evans will attend the Academy Awards tonight. But she takes a dim view of the whole affair.

"Why, they didn't even ask me if I wanted to be nominated," she said. "If they had, I would have said no."

Her statement is reminiscent of George C. Scott's last year, when he asked to be removed from the list of supporting actor nominees because the whole thing was "so commercial." It isn't that at all with Dame Edith.

"I simply don't like the idea of competing for something or other," she said. "Acting is not a competition, like a foot race."

It's possible that she has also soured on acting awards because of past experience. She told of winning a prize in a newspaper contest for the best acting of the year in her first movie, "The Queen of Spades." She was supposed to get a thousand pounds, but the donors reneged, arguing that the government said it would be bad for the balance of payments.

"That didn't make sense, because I would have spent it in England," she said.

She added another incident: "Some stranger came up excitedly in the street and said I had just won an acting award. Not only did I not receive it; it was never again given to anyone."

Dame Edith was named for her role as the peppery aunt in "Tom Jones," along with fellow players Diane Cilento and Joyce Redman.

A vigorous 75, she has long been one of the great ladies of the English theater and she bears her honors with dignity.

She was named dame of the British Empire in 1946 by George VI.

State Motor Fuel Tax Receipts Are Shared by County

Ulster county has received $151,225.90 as its share of the distribution of $6,218,813.30 in state motor fuel tax receipts to the 57 counties outside of New York City, for the three-month period ending March 31.

The county's share is $24,399.63 less than the $175,625.53 received for the three-month period ending March 31 1963.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, who announced the distribution of the motor fuel tax receipts, noted that the amount distributed in April of 1963 was $7,222,191.57, or $1,003,378.27 less than this year's total.

Amounts received by other counties in this area follow: (the first amount is for the three-month period ending March 31, 1963 and the second is for the period ending March 31, 1964.

Greene — $93,355.98 - $80,386.04; Columbia—$105,325.30 $90,692.47; Delaware — $197,824.15 - $170,304.46; Dutchess — $142,479.85 - $122,685.14; Orange —$157,889.17 - $135,953.64.

The law provides that 10 per cent of the statewide collection of the state's gasoline tax and the tax on diesel motor fuel are allotted to the counties on the proportional basis of county road and town highway mileage in each county. The money is ear-marked by statute for deposit in the county road funds.

NO MAILING TIME

The Post Office Department, whose annual operating deficits are as regular an event as the blossoming of the cherry trees around the Tidal Basin, is usually fair game for criticism concerning its service to the public.

Yet one recent innovation by the department has gone virtually unnoticed. Beginning February 1, the department stopped putting the mailing time inside the little postmark circle.

Rep. Abner W. Sibal, Connecticut Republican, is about the only person in or out of government who has questioned this move. In a letter to the Christian Science Monitor, the congressman states that the timed postmark was not only a traditional service to the public but an important aid to many businesses and in many legal processes, as well as a necessity for election officials validating absentee ballots (which must be mailed by specified times).

One also wonders what mail-contest judges will do when, in the event of a tie, "the entry with the earliest postmark will be the winner."

Rep. Sibal protested to the Post Office Department "to no avail" and could not even find out how much money the alleged economy move was supposed to save.

When a member of the U.S. Congress is frustrated and reduced to writing letters to the editor, what of the rest of us?

TEEN-AGE SMOKING

Efforts by health authorities to discourage cigarette smoking among teen-agers have depended heavily on what might be called the "just-give-me-the-facts,—Ma'am" approach. The idea has been that if only young people could be convinced that smoking was a long-term threat to their health, they would quit the habit or never start it.

This approach has had some success. It ought to be continued. The facts about the linkage between excessive smoking and the incidence of lung cancer and other diseases, as set forth in the federal report, are a powerful weapon.

Merely telling young people that smoking is bad for them is not enough, however. Most parents of teen-agers will attest that the younger generation (in common, be it noted, with other younger generations that preceded it) can muster a lot of resistance to sound advice. Also, social pressure to smoke is so strong that many an intelligent boy or girl succumbs despite awareness of the health dangers.

The thing, then, is to bolster the factual approach with efforts to make smoking less "the thing to do." This pertinent comment is cited by Emil Corwin of the American Cancer Society in a PTA Magazine article: "If you could get glamorous young ladies objecting to the stale tobacco smell of their boy friends, you would change the habits of a nation more quickly than all the cancer statistics in the world."

That underlines a basic truth about cigarette smoking among the young. Many of them start it because they think smoking is glamorous, sophisticated, a sign of maturity. If they can be disabused of such ridiculous notions, the facts about the menace to health will fall on much more fertile ground.

CRIME PAYS—FOR VICTIM

The Welfare State, casting about for more things to do to make life more agreeable and secure for its citizens, has discovered a hitherto neglected area of social injustice.

Following the example of New Zealand, Britain has begun an experimental program whereby the victims of violent crimes will be financially compensated, at least in part, by the government. (Property losses will not be compensated and if the victim is later awarded damages by a court, he must repay the government.)

Some objections have been raised about minor aspects of the plan, but it has been generally hailed as a worth-while measure.

Crime still does not pay, but perhaps this will change now in Britain, at least for the victim.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

REPORTERS DON'T LIE

The veracity and taste of reporters who took notes on conversations with General MacArthur ten years ago for subsequent release to posterity have been called into question. But the reporters don't need to worry about corroboration, for others besides themselves heard MacArthur outline his views on men and events, though not necessarily for authorized direct quotation at any time.

Does it come as a complete surprise to the current reading public that MacArthur suspected that somebody was tipping Western decisions in the Korean War to the Red Chinese? Or that he had suggested using atomic materials and bombs to end the war against the Chinese and North Koreans? Or that he considered officials in Washington, both military and political, to be "fools" and "timid men"?

The fact is that MacArthur was only discreet in his stipulations that he must not be quoted directly without authorization. I know this because of the limitations which he put upon General Charles A. Willoughby when the forceful and competent G-2 officer who was with him from the Philippines all the way to Korea was making a book out of papers from the MacArthur intelligence files. Some of the indirect reflections of MacArthur's thinking which Willoughby was permitted to use are extremely revealing today, and they back up the recently published revelations of reporters Jim Lucas and Bob Consodine.

Eleven years ago General Willoughby outlined MacArthur's proposal for finishing off the Chinese Communists in North Korea. "For psychological as well as other reasons," so Willoughby wrote, "MacArthur proposed by constant thrusts to regain the Seoul line for a base of operation from which to clear North Korea of enemy forces. This could be accomplished through the air destruction of enemy concentration and installations, the closing of major lines of enemy supply and communication through the sowing of defensive fields of suitable radioactive materials available as by-products of atomic manufacture . . ."

The important thing about this revelation that MacArthur was considering the use of radioactive material is not that Willoughby wrote it, but that MacArthur passed upon it, as he did in the case of every other word in the Willoughby book. I know about MacArthur's "editing," for as Willoughby's collaborator I was sometimes blue-pencilled.

As for the Red Chinese access to Western diplomatic and military decisions, Willoughby quoted some staff notes set down after MacArthur's Wake Island meeting with President Truman. "How little did MacArthur realize," so that quotation reads, "that by one process or another it would be conveyed to the Red Chinese that even though they entered the fray in large forces, it would be under the sanctuary of being immune from any destructive action . . . that not even to save the lives of our men or insure the safety of our army would we permit the air force to drop the atom bomb on military targets . . . that the Red Chinese commander apparently knew such a decision would be forthcoming while General MacArthur did not, represents one of the blackest pages ever recorded."

General MacArthur read that and okayed it for publication, too. He was convinced that the Red Chinese entered the war because they knew it would be fought on their terms.

The "fools" and "timid men" in Washington almost prevented MacArthur from undertaking the amphibious operation at Inchon, which flanked the North Koreans and kept the UN forces from being pushed out of South Korea entirely. The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Omar Bradley, has said that amphibious operations were obsolete, and, according to Willoughby's statement ,which MacArthur passed, "the Chief of Staff, General Collins, and the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Sherman, had flown on a special mission to Tokyo for the express purpose of persuading MacArthur against this operation."

Thus, though controversies will probably continue about the exact shading of certain pungent expressions attributed to MacArthur, the history that is written by participants and by historians will back up the reporters. Our journalists may err at times by taking sides in political fights, but they do not make things up out of whole cloth.

THE WELL CHILD

Mother's Milk Dries Up If Formula Is Introduced

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Since writing recently about unexplained deaths of babies in their cribs, several readers have berated me. I recommended that, when an allergy to cow's milk is suspected, the baby be fed goat's milk or soybean milk. These readers say I should have recommended breast feeding.

In the past I have strongly urged that mothers nurse their babies. But when for any reason a mother switches to formula feeding, her milk supply dries up. When this happens, she cannot switch back again.

Q—I have three children, ages 18 to 48 months. I give them fluorides with candy coated vitamins on the recommendation of our dentist. Since none of the children have their permanent teeth yet, how will the fluoride help them? Are fluorides still in the experimental stage?

A—Fluorides are definitely not in the experimental stage. In communities where the local water supply contains less than .7 parts per million of fluoride, a supplement should be given to children throughout the period of tooth formation. It is of no benefit to adults or children whose permanent teeth are completely formed. Since your children should get plenty of vitamins in their diet there is no need to give combined tablets.

Plain sodium fluoride tablets are available. These must be stored out of the children's reach.

For children under 2, a single 2.2 milligram tablet should be added to each quart of drinking water and for preparing formulas and other food. For children from 2 to 3, every second day you should add one such tablet to one drink of water or fruit juice. For children over 3, give one tablet every day in water or juice.

Q—What happens to the brain or heart when a child has a convulsion? Can a child have a convulsion when his temperature is normal? Could a child die or have brain damage in a conculsion? What causes them?

A—Convulsions are due to many causes. The commonest of these is epilepsy and high fever at the onset of an infection. With epileptic convulsions there would be no fever. Brain tumor and water on the brain may cause convulsions. But the convulsion itself would not cause brain damage usless the child fell on his head during the seizure and suffered a concussion or skull fracture.

Since some causes of convulsions could be fatal, you should call your doctor if your child has one. Keep the child quiet and apply an ice bag or cold cloth to his forehead while you are waiting for the doctor to arrive.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — King Hussein I, the 29-year-old ruler of Jordan, visiting the United States through April 23, likes to take chances. He's a first-rate pilot who has flown everything from helicopters to jet fighters and a former race car driver who once drove the 55 miles from Amman to Jerusalem in less than 40 minutes.

In 11 years as king of Jordan, Hussein has survived nine attempts on his life.

Despite the hazards of Middle East politics, he believes in living close to his subjects. In the first year of his reign, he gave security guards fits by sneaking from the palace at night to wander the streets of Amman by himself, disguised as an Arab taxi driver.

KING HUSSEIN believes in informality whenever possible, remembers with fondness the shouted greetings of "Howdy, king!" and "What d'yah say, king!" from American crowds during earlier visits to this country in 1959 and 1960.

Hussein likes to tell one about the son of his flying instructor, RAF Wing-Commander Jock Dalgleish. Dalgleish had carefully coached son Bruce to greet Hussein with a waist bow and the words, "How do you do, Your Majesty."

When the pair met, though, Bruce forgot his lines. After a tortured moment of anguish, the boy's face brightened. Walking up to Hussein, he thrust out his hand and said: "Hullo, king."

CRAIG TRUAX, Pennsylvania Republican chairman, was concerned when word leaked out of a secret meeting of "big corporation" public relations men on a possible build-up of Gov. William Scranton's presidential prospects.

Mulling over the old one to the effect there are really no secrets in politics, Truax commented:

"They say the only way to keep a secret is to have a meeting of a committee of three with two members absent."

SINCE A JET AIRBASE was built near Plattsburg, N. Y., Sen. Ken Keating, R—N. Y. has received many letters from area residents complaining of sonic booms. Last week, a Plattsburg woman offered Keating this solution:

"I don't understand what all the fuss over noise abatement is about. If planes keep crashing into the sound barrier, why don't they just take the sound barrier down?"

EVERYBODY KNOWS by now that Republican leaders, appraising Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as a campaigner and presidential prospect, generally mutter derisively about his habit of taking two-hour naps in mid-afternoon in the 1960 campaign.

It was more than just the siesta itself that bugged one such leader. Asked recently for fresh comment on Lodge's 1964 chances, he fairly exploded:

"He took a long nap every campaign day—in his pajamas!"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

It was 2 a. m. The lights were low. The customers weren't. A girl in a white gown sat behind the bar scratching a piano's back. She cried little sad songs of love. Buddy Hackett stirred a scotch by pushing a cube in circles. Irving Cowan looked down at his drink, the tired executive's computer. In a corner of the La Petite, a waitress in a tiny skirt and opera length net stockings waited for the clock to tire.

Hackett was talking about a movie he had made in Hungary. He had finished his final show at the Diplomat Hotel, and he no longer had to be funny. Cowan had completed his day as president of the hotel, and no longer had to be serious. They drank their drinks slowly, like men who want to do more thinking than talking.

"It's called The Golden Head," said Buddy. "It's about Saint Lazlo. I bet you never even heard of Saint Lazlo." Irving looked up and put his nolo contendre smile. "Well," said Buddy, "he was a Hungarian saint, so when Cinerama shot the picture —where else?"

"Did you like Hungary?" Cowan said. The comedian, who is rare because he is loyal and lovable and not eaten by ambition, said that he feels nostalgic every time he thinks of Budapest. He cannot understand this because Hungary is Communist. He was there four months. He took his wife and children, and Tina, the Negro maid.

He told Cowan about it, and the hotel executive sipped and listened. "They have a credo in Hungary," Hackett said. "Everybody has a job, but nobody works. The men average eight American dollars a week. They get paid in florins, and the florins are peculiar because the government gives 11 of them to the dollar, the banks give 23 to the dollar, the stores give 30 to the dollar, and the Russians exchange them with the American legation at 48 to the dollar."

'A nice stable currency," Irving said. He flagged the waitress, who stopped fighting the clock long enough to order a scotch. There are no Russian soldiers in Budapest, Hackett said. Since the Hungarian uprising, they remain in the small towns around the capital. No citizen owns an automobile. The government owns all cars, and all taxis. There is some private business, but it can grow no larger than a family can operate by itself with no more than one outside employee.

All the stately buildings in Budapest are pocked with shell holes. The Germans hit it, the Russians hit it, then the Hungarians hit it as they begged the United Nations to help them gain their freedom. The U. N. was deaf and impotent.

Some Catholic churches are open. Hungarian Catholics attend a different church each Sunday so that, if secret police are making pictures, they never see the same faces. To be a practicing Catholic is to be an enemy of the state. Everyone carries an identification card with name, occupation, home and state status on it.

The state police confiscate the passports of all visitors. They hold them for 24 hours of investigation. Last August 31st Hackett was 39 years of age. His wife gave him a big party at the Gelliert Hotel, where all bugs are in the form of hidden microphones. Many Hungarians attended. They were poor people with generous hearts. Some brought a single flower. One man gave an eyeglass case. A dozen brought tiny ashtrays.

Hackett sat with them, stood with them, sang with them, told funny stories through a slow interpreter, drank their most muscled booze, and got chipper in the morning to taunt them in their death throes. They were astonished that anyone could outdrink them, and they called him "Isson Oktato," — Professor of Drinking.

Day after day, and night after night, Hackett saw the truck full of secret police standing at the curb in front of the American Legation. It has been there for eight years, waiting for Cardinal Mindszenty to come out. The Kadar government offered him a chance to go to Rome, but the slender man with the gray face declined. "My place is in Hungary," he said. Now the wolves wait for the shepherd. They already have the lambs.

"Our maid, Tina, made quite a hit," Hackett said. "The Hungarians seldom see a Negro, so, when she had dinner with us and the kids, they watched from around pillars and potted palms. I told her she was a celebrity in Budapest and I asked if she would like to live there. She didn't even smile. 'I'll take Alabama any day,' she said."

"Bring back any souvenirs?" Cowan said. Hackett smiled and stood. He stretched. "Yeah," he said softly. " He's 19 years old. Jewish. The kid needs a break, so I signed all the papers and went through all the red tape and got him out. He's living in my house now."

Cowan studied the comedian, as though seeing him for the first time. "Funny thing," Buddy Hackett said. "After four months, I got the boy to Vienna. We took a cab to the American Embassy. When I saw the American flag I broke. I started to cry."

"The boy has a funny accent. 'Mos be a great conntry,' he said, 'that makes the eyes to wet.' "

National Rail Strike Case Has Congressional Angle

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — With all the talk about Civil Rights and the importance of equal opportunity in employment, particularly in businesses affected by interstate commerce, it is an incredible fact of American life that overnight, the entire rail-transportation system of the country today can be halted, and untold loss inflicted on innocent citizens and their properties, while large-scale unemployment is forced upon the nation.

Congress is fully authorized under the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution to regulate the operations of the railroads. But Congress, for political reasons, shies away from regulatory legislation on rail stoppages and lets the nation be subject to threat after threat of a strike that could paralyze the whole economy.

President Johnson last week persuaded the railroad companies and the unions to negotiate for 15 days, but it will come as a surprise to most people that nothing has been done heretofore by Congress or by the President to forbid, at all times, any action by private companies or unions engaged in interstate commerce which can bring such a catastrophe to the American people.

Perhaps in the next few days, if the negotiations fail, the President will appear before Congress, as other Presidents have done, to ask for remedial legislation. The very absence of such an alternative to a rail strike is a contributing factor to extreme tactics in labor-management negotiations.

The U. S. Commerce Department has dramatically summed up the "irreparable injury" to the United States economy that would ensue if a nation-wide rail strike occurred. Here are the main points in the official forecast:

1. Mines, factories, construction sites and retail stores would be closed.

2. There would be serious shortages of food and medical supplies.

3. Unemployment would be raised threefold, putting 15 per cent of the nation's workers out of jobs.

4. The country's production of goods and services would be cut four times as badly as it was in the 1957-1958 recession.

5. Injury to the economy would begin on the first day that 700,000 railroad workers would be idled.

6. The first industry to shut down would be coal mining, since there would be no means to move coal to destination. This means that steel mills and factories would feel the effects.

7. Manufacturers of automobiles and heavy machinery would be unable to ship goods.

8. There would be no railroad freights cars to carry food. Meatpacking plants would have to shut down as soon as supplies were exhausted.

9. Farmers would lose much of their crops.

10. Most cities have only 30 to 60-day inventories of medical supplies.

11. Numerous health problems would be created, because there are not enough trucks available to move liquid chlorine that cities need to treat sewage and purify drinking water.

12. Approximately 15 to 30 per cent of all construction projects, including defense work, would be shut down after 30 days.

13. Mails would be indefinitely delayed, causing many hardships in the operations of business.

All of the foregoing factors were fully described by the Department of Commerce when a rail strike was threatened last summer. Yet, in the face of such a grim sequence, the Administration here has not taken any precentive action but has relied on the two sides to get together and work out a deal.

A year ago, when a national rail strike was threatened, Congress prescribed a formula — namely, compulsory arbitration on several but not all issues. The rail unions, however, have insisted on carrying the matter to the courts. Though they have lost in court after court and their case has not yet been finally decided by the Supreme Court of the United States, a strike was nevertheless called last week against the Illinois Central Railroad. This, in turn, provoked the threat of a nation-wide strike.

There are many hardships involved in eliminating the jobs of 30,000 firemen, as required by the arbitration board's ruling, but the United States government could certainly find some kind of subsidy for the problem, just as it does in foreign aid.

Already there have been some losses because of the threat of a strike last week. Several trains were canceled and damage was done to many businesses.

Meanwhile, because of the fear of losing labor-union votes, members of Congress are hesitant to act. Congress seems to be willing to worry about the effect on interstate commerce of discriminatory hiring practices, but it isn't ready to come to grips with the discrimination against millions of innocent citizens who are deprived of goods, services and jobs as well as transportation.

The power of national labor unions to paralyze the transportation system constitutes a monopoly, just as the power of the railroads, joined together in common action to resist a nation-wide strike of the rail unions, is also a monopoly. Government control of monopolies has been sporadic. Now that the public interest is really in danger, it remains to be seen whether the welfare of the American people as a whole, as opposed to the special interest of private groups, will be given due consideration.

NO MAILING TIME

The Post Office Department, whose annual operating deficits are as regular an event as the blossoming of the cherry trees around the Tidal Basin, is usually fair game for criticism concerning its service to the public.

Yet one recent innovation by the department has gone virtually unnoticed. Beginning February 1, the department stopped putting the mailing time inside the little postmark circle.

Rep. Abner W. Sibal, Connecticut Republican, is about the only person in or out of government who has questioned this move. In a letter to the Christian Science Monitor, the congressman states that the timed postmark was not only a traditional service to the public but an important aid to many businesses and in many legal processes, as well as a necessity for election officials validating absentee ballots (which must be mailed by specified times).

One also wonders what mail-contest judges will do when, in the event of a tie, "the entry with the earliest postmark will be the winner."

Rep. Sibal protested to the Post Office Department "to no avail" and could not even find out how much money the alleged economy move was supposed to save.

When a member of the U.S. Congress is frustrated and reduced to writing letters to the editor, what of the rest of us?

TEEN-AGE SMOKING

Efforts by health authorities to discourage cigarette smoking among teen-agers have depended heavily on what might be called the "just-give-me-the-facts,—Ma'am" approach. The idea has been that if only young people could be convinced that smoking was a long-term threat to their health, they would quit the habit or never start it.

This approach has had some success. It ought to be continued. The facts about the linkage between excessive smoking and the incidence of lung cancer and other diseases, as set forth in the federal report, are a powerful weapon.

Merely telling young people that smoking is bad for them is not enough, however. Most parents of teen-agers will attest that the younger generation (in common, be it noted, with other younger generations that preceded it) can muster a lot of resistance to sound advice. Also, social pressure to smoke is so strong that many an intelligent boy or girl succumbs despite awareness of the health dangers.

The thing, then, is to bolster the factual approach with efforts to make smoking less "the thing to do." This pertinent comment is cited by Emil Corwin of the American Cancer Society in a PTA Magazine article: "If you could get glamorous young ladies objecting to the stale tobacco smell of their boy friends, you would change the habits of a nation more quickly than all the cancer statistics in the world."

That underlines a basic truth about cigarette smoking among the young. Many of them start it because they think smoking is glamorous, sophisticated, a sign of maturity. If they can be disabused of such ridiculous notions, the facts about the menace to health will fall on much more fertile ground.

CRIME PAYS—FOR VICTIM

The Welfare State, casting about for more things to do to make life more agreeable and secure for its citizens, has discovered a hitherto neglected area of social injustice.

Following the example of New Zealand, Britain has begun an experimental program whereby the victims of violent crimes will be financially compensated, at least in part, by the government. (Property losses will not be compensated and if the victim is later awarded damages by a court, he must repay the government.)

Some objections have been raised about minor aspects of the plan, but it has been generally hailed as a worth-while measure.

Crime still does not pay, but perhaps this will change now in Britain, at least for the victim.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

REPORTERS DON'T LIE

The veracity and taste of reporters who took notes on conversations with General MacArthur ten years ago for subsequent release to posterity have been called into question. But the reporters don't need to worry about corroboration, for others besides themselves heard MacArthur outline his views on men and events, though not necessarily for authorized direct quotation at any time.

Does it come as a complete surprise to the current reading public that MacArthur suspected that somebody was tipping Western decisions in the Korean War to the Red Chinese? Or that he had suggested using atomic materials and bombs to end the war against the Chinese and North Koreans? Or that he considered officials in Washington, both military and political, to be "fools" and "timid men"?

The fact is that MacArthur was only discreet in his stipulations that he must not be quoted directly without authorization. I know this because of the limitations which he put upon General Charles A. Willoughby when the forceful and competent G-2 officer who was with him from the Philippines all the way to Korea was making a book out of papers from the MacArthur intelligence files. Some of the indirect reflections of MacArthur's thinking which Willoughby was permitted to use are extremely revealing today, and they back up the recently published revelations of reporters Jim Lucas and Bob Consodine.

Eleven years ago General Willoughby outlined MacArthur's proposal for finishing off the Chinese Communists in North Korea. "For psychological as well as other reasons," so Willoughby wrote, "MacArthur proposed by constant thrusts to regain the Seoul line for a base of operation from which to clear North Korea of enemy forces. This could be accomplished through the air destruction of enemy concentration and installations, the closing of major lines of enemy supply and communication through the sowing of defensive fields of suitable radioactive materials available as by-products of atomic manufacture . . ."

The important thing about this revelation that MacArthur was considering the use of radioactive material is not that Willoughby wrote it, but that MacArthur passed upon it, as he did in the case of every other word in the Willoughby book. I know about MacArthur's "editing," for as Willoughby's collaborator I was sometimes blue-pencilled.

As for the Red Chinese access to Western diplomatic and military decisions, Willoughby quoted some staff notes set down after MacArthur's Wake Island meeting with President Truman. "How little did MacArthur realize," so that quotation reads, "that by one process or another it would be conveyed to the Red Chinese that even though they entered the fray in large forces, it would be under the sanctuary of being immune from any destructive action . . . that not even to save the lives of our men or insure the safety of our army would we permit the air force to drop the atom bomb on military targets . . . that the Red Chinese commander apparently knew such a decision would be forthcoming while General MacArthur did not, represents one of the blackest pages ever recorded."

General MacArthur read that and okayed it for publication, too. He was convinced that the Red Chinese entered the war because they knew it would be fought on their terms.

The "fools" and "timid men" in Washington almost prevented MacArthur from undertaking the amphibious operation at Inchon, which flanked the North Koreans and kept the UN forces from being pushed out of South Korea entirely. The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Omar Bradley, has said that amphibious operations were obsolete, and, according to Willoughby's statement ,which MacArthur passed, "the Chief of Staff, General Collins, and the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Sherman, had flown on a special mission to Tokyo for the express purpose of persuading MacArthur against this operation."

Thus, though controversies will probably continue about the exact shading of certain pungent expressions attributed to MacArthur, the history that is written by participants and by historians will back up the reporters. Our journalists may err at times by taking sides in political fights, but they do not make things up out of whole cloth.

Mother's Milk Dries Up If Formula Is Introduced

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Since writing recently about unexplained deaths of babies in their cribs, several readers have berated me. I recommended that, when an allergy to cow's milk is suspected, the baby be fed goat's milk or soybean milk. These readers say I should have recommended breast feeding.

In the past I have strongly urged that mothers nurse their babies. But when for any reason a mother switches to formula feeding, her milk supply dries up. When this happens, she cannot switch back again.

Q—I have three children, ages 18 to 48 months. I give them fluorides with candy coated vitamins on the recommendation of our dentist. Since none of the children have their permanent teeth yet, how will the fluoride help them? Are fluorides still in the experimental stage?

A—Fluorides are definitely not in the experimental stage. In communities where the local water supply contains less than .7 parts per million of fluoride, a supplement should be given to children throughout the period of tooth formation. It is of no benefit to adults or children whose permanent teeth are completely formed. Since your children should get plenty of vitamins in their diet there is no need to give combined tablets.

Plain sodium fluoride tablets are available. These must be stored out of the children's reach.

For children under 2, a single 2.2 milligram tablet should be added to each quart of drinking water and for preparing formulas and other food. For children from 2 to 3, every second day you should add one such tablet to one drink of water or fruit juice. For children over 3, give one tablet every day in water or juice.

Q—What happens to the brain or heart when a child has a convulsion? Can a child have a convulsion when his temperature is normal? Could a child die or have brain damage in a conculsion? What causes them?

A—Convulsions are due to many causes. The commonest of these is epilepsy and high fever at the onset of an infection. With epileptic convulsions there would be no fever. Brain tumor and water on the brain may cause convulsions. But the convulsion itself would not cause brain damage usless the child fell on his head during the seizure and suffered a concussion or skull fracture.

Since some causes of convulsions could be fatal, you should call your doctor if your child has one. Keep the child quiet and apply an ice bag or cold cloth to his forehead while you are waiting for the doctor to arrive.

Hackett was talking about a movie he had made in Hungary. He had finished his final show at the Diplomat Hotel, and he no longer had to be funny. Cowan had completed his day as president of the hotel, and no longer had to be serious. They drank their drinks slowly, like men who want to do more thinking than talking.

"It's called The Golden Head," said Buddy. "It's about Saint Lazlo. I bet you never even heard of Saint Lazlo." Irving looked up and put his nolo contendre smile. "Well," said Buddy, "he was a Hungarian saint, so when Cinerama shot the picture —where else?"

"Did you like Hungary?" Cowan said. The comedian, who is rare because he is loyal and lovable and not eaten by ambition, said that he feels nostalgic every time he thinks of Budapest. He cannot understand this because Hungary is Communist. He was there four months. He took his wife and children, and Tina, the Negro maid.

He told Cowan about it, and the hotel executive sipped and listened. "They have a credo in Hungary," Hackett said. "Everybody has a job, but nobody works. The men average eight American dollars a week. They get paid in florins, and the florins are peculiar because the government gives 11 of them to the dollar, the banks give 23 to the dollar, the stores give 30 to the dollar, and the Russians exchange them with the American legation at 48 to the dollar."

'A nice stable currency," Irving said. He flagged the waitress, who stopped fighting the clock long enough to order a scotch. There are no Russian soldiers in Budapest, Hackett said. Since the Hungarian uprising, they remain in the small towns around the capital. No citizen owns an automobile. The government owns all cars, and all taxis. There is some private business, but it can grow no larger than a family can operate by itself with no more than one outside employee.

All the stately buildings in Budapest are pocked with shell holes. The Germans hit it, the Russians hit it, then the Hungarians hit it as they begged the United Nations to help them gain their freedom. The U. N. was deaf and impotent.

Some Catholic churches are open. Hungarian Catholics attend a different church each Sunday so that, if secret police are making pictures, they never see the same faces. To be a practicing Catholic is to be an enemy of the state. Everyone carries an identification card with name, occupation, home and state status on it.

The state police confiscate the passports of all visitors. They hold them for 24 hours of investigation. Last August 31st Hackett was 39 years of age. His wife gave him a big party at the Gelliert Hotel, where all bugs are in the form of hidden microphones. Many Hungarians attended. They were poor people with generous hearts. Some brought a single flower. One man gave an eyeglass case. A dozen brought tiny ashtrays.

Hackett sat with them, stood with them, sang with them, told funny stories through a slow interpreter, drank their most muscled booze, and got chipper in the morning to taunt them in their death throes. They were astonished that anyone could outdrink them, and they called him "Isson Oktato," — Professor of Drinking.

Day after day, and night after night, Hackett saw the truck full of secret police standing at the curb in front of the American Legation. It has been there for eight years, waiting for Cardinal Mindszenty to come out. The Kadar government offered him a chance to go to Rome, but the slender man with the gray face declined. "My place is in Hungary," he said. Now the wolves wait for the shepherd. They already have the lambs.

"Our maid, Tina, made quite a hit," Hackett said. "The Hungarians seldom see a Negro, so, when she had dinner with us and the kids, they watched from around pillars and potted palms. I told her she was a celebrity in Budapest and I asked if she would like to live there. She didn't even smile. 'I'll take Alabama any day,' she said."

"Bring back any souvenirs?" Cowan said. Hackett smiled and stood. He stretched. "Yeah," he said softly. " He's 19 years old. Jewish. The kid needs a break, so I signed all the papers and went through all the red tape and got him out. He's living in my house now."

Cowan studied the comedian, as though seeing him for the first time. "Funny thing," Buddy Hackett said. "After four months, I got the boy to Vienna. We took a cab to the American Embassy. When I saw the American flag I broke. I started to cry."

"The boy has a funny accent. 'Mos be a great conntry,' he said, 'that makes the eyes to wet.' "

National Rail Strike Case Has Congressional Angle

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — With all the talk about Civil Rights and the importance of equal opportunity in employment, particularly in businesses affected by interstate commerce, it is an incredible fact of American life that overnight, the entire rail-transportation system of the country today can be halted, and untold loss inflicted on innocent citizens and their properties, while large-scale unemployment is forced upon the nation.

Congress is fully authorized under the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution to regulate the operations of the railroads. But Congress, for political reasons, shies away from regulatory legislation on rail stoppages and lets the nation be subject to threat after threat of a strike that could paralyze the whole economy.

President Johnson last week persuaded the railroad companies and the unions to negotiate for 15 days, but it will come as a surprise to most people that nothing has been done heretofore by Congress or by the President to forbid, at all times, any action by private companies or unions engaged in interstate commerce which can bring such a catastrophe to the American people.

Perhaps in the next few days, if the negotiations fail, the President will appear before Congress, as other Presidents have done, to ask for remedial legislation. The very absence of such an alternative to a rail strike is a contributing factor to extreme tactics in labor-management negotiations.

The U. S. Commerce Department has dramatically summed up the "irreparable injury" to the United States economy that would ensue if a nation-wide rail strike occurred. Here are the main points in the official forecast:

1. Mines, factories, construction sites and retail stores would be closed.

2. There would be serious shortages of food and medical supplies.

3. Unemployment would be raised threefold, putting 15 per cent of the nation's workers out of jobs.

4. The country's production of goods and services would be cut four times as badly as it was in the 1957-1958 recession.

5. Injury to the economy would begin on the first day that 700,000 railroad workers would be idled.

6. The first industry to shut down would be coal mining, since there would be no means to move coal to destination. This means that steel mills and factories would feel the effects.

7. Manufacturers of automobiles and heavy machinery would be unable to ship goods.

8. There would be no railroad freights cars to carry food. Meatpacking plants would have to shut down as soon as supplies were exhausted.

9. Farmers would lose much of their crops.

10. Most cities have only 30 to 60-day inventories of medical supplies.

11. Numerous health problems would be created, because there are not enough trucks available to move liquid chlorine that cities need to treat sewage and purify drinking water.

12. Approximately 15 to 30 per cent of all construction projects, including defense work, would be shut down after 30 days.

13. Mails would be indefinitely delayed, causing many hardships in the operations of business.

All of the foregoing factors were fully described by the Department of Commerce when a rail strike was threatened last summer. Yet, in the face of such a grim sequence, the Administration here has not taken any precentive action but has relied on the two sides to get together and work out a deal.

A year ago, when a national rail strike was threatened, Congress prescribed a formula — namely, compulsory arbitration on several but not all issues. The rail unions, however, have insisted on carrying the matter to the courts. Though they have lost in court after court and their case has not yet been finally decided by the Supreme Court of the United States, a strike was nevertheless called last week against the Illinois Central Railroad. This, in turn, provoked the threat of a nation-wide strike.

There are many hardships involved in eliminating the jobs of 30,000 firemen, as required by the arbitration board's ruling, but the United States government could certainly find some kind of subsidy for the problem, just as it does in foreign aid.

Already there have been some losses because of the threat of a strike last week. Several trains were canceled and damage was done to many businesses.

Meanwhile, because of the fear of losing labor-union votes, members of Congress are hesitant to act. Congress seems to be willing to worry about the effect on interstate commerce of discriminatory hiring practices, but it isn't ready to come to grips with the discrimination against millions of innocent citizens who are deprived of goods, services and jobs as well as transportation.

The power of national labor unions to paralyze the transportation system constitutes a monopoly, just as the power of the railroads, joined together in common action to resist a nation-wide strike of the rail unions, is also a monopoly. Government control of monopolies has been sporadic. Now that the public interest is really in danger, it remains to be seen whether the welfare of the American people as a whole, as opposed to the special interest of private groups, will be given due consideration.

Says Johnson Aide Advised Hiding For Baker Witness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance man who injected President Johnson's name into the Senate investigation of Bobby Baker, claims a Johnson aide tried to quiet him and Baker advised him to go into hiding.

Reynolds said these alleged muzzling attempts were made when he began cooperating with Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., whose own probe of Baker touched off the inquiry by the Senate Rules Committee. Johnson then was vice president.

Reynolds' story as given by him on the interview program "From the People," taped for broadcast by Radio Press International:

"When it (cooperating with Williams) first started I received a call from Mr. George Reedy (now White House press secretary) and he contacted me in my downtown office in Washington and informed me that he had had the president (sic) in contact with him and that possibly it would be better for me to refrain from making any statements at all. That he would release all information pertaining to the insurance on the previously Sen. Johnson."

As for Baker, Reynolds quoted the onetime Senate page boy who became secretary to the Senate Democrats and built a business fortune before resigning under a cloud last October as warning him: "You get out of town and stay out of town for a couple of weeks. He'll (Williams) get you and the rest of us into jail."

The White House declined comment on the Reynolds interview and efforts to reach Baker were unsuccessful.

Alaska Battling Floods From High Sea Spring Tides

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Quake-torn south-central Alaska coastal communities, jolted by another sharp after-shock Sunday, battled floods of sea water from high spring tides today.

The sea, pulled into high tides about this time each year by the combined attraction of the moon and sun, has been moving up into areas which sank in the disastrous earthquake of March 27.

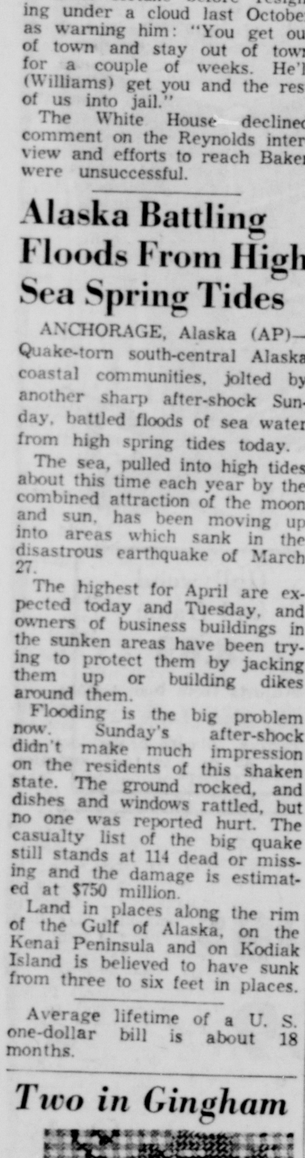

The highest for April are expected today and Tuesday, and owners of business buildings in the sunken areas have been trying to protect them by jacking them up or building dikes around them.

Flooding is the big problem now. Sunday's after-shock didn't make much impression on the residents of this shaken state. The ground rocked, and dishes and windows rattled, but no one was reported hurt. The casualty list of the big quake still stands at 114 dead or missing and the damage is estimated at $750 million.

Land in places along the rim of the Gulf of Alaska, on the Kenai Peninsula and on Kodiak Island is believed to have sunk from three to six feet in places.

Average lifetime of a U. S. one-dollar bill is about 18 months.

Blatt Backers Are Picking at Army Data of Opponent

HARRISBURG (AP) — Supporters of Genevieve Blatt once again Sunday night questioned the military background of her principal opponent for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

The scene was an organizational meeting of "Voters for Genevieve Blatt," which, sponsors said, drew about 150 persons representing 65 of 67 counties.

On hand for a news conference afterward were Miss Blatt, the secretary of internal affairs running independently for the party nomination, and her two principal supporters — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Democratic national committeewoman.

Clark and Mrs. Miller renewed their interest in the World War I military background of Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court, the organization candidate for the nomination.

Clark said Musmanno's biographers say the justice entered World War I service on Sept. 18, 1918 just a few weeks before the Armistice.

Therefore, he maintained that Musmanno could not have been a combat infantryman as his historians claim because he never left the country.

Mrs. Miller joked that if Musmanno were a veteran of the First World War, he must have been a "drummer boy at his present age of 62."

Clark was asked if Musmanno's World War I service was germaine to an election 46 years later. He replied:

"No, of course not. But his record of telling the truth to the people of Pennsylvania is important."

While Clark would not say that Musmanno could not defeat Republican incumbent Hugh Scott in November, he said he felt Miss Blatt had a better chance.

He added that he expected to support the entire Democratic ticket in November, regardless of the results of the April primary.

Miss Blatt added that she would expect the state organization to rally to her support after the primary if she wins.

Blatt Backers Are Picking at Army Data of Opponent

HARRISBURG (AP) — Supporters of Genevieve Blatt once again Sunday night questioned the military background of her principal opponent for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

The scene was an organizational meeting of "Voters for Genevieve Blatt," which, sponsors said, drew about 150 persons representing 65 of 67 counties.

On hand for a news conference afterward were Miss Blatt, the secretary of internal affairs running independently for the party nomination, and her two principal supporters — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Democratic national committeewoman.

Clark and Mrs. Miller renewed their interest in the World War I military background of Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court, the organization candidate for the nomination.

Clark said Musmanno's biographers say the justice entered World War I service on Sept. 18, 1918 just a few weeks before the Armistice.

Therefore, he maintained that Musmanno could not have been a combat infantryman as his historians claim because he never left the country.

Mrs. Miller joked that if Musmanno were a veteran of the First World War, he must have been a "drummer boy at his present age of 62."

Clark was asked if Musmanno's World War I service was germaine to an election 46 years later. He replied:

"No, of course not. But his record of telling the truth to the people of Pennsylvania is important."

While Clark would not say that Musmanno could not defeat Republican incumbent Hugh Scott in November, he said he felt Miss Blatt had a better chance.

He added that he expected to support the entire Democratic ticket in November, regardless of the results of the April primary.

Miss Blatt added that she would expect the state organization to rally to her support after the primary if she wins.

$2,500 Offered To Find Who Shot At Negro Senator

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rewards totaling $2,500 have been offered for information leading to the conviction of the person who fired five shots at Mrs. Verda Welcome, Maryland's Negro state senator.

Mrs. Welcome said Sunday night that her husband, Dr. Henry C. Welcome has offered $1,000 and Joseph Hoffman of Baltimore $500.

The Maryland chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced that it and a radio station were jointly offering a $1,000 reward.

Mrs. Welcome was nicked twice when an assailant fired five shots at her as she was returning home early Thursday. She did not require hospitalization.

Police are searching for a red - haired Negro youth who tried to break into Mrs. Welcome's home more than a week ago.

Rift Over Bath Leads To Death, Arrest

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — An argument over the use of an apartment building bathroom has led to the death of one man and the arrest of another on a charge of first - degree manslaughter.

James Jackson, 24, of Buffalo, died Saturday at Emergency Hospital of a knife wound in the chest, police reported.

A charge of first-degree manslaughter was lodged against George L. Strong, 37, also of Buffalo.

Police said Jackson was visiting his father, Thomas Jackson, Saturday, at an apartment building. His father, who wanted to use a third-floor bathroom became involved in an argument with Strong, who wanted to use it at the same time, police said.

Jackson intervened for his father, and in the struggle that followed he was stabbed by Strong, police said.

Felix, 33, of Centereach, died early today at Mather Memorial Hospital, Port Jefferson, of auto accident injuries suffered 6½ hours earlier when his car left Holbrook Road in Centereach and struck a brick wall. Demonstrations A Planned May 18th By State NAACP

NEW YORK (AP)—New York State branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People plan statewide demonstrations May 18.

Dr. Eugene T. Reed, state NAACP president, says the demonstrations will be in protest against de factor segregation in public schools.

The date for the one-day demonstrations was selected to coincide with the tenth anniversary of the May 17, 1954, U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public schools, the NAACP said. May 18, was chosen because May 17, is a Sunday and schools and most businesses will be closed.

In announcing the demonstrations Sunday, Reed said, "in some cases, it may be a boycott; in others, we may picket the offices of the school board."

Reed spoke at a news conference following the close of a two-day regional NAACP conference. The conference was attended by 600 delegates from New York State, New England, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Real Cuban Torture: Speeches by Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Making political prisoners in Cuba listen to Fidel Castro's speeches over and over is one of several means used to torture them, a former prisoner says.

Dr. Mario Robau, a physician who said he was assigned to treat fellow inmates in Havana's La Cabana Prison, said the speech treatment "breaks the prisoners' nerves."

Dr. Robau, recently arrived by way of Mexico, told a news conference Sunday that another torture was to sick German shepherd dogs on prisoners. The dogs are trained to scratch, he said.

Dr. Robau said he was imprisoned a year ago without charge and released in January.

Seizure Is Fatal To Castelton Priest

CASTLETON (AP)—The Rev. James Minehan, pastor of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church here, collapsed in the rectory Sunday after saying Mass and was dead on arrival at a hospital in Albany. He was 56.

Father Minehan was transferred to the Sacred Heart Church last year after serving five years as pastor of St. Peter's Church in Delhi. He also had served as dean of Delaware County clergy for the Albany Diocese.

Built-In 'Error'

NEW YORK (AP) — At first glance it looks like a mistake. The two 690-foot steel towers that hold up the Verrazano Narrows Bridge connecting Brooklyn with Staten Island are 1⅝ inches farther apart at the top than at the bottom. But according to Steel Facts, published by American Iron and Steel Institute, this is deliberate. It was done to compensate for the curvature of the earth. Each tower to be truly vertical must have its axis point to the center of the earth.

Something to Munch

WICHITA, Kan (AP)—There was a long line of persons at the ticket window of a Wichita movie house when a well-dressed man walked up with a large paper sack. "Want to buy an apple?" he asked one of the standees. Then he walked down the line selling apples at 10 cents each. His impeccable appearance baffled the standees but they bought all the apples he had. Then the man disappeared down the street.

The Real Birds

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Passersby at North High School in Wichita are startled by a big sign in a classroom window stating "This is for the birds." A closer look shows the sign is over a bird feeder students placed in their class window.

New West Coast Delicacy: It's A Peacock Pie?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Anyone for Pavan cristatus pie?

The next question is "what's that?" Well, it's peacock pie, for which, it seems, no one has the recipe.

Several home owners in East Pasadena had the ingredients Sunday morning when a flock of peacocks—Pavan cristati — descended on their neighborhood.

Now the peacock is a beautiful bird, except when he opens his mouth. His call, if it can be called that, is a raucus screech, resembling the sound of a disabled jet engine.

The pea hen, his mate, speaks in similar tones.

A crew from the humane society spent several hours chasing the birds. They caught one.

The rest moved to the campus of nearby Pasadena City College, where the pursuit continued.

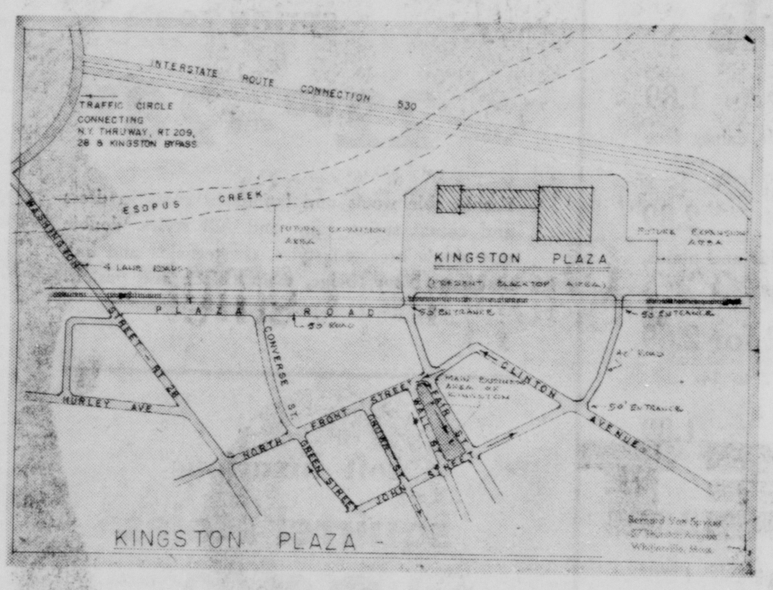

Where they came from, nobody knew, but officials suspected they were from the nearby Los Angeles State and County Arboretum.

Chihuahua Undisturbed

LOUISVILLE (AP)—"Mommy, come quick," cried one of Mrs. William Teller's children. She ran out into the yard just in time to see a neighbor's shepherd dog trying to take away a bone from Mrs. Teller's chihuahua. Finally, the bigger dog picked up the smaller animal, bone and all, and trotted away. Mrs. Teller gave chase and succeeded in rescuing her pet who immediately resumed munching on the bone she had held all along.

More than 3 million Americans play the organ today.

Veteran's Rights, Benefits are Listed

By Charles Culver, NYS Veteran Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, and John Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 4 Hurley Avenue. Office hours Monday through Friday 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

GI Insurance — Loan Provisions — Veterans holding permanent type Government insurance are advised to consider the advantages of borrowing on the cash value of their policies rather than cashing in their policy when confronted with financial emergencies. This is one of the desirable features of having a permanent type policy. Policyholders should realize that they can borrow almost as much on their permanent policy as they would get by surrendering the policy for cash and thereby keep their policy in force. They can borrow up to 94%. The important thing to remember is that once a Government insurance policy is surrendered for the full cash value, all protection ceases forever. The term insurance contracts do not provide for any loan benefits.

Records — New York State veterans may have their certificates of honorable separation from service in the United States Armed Forces at the time of war or peace recorded without charge through this office. They may also obtain a free certificate of their honorable separation certificate.

Benefits — When a veteran without adequate reason fails to report for physical examination, including periods of hospital observation, requested for pension or compensation purposes, the awards to the veteran and any dependents will be discontinued.

Taxes—New York State veterans are reminded that in order to take advantage of the State Law granting tax exemption for real property purchased with eligible funds, they would do well to establish the amount of their exemption as soon as possible. Veterans who desire to take advantage of this benefit afforded them by New York State must file a "verified" application with the local assessor on or before Grievance Day in the particular locality where the property is located.

The exemption applies to all state, county, city, town and village taxes but not to school taxes or to levies made by special districts. However, there are various restrictions and limitations to the amount a veteran can claim as exempt and to the type of funds which are eligible for application to the exemption.

Unless the veteran has already established the amount of exemption to which he is entitled, he should contact the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency office as soon as possible in order to check eligibility, procedure and limitations under the law.

Fiscal Exams Complete On 2 Fire Districts

ALBANY — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced the completion of the examination of fiscal affairs of a number of towns, villages, schools and other special districts throughout the state, including High Falls and Lomontville Fire Districts in the Town of Marbletown.

Copies of the examination reports have been sent to the clerk and other officials of the units of government examined. Since the reports are part of the public record, they are available for review by interested citizens.

A copy of each of the reports is also on file at the Department of Audit and Control in Albany and is available for publi inspection.

'Pajama Game' Still Pays

NEW YORK (AP)—Investors in three long-past Broadway shows are still reaping dividends. Checks totalling $65,000 were recently distributed by Harold Prince, producer of "The Pajama Game" (1954), "Damn Yankees" (1955) and "Take Her, She's Mine" (1961).

Biggest earner thus far is "The Pajama Game," with total profits of $1,800,000—a return of 360 per cent on the investment.

AAA Will Honor Dealer for Car Instruction Aid

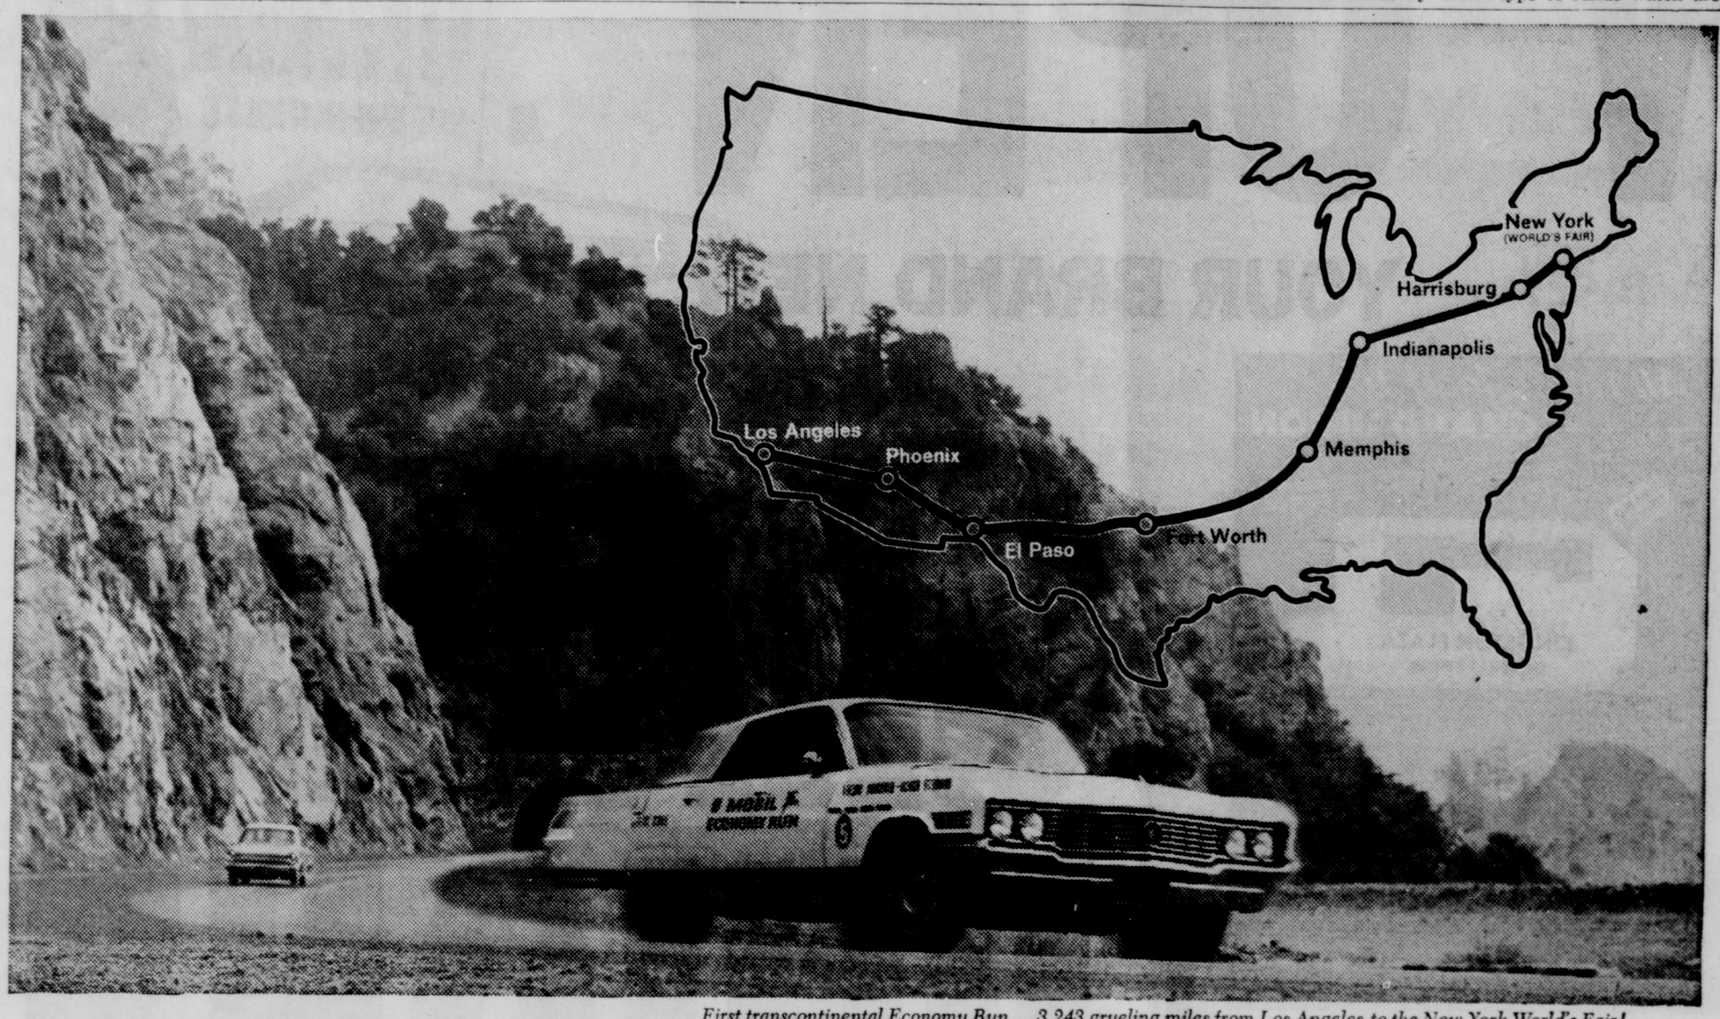

George N. Shivery, president of Old Capitol Motors Inc., which provides dual-control training cars for use in the high school driver education program at Kingston High School, will be commended by the Automobile Club of New York at a ceremony at 1 p. m. on Wednesday in the office of Dan H. Allen, KHS principal.

Martin Klein, assistant secretary of the club, will present Shivery with certificates in recognition of outstanding service to the community as well as his participation in the school driver education program. A similar certificate was presented to the school several years ago. Shivery is being commended for making "an important civic contribution to traffic safety and the reduction of accidents on the highways."

The high school driver education program, pioneered by AAA since the early 1930's, offers both behind-the-wheel and classroom instruction to teenagers.

Students passing the course, which is offered as an elective subject, receive one-half credit towards graduation and are eligible for a senior operator's license on reaching their 17th birthay and passing the state examination.

First transcontinental Economy Run... 3,243 grueling miles from Los Angeles to the New York World's Fair!

Mobil Economy Run results prove the mileage potential of Mobil gasoline in cars like yours

45 different American cars travel coast to coast in world's greatest road test of gasoline performance

The Mobil Economy Run uses cars like yours! Not "factory specials." The actual cars are picked at random by United States Auto Club officials from dealer showrooms and factory assembly lines throughout the country. USAC seals every vital part, then keeps the car under guard throughout the Run.

On roads like you drive

Not on a "test track," but on steep mountain roads, on long open spaces, in desert heat, driving rains, through the traffic of city after city—this is the route of the Mobil Economy Run. This year it stretched from coast to coast, 3,243 miles from Los Angeles to the New York World's Fair.

United States Auto Club supervised

The results are certified by the United States Auto Club. No special equipment is permitted... normal highway speeds are maintained... and every car must carry an official USAC observer at all times. But the outstanding results of this year's Economy Run demonstrate more than just the mileage potential for your car. Here's why:

Mileage is the measure of power!

The miles per gallon a gasoline gives, shows the power available for other uses—power for quick starts, fast pick-up for safety in passing, and for climbing hills. Mobil gasoline proves it has the power available for the all-round performance you want... proves it in public year after year. Try Mobil—the Economy Run Gasoline!

Not on a "test track," but on steep mountain roads, on long open spaces, in desert heat, driving rains, through the traffic of city after city—this is the route of the Mobil Economy Run. This year it stretched from coast to coast, 3,243 miles from Los Angeles to the New York World's Fair.

United States Auto Club supervised

The results are certified by the United States Auto Club. No special equipment is permitted... normal highway speeds are maintained... and every car must carry an official USAC observer at all times. But the outstanding results of this year's Economy Run demonstrate more than just the mileage potential for your car. Here's why:

Mileage is the measure of power!

The miles per gallon a gasoline gives, shows the power available for other uses—power for quick starts, fast pick-up for safety in passing, and for climbing hills. Mobil gasoline proves it has the power available for the all-round performance you want... proves it in public year after year. Try Mobil—the Economy Run Gasoline!

Dear Abby . . .

Pros and Cons

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: A few weeks ago, the following letter appeared in my column:

"Dear Abby:

"Today, while I was on a school bus, the driver hit a dog. All of us kids told him about it and he just said, 'I am aware of that.' He didn't even stop to see if the dog was dead or not. None of us kids could do a thing.

LOVES DOGS IN KOKOMO, IND."

I replied:

"DEAR LOVES DOGs:

The bus driver should have stopped and done what he could for the poor animal. Had the driver been alone, the crime would not have been less, but to have set such a poor example for the school children is inexcusable."

Hundreds of letters poured in. Here are a few:

DEAR ABBY: Are you nuts or something? A school bus driver is prohibited by law from stopping his bus and getting off to leave his bus unattended. That bus driver was only doing his job, and I think you owe him an apology.

BUS DRIVER IN MASON CITY, IA.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: That bus driver was smart to go right on instead of stopping to care for the dog he hit in the road. When I was young (and pretty stupid), I struck a dog on the highway. I stopped and tried to get the injured animal into my car so I could take him to the vet's. He was slightly mad and, in his frenzy, bit me badly on the face. I had to have 16 stitches in my cheek. That was 23 years ago, and I still carry a very ugly scar. Smart people don't go near injured animals. They report them to the proper authorities at the first opportune moment.

LEARNED A LESSON IN KENT, O.

DEAR ABBY: I love dogs, but if one gets in my way when I am driving, it's his funeral. My brother once put his brakes on suddenly to avoid hitting a dog on a highway, and he banged his mouth on the steering wheel, breaking off four healthy front teeth. He came very close to involving two other cars in what could have been a serious accident.

BURT F. IN SAN FRANCISCO

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: If that bus driver in Kokomo had stopped to investigate the injured dog, can you imagine what would have happened if some of the school children followed him out of the bus to investigate also? Perhaps the bus driver would have been responsible for a couple of dead children.

MOTHER OF SIX

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: Although the bus driver did the right thing in not stopping, I think he could have said more than, "I am aware of that" when the children told him he had hit a dog. Had he explained the accident as soon as he got the children to their destination, he would have put the children at ease and not have given them the impression that he didn't care whether he had killed a dog or not.

17 Prisoners Removed As Jail Laundry Burns

GENESEO, N. Y. (AP)—Radio communications were temporarily knocked out and 17 prisoners led to safety in a fire that swept the offices of the Livingston County Jail.

One deputy suffered minor injuries in the fire Sunday.

The fire erupted in a basement laundry room which also housed radio communications equipment. Mobile radio gear replaced the disrupted radio network.

Flames spread to the upper floors of the three-story building and the prisoners were taken from smoke-filled cells in a north wing of the jail. Twelve prisoners were taken to the Wyoming County jail at Warsaw and the remainder went to the Genesee County jail at Batavia.

The Livingston County sheriff's office established temporary operations in four vacant rooms in the nearby county court house.

No estimate of damage was available.

SWEEP INTO SPRING—Judy Lewis, taking a cue from her mother, Loretta Young, wooshes through a door in a floor-length, chiffon gown done in a brilliant red and pink floral pattern. Designer Philip Hulitar completes the costume with a long, flowing stole to match. It was shown in New York.

Senate Starts Its Sixth Week On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate starts its sixth week of battling over the civil rights bill today, with each camp contending time is on its side.

In the House, except for a $7 billion appropriation bill to be taken up Tuesday, only routine measures are on the agenda.

For members of the Senate and House alike, today's season-opening American League baseball game between Washington and Los Angeles is bound to be a irresistible attraction.

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said the ball game will not halt the Senate's civil rights debate.

He said he understands that Southern senators, leading the fight against the House-passed bill, "have a couple of long-ball speakers" ready to take the floor and keep things going until the game is over.

Humphrey, the floor manager of the bill, and Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., quarterback for the Dixie forces, agreed no vote on proposed amendments is in prospect this week.

The Southerners plan a continuing round of speeches in reply to arguments presented by the bill's backers the last two weeks.

20 Lose Their Lives In State Over Weekend

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A two-year-old boy crushed beneath the wheels of his father's automobile was the youngest of the 20 persons who lost their lives in accidents over the weekend in New York State.

All of the deaths stemmed from traffic accidents except that of a woman who was burned to death. The tally began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended Sunday midnight.

Gregory Herzog was killed Saturday when his father backed his car over the child in the family driveway Saturday in Centereach.

The fire victim was Mrs. Elizabeth M. Quaars, 70, whose body was found Saturday in an area of her yard that had been swept by a grass fire. State Police said the woman had been seen raking leaves in the rear of her home in the Wayne County community of Marion.

Brothers Are Killed

Two of those who died in traffic accidents were brothers, at Akron, James S. Mellenthien, 21, of Corfu, and his brother, Allan C. Mellenthien, 28, of Batavia, were killed when their car hit a tree Saturday.

Other deaths, by community:

Clifton Springs—Robert Cowdery, 24, of Pomeroy, Ohio, Saturday of injuries suffered Friday night in the collision of two tractor-trailers.

Discussing Rail

is the sole source of information about the bargaining and except for word that issue-by-issue bargaining was under way and that both sides were showing "a sincere desire to settle" he has been reluctant to pass on details.

It would be an "utmost exercise in futility" to try to predict an outcome, Reedy said Sunday. He did venture the view that the mediators obviously must have felt some optimism when they decided to bring the opposing parties into the same conference room.

The mediators had been shuttling from one side to the other before bringing the rail executives and brotherhood chiefs face to face Sunday afternoon. The session continued into the night.

This last-ditch round of negotiation apparently is the only possible source of solution to the tangled work rules dispute. Johnson has exhausted all presidential actions provided by existing legislation and Congress is reluctant to get entangled in the subject again.

At his news conference Saturday, the President said he is not considering any new legislation that would take the dispute out of the hands of the carriers and the unions.

Columbia Parties

County, I think the issues should be aired and that people in our country will welcome the opportunity to have their vote mean something."

Hudson attorney John G. Connor was designated at the Democratic candidate for district attorney, and George N. Hoover of Chatham for county treasurer. Louis Sacco of Greenport will be condidate for coroner and Surrogate Judge R. Waldron Herzberg, a Republican, received the Democratic endorsement for that post.

Larry Novak, of Valatie, is County Democratic chairman.

Wilson Is Named To State-Owned Lands Committee

Joseph F. Carlino, speaker of the Assembly, has reappointed Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, (R), of Woodstock as a member of the joint legislative committee on the Assessment and Taxation of State-owned Lands.

The Ulster assemblyman has been a member of the committee and is presently serving as vice-chairman.

The speaker informed Assemblyman Wilson that the reorganization of the committee will take place in Albany during the extraordinary session of the state legislature which is convening Wednesday, April 15.

Assessment practices on state-owned lands is receiving a searching inquiry by the committee. It is expected that the committee will give careful consideration to the possible economic impact on areas where assessment on taxable state lands now represents a substantial portion of the local tax base.

Record Fire Loss Last Year in Poughkeepsie

Fire Chief Irving Merrick, Poughkeepsie, said Sunday fire losses in that city last year reached a record high of $645,394.09. He noted, "It was the worst year for fire loss in the city, to my knowledge."

Chief Merrick reported two of the larger losses of 1963 occurred three days apart in January. Fire destroyed Haber's toy and bicycle shop on lower Main Street, forcing 32 occupants of apartments above the store. This occurred on Jan. 12.

Three days later, fire raced through the Von Der Linden sporting goods store at 52 Market Street, into the Aldrich and Aldrich law firm office and a district Blue Cross-Blue Shield office.

Merrick's records show that fire losses in 1958 soared to $612,906.04, and in 1961 the year's losses by fire aggregated more than $577,477.

Seems Portugal Is Catering to France

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — A European diplomat said today Portugal's agreement to permit France to erect a missile tracking station in the Azores "was dropped like a bomb and I don't think it was fair to the Americans."

Some Western diplomats in this Portuguese capital thought the decision meant a swing away from the United States toward France.

An American diplomat remarked that for decades Portugal had first turned to Britain, then to the United States, for alliance and protection. Now it would seem it is looking away from them and toward France and Germany, he said. West Germany's air force was granted training facilities last year at Beja, in southern Portugal.

Spring Clean-up Week Observed In Ulster County

Spring Clean-up Week will be observed throughout Ulster County this week.

This annual event, scheduled through April 18 is sponsored by the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. During Spring Clean-up Week, all residents of the county are urged to make a special effort to clean up in and around their property and eliminate potential fire hazards.

James Hicks, chairman of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Fire Prevention committee, urges that all residents join in the move and clean out debris, get rid of anything which you are not going to use and which makes for a fire hazard. This includes old newspapers, magazines, broken furniture and other accumulations in the attic, closet, cellar or garage which may form a fire hazard.

Spring Clean-up Week is also designed to educate the public in handling of flammable liquids, check stoves, heaters and furnaces, electrical appliances and all other areas which may be a potential starting place for a fire.

Family Fire Drill

Clean-up Week also affords an opportunity to inspect machinery which may present a dangerous threat to those who are unfamiliar with use. This includes power mowers and other machinery, Hicks said, and also affords an opportunity to organize and hold fire drills in the home. Pointing out the recent rash of deaths and injury from fire in the home, Hicks advocates the holding of a family fire drill in the home, the instruction of children in getting out of homes in the emergency of a fire and other fire prevention measures about the home.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters also advocates the organization of community "clean-up" programs where vacant lots in a neighborhood should be cleaned up and fire hazards eliminated. Removal of underbrush and rubbish will eliminate a serious fire hazard and in turn will tidy up the area.

List Three Rules

Three rules advocated by the National Board of Fire Underwriters are:

Clean up your own home and grounds.

Join your friends in a neighborhood project to correct eyesores and fire hazards in your block or on your street.

Take an active part in civic groups cooperating in organizing clean-up campaigns. Visit your local fire department, Chamber of Commerce, Safety Council or other groups and see how you can help.

One Killed, 11

Army men, including two officers, were wounded in the battle.

Vietnamese forces suffered about 100 killed, wounded and missing in the day-long battle. Thirty Viet Cong bodies were counted, and many more were believed to have been carried off.

American authorities said numerous Viet Cong were killed and 17 government troops were wounded in another fight 60 miles north of Chunog Thein, in Kien Phong Province.

Viet Cong groundfire wounded a U.S. Marine aboard an H34 troop-carrying helicopter in fighting 500 miles north of Saigon, near the north Viet Nam border, on Saturday.

Three U.S. Army enlisted men were injured by a terrorist guerrilla in front of their hotel in Tra Vinh, in the Mekong delta, Saturday. They returned to duty after treatment.

A U.S. Navy officer was injured in an accidental ammunition explosion near the North Viet Nam frontier Sunday.

Calls on State To Probe Three Fires in Hudson

Hudson fire officials have called upon the state to conduct an investigation of three fires that occurred in that city late Saturday and early Sunday, within a five-block area in the heart of the city.

Fire Chief Ralph Pough said the most serious of the three fires broke out in Ryder's Restaurant, 233 Warren Street, about 45 minutes after a blaze was discovered in a house at Fourth and Columbia Streets. The restaurant is owned by Hudson Patrolman Arthur Ryder.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bryan, their daughter, Mrs. Judy Olm, and her twin sons, and Miss Mary Clouse, fled safely from their apartments in the building.

Shortly before the restaurant fire, a blaze was discovered in a house owned by James Pendergast at Fourth and Columbia Streets.

An unoccupied house at State and Seventh Streets, owned by Dick Saulpaugh, was slightly damaged by fire late Saturday night. Authorities believe transients had used the house as sleeping quarters.

Escapes Injury When His Car Hits Pole

While driving a car north on Route 9W about a mile from the state police barracks, Town of Ulster, at 1:50 a.m. today, John Sangi, 19, of Glasco, escaped serious injury when the vehicle hit a utility pole.

Trooper David Wachtel of the Kingston sub-station, said Trooper Charles Bundschuh issued a summons charging Sangi with leaving the scene of an accident. He is scheduled to appear Wednesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly.

According to Wachtel, Sangi allegedly left the scene after his car skidded off the east side of Route 9W, hit a utility pole and then spun around on a lawn at the home of Mrs. Mildred Fields, Lake Katrine.

Charged With Issuing Fraudulent Checks

Kingston State Police on Saturday arrested Peter Suski, 30, of 389 First Avenue, city, on two warrants charging the issuance of fraudulent checks.

Trooper David Wachtel said Suski was taken before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedge, Town of Ulster. The defendant was committed to the Ulster county jail in lieu of $200 bail pending a hearing at 3 p. m. Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly.

Troopers said Suski also was questioned about other checks. The arrest was made by Senior Investigator Edward Shannon and Investigator Joseph Ventriglia.

Nehru Regrets U. S. Nuclear Weapons About

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru expressed regret today that U.S. warships carrying nuclear weapons "should wander about in the Indian ocean."

Commenting in Parliament on a report from Washington Friday that a U.S. Navy carrier squadron had entered the Indian Ocean, Nehru noted that U.S. ships en route to waters off the coast of Africa would not come within hundreds of miles of Indian territorial waters.

"But we do not like nuclear weapons to come anywhere near this area," he said.

Ten Years' Savings Give Sizeable Estate to Couple

Q) "We have been lucky. For a decade my husband and I have invested our hard earned savings and an inheritance in stocks. In a few years my husband plans to retire on a small pension and social security. We have $36,000 in E bonds and banks plus shares of Atchison, Niagara Mohawk, Atlantic Refining, General Telephone, Walt Disney, Oklahoma Gas, Air Reduction, Filtrol, and Giant Yellowknife. What do you think of our list and should we invest part of our savings in additional stocks?" — J. M.

A) Maybe the element of luck has played a part in your picture, but at least you have started an investment plan and have adhered to it.

Your stocks are generally good ones but considering your over-all objectives, I rather question inclusion of Filtrol, Giant Yellowknife and Walt Disney, in spite of the latter's recently improved earnings record.

To achieve somewhat better balance, I suggest drawing down on your savings by placing about $3,000 each in S. O. New Jersey, Long Island Lighting, American Telephone, and General Motors.

Q) "What in the world happended to American Machine and Foundry? I bought some shares in 1957 and received stock from two different two-for-one splits. It has recently stablized, after a long drop. Will it recover?" — R. J.

A) The pace of new bowling-alley construction has fallen considerably during the past few years. American Machine was one of the large factors in this business and it too has been adversely affected.

The company is trying to move into other areas but this is costly and time consuming. Stock has some comeback potential.

I suggest cutting your commitment to more moderate size and reinvesting the proceeds in Bristol-Myers and Winn-Dixie.

100 Doctors End Their Strike in Mechelen Sector

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The government announced today about 100 doctors in the Mechelen area, midway between Brussels and Antwerp, have ended their strike.

Premier Theo Lefevre's office said the Mechelen doctors had signed an agreement with a local health insurance association thereby breaking with the striking medical union.

At strike headquarters in Brussels, a spokesman said: "We believe it's another trial balloon like the one of last week in Seraing, near Liege. Twenty-four hours later, the so-called agreement had blown up again, and things remained unchanged."

Physicians in Seraing were near an agreement but it failed to obtain final approval.

The possible dent in the united front of Belgium's 12,000 striking physicians and dentists came after the government ordered the mobilization of army reserve doctors for emergency duty in civilian hospitals.

The strike began 13 days ago as a protest against revision in the government's national health insurance system. Many of the doctors and dentists went on Easter vacations with their families at the start of the walkout.

A Schenectady Unitarian minister, the Rev. William Gold, described the governor's approach as "honest and realistic." In a sermon Sunday, the Rev. Burglary Attempts Police were notified Sunday of apparent burglary attempts at the Expert Awning Co., and the Schechter grocery store on East Union Street. A lock hasp had been broken at the former, and an attempt had been made to pry open a door at the store.

Davide Charged With Burglary

Thomas Davide, 16, of 165 Abeel Street, was charged with third degree burglary after a Sunday night report that the Myron J. Michael School had been entered.

Police said a description given them led to the arrest after a report at 7:03 p. m., that window glass had just been broken and that boys were seen in the area. Officers Lewis Keator, George Dougherty and Ernest Bartroff were dispatched on the search. The arrest was by Bartroff and Detective Harold DeGraff.

Two first-floor rear windows were reported broken. Nothing of value was reported missing. Ice cream was reported taken in a recently reported burglary at the school.

City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman today disqualified himself to hear the case and it was put over for hearing April 15 by Special City Judge Bernard A. Feeney Jr.

Grieving Lion Dies, Was Colonie Pet

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — King, a lion who had been a pet in suburban Colonie, died "of a broken heart — that's what I would say," a lion-tamer told reporters today.

The lion-tamer, Guy Gossing of the Cyprus Shrine Circus, bought the eight-month-old, 152-pound cub Saturday night from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin. King refused to eat or play after the Martins left him with Gossing, and Sunday, he died, his heart ruptured.

"I would never have let him go so young," said Mrs. Martin, who grew up in a circus atmosphere. "But the neighbors circulated a petition, and I was told I would have to get rid of him or face court action."

The Martins bought the lion as a baby last summer at an animal farm.

Medical Examiner Joseph A. King called her death a strangling. One of her own stockings was tied tightly around her neck. Several other stockings were found on the floor nearby.

Norwood Police Chief James M. Murphy said "We consider Mrs. Fine's death a homicide."

Discussing Rail

is the sole source of information about the bargaining and except for word that issue-by-issue bargaining was under way and that both sides were showing "a sincere desire to settle" he has been reluctant to pass on details.

It would be an "utmost exercise in futility" to try to predict an outcome, Reedy said Sunday. He did venture the view that the mediators obviously must have felt some optimism when they decided to bring the opposing parties into the same conference room.

The mediators had been shuttling from one side to the other before bringing the rail executives and brotherhood chiefs face to face Sunday afternoon. The session continued into the night.

This last-ditch round of negotiation apparently is the only possible source of solution to the tangled work rules dispute. Johnson has exhausted all presidential actions provided by existing legislation and Congress is reluctant to get entangled in the subject again.

At his news conference Saturday, the President said he is not considering any new legislation that would take the dispute out of the hands of the carriers and the unions.

Columbia Parties

County, I think the issues should be aired and that people in our country will welcome the opportunity to have their vote mean something."

Hudson attorney John G. Connor was designated at the Democratic candidate for district attorney, and George N. Hoover of Chatham for county treasurer. Louis Sacco of Greenport will be condidate for coroner and Surrogate Judge R. Waldron Herzberg, a Republican, received the Democratic endorsement for that post.

This annual event, scheduled through April 18 is sponsored by the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. During Spring Clean-up Week, all residents of the county are urged to make a special effort to clean up in and around their property and eliminate potential fire hazards.

James Hicks, chairman of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Fire Prevention committee, urges that all residents join in the move and clean out debris, get rid of anything which you are not going to use and which makes for a fire hazard. This includes old newspapers, magazines, broken furniture and other accumulations in the attic, closet, cellar or garage which may form a fire hazard.

Spring Clean-up Week is also designed to educate the public in handling of flammable liquids, check stoves, heaters and furnaces, electrical appliances and all other areas which may be a potential starting place for a fire.

Family Fire Drill

Clean-up Week also affords an opportunity to inspect machinery which may present a dangerous threat to those who are unfamiliar with use. This includes power mowers and other machinery, Hicks said, and also affords an opportunity to organize and hold fire drills in the home. Pointing out the recent rash of deaths and injury from fire in the home, Hicks advocates the holding of a family fire drill in the home, the instruction of children in getting out of homes in the emergency of a fire and other fire prevention measures about the home.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters also advocates the organization of community "clean-up" programs where vacant lots in a neighborhood should be cleaned up and fire hazards eliminated. Removal of underbrush and rubbish will eliminate a serious fire hazard and in turn will tidy up the area.

List Three Rules

Three rules advocated by the National Board of Fire Underwriters are:

Clean up your own home and grounds.

Join your friends in a neighborhood project to correct eyesores and fire hazards in your block or on your street.

Take an active part in civic groups cooperating in organizing clean-up campaigns. Visit your local fire department, Chamber of Commerce, Safety Council or other groups and see how you can help.

One Killed, 11

Army men, including two officers, were wounded in the battle.

Vietnamese forces suffered about 100 killed, wounded and missing in the day-long battle. Thirty Viet Cong bodies were counted, and many more were believed to have been carried off.

American authorities said numerous Viet Cong were killed and 17 government troops were wounded in another fight 60 miles north of Chunog Thein, in Kien Phong Province.

Viet Cong groundfire wounded a U.S. Marine aboard an H34 troop-carrying helicopter in fighting 500 miles north of Saigon, near the north Viet Nam border, on Saturday.

Three U.S. Army enlisted men were injured by a terrorist guerrilla in front of their hotel in Tra Vinh, in the Mekong delta, Saturday. They returned to duty after treatment.

A U.S. Navy officer was injured in an accidental ammunition explosion near the North Viet Nam frontier Sunday.

128 Die in Cyclone

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) —The cyclone which lashed the Jessore district Saturday killed 128 persons and injured more than 570, Gov. Abdul Monem Khan told reporters here today after a tour of the affected areas.

Jessore is about 100 miles from here in the Ganges River delta.

Calls on State To Probe Three Fires in Hudson

Hudson fire officials have called upon the state to conduct an investigation of three fires that occurred in that city late Saturday and early Sunday, within a five-block area in the heart of the city.

Fire Chief Ralph Pough said the most serious of the three fires broke out in Ryder's Restaurant, 233 Warren Street, about 45 minutes after a blaze was discovered in a house at Fourth and Columbia Streets. The restaurant is owned by Hudson Patrolman Arthur Ryder.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bryan, their daughter, Mrs. Judy Olm, and her twin sons, and Miss Mary Clouse, fled safely from their apartments in the building.

Shortly before the restaurant fire, a blaze was discovered in a house owned by James Pendergast at Fourth and Columbia Streets.

An unoccupied house at State and Seventh Streets, owned by Dick Saulpaugh, was slightly damaged by fire late Saturday night. Authorities believe translents had used the house as sleeping quarters.

Escapes Injury When His Car Hits Pole

While driving a car north on Route 9W about a mile from the state police barracks, Town of Ulster, at 1:50 a. m today, John Sangi, 19, of Glasco, escaped serious injury when the vehicle hit a utility pole.

Trooper David Wachtel of the Kingston sub-station, said Trooper Charles Bundschuh issued a summons charging Sangi with leaving the scene of an accident. He is scheduled to appear Wednesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly.

According to Wachtel, Sangi allegedly left the scene after his car skidded off the east side of Route 9W, hit a utility pole and then spun around on a lawn at the home of Mrs. Mildred Fields, Lake Katrine.

Charged With Issuing Fraudulent Checks

Kingston State Police on Saturday arrested Peter Suski, 30, of 389 First Avenue, city, on two warrants charging the issuance of fraudulent checks.

Trooper David Wachtel said Suski was taken before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedge, Town of Ulster. The defendant was committed to the Ulster county jail in lieu of $200 bail pending a hearing at 3 p. m. Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly.

Troopers said Suski also was questioned about other checks. The arrest was made by Senior Investigator Edward Shannon and Investigator Joseph Ventriglia.

Nehru Regrets U. S. Nuclear Weapons About

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru expressed regret today that U.S. warships carrying nuclear weapons "should wander about in the Indian cean."

Commenting in Parliament on a report from Washington Friday that a U.S. Navy carrier squadron had entered the Indian Ocean, Nehru noted that U.S. ships en route to waters off the coast of Africa would not come within hundreds of miles of Indian territorial waters.

"But we do not like nuclear weapons to come anywhere near this area," he said.

Ten Years' Savings Give Sizeable Estate to Couple

Q) "We have been lucky. For a decade my husband and I have invested our hard earned savings and an inheritance in stocks. In a few years my husband plans to retire on a small pension and social security. We have $36,000 in E bonds and banks plus shares of Atchison, Niagara Mohawk, Atlantic Refining, General Telephone, Walt Disney, Oklahoma Gas, Air Reduction, Filtrol, and Giant Yellowknife. What do you think of our list and should we invest part of our savings in additional stocks?" — J. M.

A) Maybe the element of luck has played a part in your picture, but at least you have started an investment plan and have adhered to it.

Your stocks are generally good ones but considering your over-all objectives, I rather question inclusion of Filtrol, Giant Yellowknife and Walt Disney, in spite of the latter's recently improved earnings record.

To achieve somewhat better balance, I suggest drawing down on your savings by placing about $3,000 each in S. O. New Jersey, Long Island Lighting, American Telephone, and General Motors.

Q) "What in the world happended to American Machine and Foundry? I bought some shares in 1957 and received stock from two different two-for-one splits. It has recently stablized, after a long drop. Will it recover?" — R. J.

A) The pace of new bowling-alley construction has fallen considerably during the past few years. American Machine was one of the large factors in this business and it too has been adversely affected.

The company is trying to move into other areas but this is costly and time consuming. Stock has some comeback potential.

I suggest cutting your commitment to more moderate size and reinvesting the proceeds in Bristol-Myers and Winn-Dixie.

100 Doctors End Their Strike in Mechelen Sector

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The government announced today about 100 doctors in the Mechelen area, midway between Brussels and Antwerp, have ended their strike.

Premier Theo Lefevre's office said the Mechelen doctors had signed an agreement with a local health insurance association thereby breaking with the striking medical union.

At strike headquarters in Brussels, a spokesman said: "We believe it's another trial balloon like the one of last week in Seraing, near Liege. Twenty-four hours later, the so-called agreement had blown up again, and things remained unchanged."

Physicians in Seraing were near an agreement but it failed to obtain final approval.

The possible dent in the united front of Belgium's 12,000 striking physicians and dentists came after the government ordered the mobilization of army reserve doctors for emergency duty in civilian hospitals.

The strike began 13 days ago as a protest against revision in the government's national health insurance system. Many of the doctors and dentists went on Easter vacations with their families at the start of the walkout.

A Schenectady Unitarian minister, the Rev. William Gold, described the governor's approach as "honest and realistic." In a sermon Sunday, the Rev. Burglary Attempts Police were notified Sunday of apparent burglary attempts at the Expert Awning Co., and the Schechter grocery store on East Union Street. A lock hasp had been broken at the former, and an attempt had been made to pry open a door at the store.

Davide Charged With Burglary

Thomas Davide, 16, of 165 Abeel Street, was charged with third degree burglary after a Sunday night report that the Myron J. Michael School had been entered.

Police said a description given them led to the arrest after a report at 7:03 p. m., that window glass had just been broken and that boys were seen in the area. Officers Lewis Keator, George Dougherty and Ernest Bartroff were dispatched on the search. The arrest was by Bartroff and Detective Harold DeGraff.

Two first-floor rear windows were reported broken. Nothing of value was reported missing. Ice cream was reported taken in a recently reported burglary at the school.

City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman today disqualified himself to hear the case and it was put over for hearing April 15 by Special City Judge Bernard A. Feeney Jr.

Grieving Lion Dies, Was Colonie Pet

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — King, a lion who had been a pet in suburban Colonie, died "of a broken heart — that's what I would say," a lion-tamer told reporters today.

The lion-tamer, Guy Gossing of the Cyprus Shrine Circus, bought the eight-month-old, 152-pound cub Saturday night from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin. King refused to eat or play after the Martins left him with Gossing, and Sunday, he died, his heart ruptured.

"I would never have let him go so young," said Mrs. Martin, who grew up in a circus atmosphere. "But the neighbors circulated a petition, and I was told I would have to get rid of him or face court action."

The Martins bought the lion as a baby last summer at an animal farm.

Woman, 63, Eleventh Victim of Strangler

NORWOOD, Mass. (AP) — A 63-year-old woman was found strangled with a nylon stocking in the bedroom of her home today, adding another to the list of 11 unsolved strangling of women in eastern Massachusetts in less than two years.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Goldie Fine, whose husband, Hyman, operates a clothing dry cleaning establishment in nearby Canton.

Medical Examiner Joseph A. King called her death a strangling. One of her own stockings was tied tightly around her neck. Several other stockings were found on the floor nearby.

Norwood Police Chief James M. Murphy said "We consider Mrs. Fine's death a homicide."

Installed Bishop Of Ogdensburg

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP)—St. Mary's Cathedral was the scene today of the installation of the Most Rev. Thomas A. Donnellan as the ninth bishop of the 92-year-old Roman Catholic Diocese of Ogdensburg.

The 50-year-old bishop was consecrated last Thursday in New York City by Francis Cardinal Spellman, bishop of New York, who also arranged to preside at today's ceremony (11 a.m.).

Bishop Donnellan, a native of New York City, succeeds the Most Rev. Leo R. Smith, who died last Oct. 9 while attending the second session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council in Rome.

Gold, purple and scarlet-robed members of the hierachy from the United States and Canada, priests, civic officials and members of the diocese were invited to watch Bishop Donnellan receive the crozier, or bishop's staff, from Cardinal Spellman today.

The bishop was ordained to the priesthood by Cardinal Spellman in St. Patrick's Cathedral June 3, 1939.

He was named assistant chancellor of the New York archdiocese in 1944, vice chancellor in 1954 and chancellor in 1958. He had been rector of the seminary of the New York archdiocese since 1962.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

COST REDUCTION: More than 1,200 major defense contractors have enlisted so far in the Johnson administration's cost reduction war, it was disclosed today.

There have been that many favorable replies from letters sent to 7,500 big contractors last December by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

A little-noticed Pentagon progress report circulated recently said:

"Indications are that industry's cost reduction efforts will provide the nation with a multi-million-dollar add-on to the Department of Defense's own $4 billion cost reduction undertaking."

SECURITY: A report that prowlers were in the basement of St. Mark's Episcopal church caused Secret Service agents and Washington police to conduct a thorough search Sunday morning before President Johnson and his family arrived for services.

Police found two 17-year-olds who had wandered away from a service for deaf mutes at St. Barnabas chapel in the church basement.

The President was accompanied to the services by Mrs. Johnson, their daughter Lynda Bird, and Secretary of Defense and Mrs. Robert S. McNamara.

IBM's Net Earnings Show $36.3M Increase for '64

International Business Machines Corp., with major plants in Kingston and Poughkeepsie, reported today an increase of $36.3 million net earnings after taxes for the first three months of this year over the comparable period last year, based on a worldwide consolidated basis.

Thomas J. Watson Jr., chairman of the Board of IBM, reported IBM's first quarterly results on that basis. The report sates that IBM's business outside the United States has become an increasingly significant part of IBM's total business and that in view of this, financial results in this and future reports will be on a world wide basis.

For the three months ended last March 31, net earnings after taxes were $114,823,737 compared with $78,593,023 for the same period last year.

Shares Shaw Gain

Earnings per share were $4.11 on the 27,947,531 shares outstanding at the end of the period. This compares with $2.82 a share on the 27,835,046 shares on March 31, 1963.

Net earnings before taxes amounted to $240,423,737 compared with $168,639,501 in the corresponding period of 1963.

Consolidated gross income for the three months ended March 31, 1964, was $831,734,938 compared with $666,400,337 for the first quarter last year, an increase of 24.8-0/0 gross income from domestic operations increased 26.5-0/0 with regular products increasing 33.7-0/0 and space and defense products gross income showing a 44.2-0/0 decrease compared with the three months of 1963. Gross income from foreign operations showed an increase of 20.0-0/0.

Sales Grow Steadily

The report noted that the corporation both leases and sells outright its major line of products—data processing machines and that outright sale has the effect of realizing income currently which, on a rental basis, would be realized in future periods. Because of this, the report states that variations in the amount of outright sale as IBM's business continues to grow can result in substantial fluctuations up or down on gross income and net earnings from quarter to quarter and year to year rather than the pattern of relatively consistent growth shown in the the corporation experienced a past. In the first quarter of 1964, substantial increase in outright sales due primarily to a concentration of purchases by the federal government of date processing equipment they had previously been leasing.

Growth Not Accelerated

Watson directed attention to the fact that the first quarter's results do not represent an acceleration in the company's rate of growth. Therefore the company expects that future earnings reports for 1964 will show substantially lesser increases as compared with 1963, and that in all probability the first quarter of 1965 will not show an increase when compared with the first quarter of 1964.

Comparative financial results are as follows:

Three months ended March 31—Gross income from sales, service and rentals, 1964, $831,734,938; 1963, $666,400,337; cost of sales, service and rentals and expenses, 1964, $598,606,713; 1963, $503,718,851; other income, 1964, $233,128,225; $162,681,486; $7,295,512 and $5,958,015.

Net earnings before U. S. federal and foreign income taxes, 1964, $240,423,737; 1963, $168,639,501; less: provision for U. S. federal and foreign income taxes estimated $125,600,000; $90,046,478. Net earnings for the period, $114,823,737; $78,593$23. Net earnings per share, $4.11, 2.82.

Celebrate Anniversaries

Boy Scout Troop 12 celebrated its 34th and Explorer Post 12 its 11th anniversary with a birthday party Tuesday night at Bethany Hall of Old Dutch Church. Post 12 opened the program with an Explorer Induction ceremony for its newest members. These young men are Eugene Sugar, Jerry Yaple, Joseph Ferrendino, Richard Clausi, James Lee, Joseph Maben and Jonathan Lown. Parents and friends, which numbered over 100, were welcomed by Committee Chairman Alfred Townsend, and Neighborhood Commissioner Thomas Orr was introduced, and presented the troop and post charters to Institutional Representative Hugo Schlatter. He then presented the National Camping Award earned by the troop to Senior Patrol Leader Peter Wells, and Boy's Life Banners to Peter Wells for the troop and President James DuBois for the post.

Following this, Mr. Orr presented the troop and post committee and leaders with their registration cards and Assistant Scoutmaster Kenneth Boudrau presented the Scouts with their registration cards, service stars and attendance pins and bars. Calvin Wyant, Raymond Tator, George Bishop, James Dugan, Timothy Eigo, Wayne Gray, Thomas Kelly and Michael Miller received one year attendance pins, Donald Burnett a three year attendance bar, Robert Schlatter a six year bar and S.P.L. Wells an eight year bar. Committeeman James Dugan presented musicians badges to 20 new drum corps members.

Advancement Chairman Raymond Wells officially opened the Court of Honor and called upon Committeeman Floyd Spencer to award the Second Class Rank to Wayne Gray and Barry Jackson. Assistant Scoutmaster Richard Scism bestowed the rank of First Class on Wayne Havens, James Dugan and Calvin Wyant, and Mr. Wells awarded the Home Repairs merit badge to Walter Witkowski and the Rowing merit badge to Robert Marnell. The Tenderfoot Investiture was conducted by Scoutmaster Ralph Shapiro to admit James Smith and Donald Zanos as the newest members of Troop 12. S.P.L. Wells installed Robert Marnell as patrol leader. Ernest Townsend and Wayne Havens as assistant patrol leaders, and presented the inter-patrol contest trophy to Patrol Leader Allen Stingel for the Thunderbird Patrol, annual winners for the second year. After an amusing skit by Post 12, a Camp Tri-Mount skit by the Order of the Arrow, refreshments were served by the Mothers Club.

Equal Opportunity for All Is Convention Subject for League of Women Voters

"Equality of Opportunity: Evaluation of U. S. policies and programs to provide for all citizens equality of opportunity for education and employment" is the new program subject proposed by the national board of the League of Women Voters of the United States to be debated and discussed at the 26th national League Convention April 20-24 at the Pittsburgh Hilton.

The proposed "equality of opportunity" item marks the first time in eight years the League's national Board has recommended a new domestic subject for its national Program.

Selecting a 1964-66 Program of work and study, along with electing officers and directors for two-year terms and adopting a budget for next year, will be chief business of the Convention.

Mrs. David S. Gerbarg, President of the League of Women Voters of Kingston, Mrs. Alvin E. Moscowitz, President of the League of Women Voters of Woodstock, and Mrs. Robert Schuler, Voter Service Chairman of the League of Women Voters of New Paltz, will be among the 1,500 delegates and guests attending and will participate in the Convention debate and discussion.

In addition to the equality of opportunity proposal, the Board also recommended for consideration by League membership other items, all of which appeared on the 1962-64 Program:

1. Continued study and action in support of the United Nations, foreign economic policy, and water resources development and conservation.

2. Continued action—but only when necessary — in support of self-government for the District of Columbia, against constitutional limitations on tax rates, and against constitutional limitation of treaty-making powers.

Mrs. Robert J. Phillips, national League President since 1958, has repeatedly emphasized that the whole program recommended by the board is not necessarily the one which will be finally adopted by the convention. "The final choice," she said recently, "remains with the membership working through their delegates."

The entire program was proposed by the board following a January meeting, during which time over 900 local and state league program suggestions were studied. Since receipt of the board's recommendations, leagues across the country have been deliberating on the proposals and sending their comments to the national office.

From these comments and from original suggestions sent in by leagues last fall, runnerups to "equality of opportunity" as a new domestic program item for possible league adoption appear to be civil-rights, congressional procedures, consumer protection, election laws, and federal-state relations.

To afford full opportunity to those leagues interested in changing the recommended program either by substitution of a different subject or by modification, time for caucusing has been scheduled for the first two evenings (Monday and Tuesday, April 20 and 21) of convention. The Workbook, issued to all convention delegates, carries an article on "How to Succeed at the National Convention by Really Trying or Using the Caucus as a Help in Being Politically Effective."

Only after full discussion and floor debate will a 1964-66 national program be adopted by the convention Thursday afternoon (April 23) by majority vote.

Although electing new officers and directors is part of the work of the convention, the 1962-64 Board will be in office throughout convention proceedings. This current board, is: President: Mrs. Robert J. Phillips, St. Charles, Ill.; First Vice President: Mrs. John A. Campbell, Indianapolis, Ind.; Second Vice President: Mrs. Robert J. Stuart, Spokane, Wash.; Secretary: Mrs. William H. Wood, Bladensburg, Md.; Treasurer: Mrs. LeMon Clark, Fayetteville, Ark; Director: Mrs. John D. Briscoe, Lakeville, Conn., Mrs. Hans-Arnold Fraenkel, Hartsdale, N. Y., Mrs. Louis Hirsch, Tucson, Ariz., Mrs. John D. Kenderdine, Holtwood, Pa., Mrs. William S. Morgan, Norman, Okla., Mrs. W. Eugene Pharis, Webster Goves, Mo., Mrs. John F. Toomey, Narragansett, R. I., Mrs. Haskell Rosenblum, Washington, D.C., Mrs. Vernon C. Stoneman, Belmont, Mass., Miss Barbara Stuhler, St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. Alexander A. Treuhaft Shaker Heights, Ohio; Nominating Committee: Mrs. O. H. Anderson (Chairman), Mahtomedi, Minn., Mrs. Briscoe, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. M. Y. Foster, Missoula, Mont., Mrs. John F. Latimer, Washington, D.C.

The nominating committee will present its report the opening day of convention and voting will take place Thursday (April 23) in the Hilton's Grand Ballroom where all general sessions are being held. Nominations may also be made from the floor, providing the consent of the "nominee" has been given. Results will be announced Friday (April 24).

In addition to electing officers, the convention must also adopt a 1964-66 national program and a new budget for the next fiscal year.

The 1965 budget will be adopted Friday morning (April 24.) The national budget of the League of Women Voters is met almost entirely by funds provided by local league, who raise money through dues and member and non-member contributions.

KHS MAY QUEEN AND HER COURT—May Day ceremonies are now being planned at Kingston High School and will be held in the Kate Walton Field House on the first of the month. Students elected their May Queen and her court recently. Standing in front (l-r) are Pamela Hotaling, maid of honor, and Frances Marello, May Queen. Miss Marello is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Marello of 151 Tammany Street, this city. In the Queen's Court are (l-r) in rear, Diane Potter, Lillian McElrath, JoAnn Naccarato, Barbara Fowler, Nancy Valli and Carole Heppner. The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

This Is Real Friendship?

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE — My 9-year-old Ralph has got a case of hero worship for an 11-year-old boy who has recently moved into our apartment building with his mother and grandmother. I understand that the parents are divorced. The boy is very mannerly with me but much too bossy with Ralph, making him do all the cleaning up after they have made a mess playing, walking off with any book or toy he feels like taking and not returning them unless I ask him to. It burns me up . . .

ANSWER—It's a long worm that has no turning. Can you wait for Ralph to turn against this bossiness in his friend? To discover that he wants more from this boy than he is getting in exchange for what he is giving?

I hope so, because it is the 9-year-old's realization of the resentment he feels at a friend's domination that he must be able to call on in later, more crucial experiences with pushy friends—the girl, for example, to whom he is sexually attracted and with whom he may imagine himself to be in love. If, in our anxiety, we cannot give the child the time he needs to feel his resentment of pushiness in his friend, his response to it in other friends remains vague, losing the sharpness that should enable him to say to himself, "Uh-uh. This I know about. This I can do without."

It is not too difficult to sustain our anxiety over a friendship like this one if we are aware of the signs of deteriorating friendliness in ourselves. Instead of interfering in it, we can confidently await our youngster's first expressions of hurt at the exploiting friend's refusal to share his new toy; his sudden renewals of interest in other friends, new activities; family plans for visits, outings and parties; his increasing complaints as his disappointment in the friend reaches more and more of his awareness. For in these stages of disengagement from the bossy friend, we recognize the steps by which we ourselves have gradually withdrawn from unprofitable friendship with an over-controlling and dominating person.

But if we are still harassed by bullies in our own life, our child's involvement with one can be deeply disturbing. We can't credit him with the ability to develop some resistance to them. Other people's domination of us is too painful for us to endure the added pain of our child's submission to it.

Equal Opportunity for All Is Convention Subject for League of Women Voters

"Equality of Opportunity: Evaluation of U. S. policies and programs to provide for all citizens equality of opportunity for education and employment" is the new program subject proposed by the national board of the League of Women Voters of the United States to be debated and discussed at the 26th national League Convention April 20-24 at the Pittsburgh Hilton.

The proposed "equality of opportunity" item marks the first time in eight years the League's national Board has recommended a new domestic subject for its national Program.

Selecting a 1964-66 Program of work and study, along with electing officers and directors for two-year terms and adopting a budget for next year, will be chief business of the Convention.

Mrs. David S. Gerbarg, President of the League of Women Voters of Kingston, Mrs. Alvin E. Moscowitz, President of the League of Women Voters of Woodstock, and Mrs. Robert Schuler, Voter Service Chairman of the League of Women Voters of New Paltz, will be among the 1,500 delegates and guests attending and will participate in the Convention debate and discussion.

In addition to the equality of opportunity proposal, the Board also recommended for consideration by League membership other items, all of which appeared on the 1962-64 Program:

1. Continued study and action in support of the United Nations, foreign economic policy, and water resources development and conservation.

2. Continued action—but only when necessary—in support of self-government for the District of Columbia, against constitutional limitations on tax rates, and against constitutional limitation of treaty-making powers.

Mrs. Robert J. Phillips, national League President since 1958, has repeatedly emphasized that the whole program recommended by the board is not necessarily the one which will be finally adopted by the convention. "The final choice," she said recently, "remains with the membership working through their delegates."

The entire program was proposed by the board following a January meeting, during which time over 900 local and state league program suggestions were studied. Since receipt of the board's recommendations, leagues across the country have been deliberating on the proposals and sending their comments to the national office.

Kingston Library Offers Many Services To Inquiring Public

The Kingston City Library is as near as your telephone. Do you know you can still avail yourself of the Library's services even if you are unable to get there in person?

The Library's Dial-A-Book allows the reader to ask for book by telephone. Any volume, except seven-day books, may be requested. The book will be mailed out along with a return envelope and sticker. The book is to be returned within three weeks. This service for those readers who cannot come to the library is sponsored by the Lions Club.

Questions will be answered by phone, too. Through the Telephone Reference Service the librarians will seek out the information that is requested. If the information is not available in the Kingston City Library, the librarians will use resource materials of other institutions.

Mrs. Anne Prentice, Director of the Kingston City Library, stated that the librarians "happily serve whenever they are called." The Telephone Reference Service receives five to fifteen requests daily. Many requests are for information from "Consumer Reports" such as "Which washing machine rates highest?"

One recent question which started librarians working was "What is the name of the bird which gets lice from lions?" The answer was Ox-pecker.

The Dial-A-Book and Telephone Reference Services are two of the services featured in the Library Window Display at 324 Wall Street. The display, presented by the League of Women Voters of Kingston, is in honor of National Library Week.

Kingston Library Offers Many Services To Inquiring Public

The Kingston City Library is as near as your telephone. Do you know you can still avail yourself of the Library's services even if you are unable to get there in person?

The Library's Dial-A-Book allows the reader to ask for book by telephone. Any volume, except seven-day books, may be requested. The book will be mailed out along with a return envelope and sticker. The book is to be returned within three weeks. This service for those readers who cannot come to the library is sponsored by the Lions Club.

Questions will be answered by phone, too. Through the Telephone Reference Service the librarians will seek out the information that is requested. If the information is not available in the Kingston City Library, the librarians will use resource materials of other institutions.

Mrs. Anne Prentice, Director of the Kingston City Library, stated that the librarians "happily serve whenever they are called." The Telephone Reference Service receives five to fifteen requests daily. Many requests are for information from "Consumer Reports" such as "Which washing machine rates highest?"

One recent question which started librarians working was "What is the name of the bird which gets lice from lions?" The answer was Ox-pecker.

The Dial-A-Book and Telephone Reference Services are two of the services featured in the Library Window Display at 324 Wall Street. The display, presented by the League of Women Voters of Kingston, is in honor of National Library Week.

PROPRIETY OF A HOUSECOAT

Q: A neighbor invited me and a few other women to her house to play bridge. The hostess wore a housecoat and some of the women thought she was not suitably dressed to entertain guests. They said that a housecoat is all right when one is sitting at home with her own family, and if guests drop in unexpectedly, it would be perfectly all right to leave it on, but when guests are expected the hostess should wear a dress. What is your opinion?

A: It depends on the housecoat. There are some very lovely ones and if the housecoat your hostess had on was attractive, I see nothing wrong in her having worn it at an informal bridge game in her own house. Had she invited men and women to a dinner party, she should indeed have worn a dress.

Groom's Clothes at Double Wedding

Q: My sister and I are going to be married at a double wedding. My sister's fiance would like to wear a cutaway but my fiance is not very tall, prefers a sack coat as he feels the cutaway coat will not be becoming. Would it be proper for both bridegrooms and their respective best men to be dressed differently, or must they be dressed alike?

A: It would, of course, look nicer if they dressed alike, but this is not a must.

The Evening's Principal Speaker

Q: I say the most important speaker at a formal dinner speaks last but there are some who say that it is proper and courteous for him to speak first I would appreciate your settling this point.

A: You are absolutely right. The principal speaker always speaks last.

Chamber Breakfast Meeting April 22

The next Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting will take place April 22 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Invitations have been mailed to all members, including those enrolled to date in the current membership drive.

The program will be a question and answer session. This is a departure from the program at previous breakfast meetings at which speakers were heard. In this notice to Chamber members, James E. Norton, chairman of the Breakfast Committee, stated that this type program has been arranged to help answer the complaint that members do not have the opportunity to ask questions or suggest projects which the Chamber of Commerce should consider. President John F. Schuehler will serve as moderator at the breakfast session.

The regular meeting of the Chamber board of directors takes place Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Governor Clinton Hotel. In addition to committee reports, the tentative budget for the fiscal year, starting on May 1st will be considered.

Resnick Addresses Hyde Park Democrats

Addressing 125 persons at a dinner dance sponsored Saturday night by the Hyde Park Democratic Committee at the Rogers Point Boat Club, Joseph Y. Resnick, Ellenville, said he will work for more low cost housing in the area for both low and middle income groups, if elected in November.

Resnick is the Democratic designee for Congress from the 28th District.

The candidate also declared that another thing that is needed in the area is more industry and more jobs. He said there seems to be a surplus of untrained persons and there is an urgent need for persons with some sort of skills.

Resnick told his listeners that a serious problem is the need for training schools, perhaps federal-aided, which could turn unskilled workers into machinists and office workers.

Car Hits Rock Cut

Ronald Polumbo, 20, of 23 North Clover Street, Poughkeepsie, escaped injury at 2:45 a. m. Sunday, when his car crashed into a rock cut at the west approach to the Mid-Hudson Bridge. Trooper John Salters, Highland, said Polumbo stooped to pickup a cigaret he dropped on the floor of his car and the vehicle continued on, failed to make a curve and hit the rocks.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you? Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy?

And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience?

So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. PROPRIETY OF A HOUSECOAT

Q: A neighbor invited me and a few other women to her house to play bridge. The hostess wore a housecoat and some of the women thought she was not suitably dressed to entertain guests. They said that a housecoat is all right when one is sitting at home with her own family, and if guests drop in unexpectedly, it would be perfectly all right to leave it on, but when guests are expected the hostess should wear a dress. What is your opinion?

A: It depends on the housecoat. There are some very lovely ones and if the housecoat your hostess had on was attractive, I see nothing wrong in her having worn it at an informal bridge game in her own house. Had she invited men and women to a dinner party, she should indeed have worn a dress.

Groom's Clothes at Double Wedding

Q: My sister and I are going to be married at a double wedding. My sister's fiance would like to wear a cutaway but my fiance is not very tall, prefers a sack coat as he feels the cutaway coat will not be becoming. Would it be proper for both bridegrooms and their respective best men to be dressed differently, or must they be dressed alike?

A: It would, of course, look nicer if they dressed alike, but this is not a must.

• • •

The Evening's Principal Speaker

Q: I say the most important speaker at a formal dinner speaks last but there are some who say that it is proper and courteous for him to speak first I would appreciate your settling this point.

A: You are absolutely right. The principal speaker always speaks last.

Chamber Breakfast Meeting April 22

The next Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting will take place April 22 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Invitations have been mailed to all members, including those enrolled to date in the current membership drive.

The program will be a question and answer session. This is a departure from the program at previous breakfast meetings at which speakers were heard. In this notice to Chamber members, James E. Norton, chairman of the Breakfast Committee, stated that this type program has been arranged to help answer the complaint that members do not have the opportunity to ask questions or suggest projects which the Chamber of Commerce should consider. President John F. Schuehler will serve as moderator at the breakfast session.

The regular meeting of the Chamber board of directors takes place Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Governor Clinton Hotel. In addition to committee reports, the tentative budget for the fiscal year, starting on May 1st will be considered.

Resnick Addresses Hyde Park Democrats

Addressing 125 persons at a dinner dance sponsored Saturday night by the Hyde Park Democratic Committee at the Rogers Point Boat Club, Joseph Y. Resnick, Ellenville, said he will work for more low cost housing in the area for both low and middle income groups, if elected in November.

Resnick is the Democratic designee for Congress from the 28th District.

The candidate also declared that another thing that is needed in the area is more industry and more jobs. He said there seems to be a surplus of untrained persons and there is an urgent need for persons with some sort of skills.

Resnick told his listeners that a serious problem is the need for training schools, perhaps federal-aided, which could turn unskilled workers into machinists and office workers.

Car Hits Rock Cut

Ronald Polumbo, 20, of 23 North Clover Street, Poughkeepsie, escaped injury at 2:45 a. m. Sunday, when his car crashed into a rock cut at the west approach to the Mid-Hudson Bridge. DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you? Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy?

And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience?

So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the place of purchase. Print makes sense because print makes sales

Expensive and Lavish Spectacle

100 Million May Attend 1964-65 World's Fair

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a billion-dollar show.

The 1964-65 New York World's Fair which opens April 22 will be an expensive and lavish spectacle.

Attendance originally was estimated at 70 million admissions for the two seasons of operation. But now, with 28 million tickets already sold, there are predictions that attendance may reach 100 million.

Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow

It will be a mile-square panorama of the wonders of yesterday, today and tomorrow, blending together achievements of science, education, religion, art, philosophy, music and culture.

The visitor will travel back through millions of years of the earth's history and peer into the far future. And he will see firsthand the best of what the world has to offer today in exhibits from around the world.

Theme of the giant exposition—four years in the making—is "Peace Through Understanding."

About 60 foreign countries will have pavilions or displays featuring their arts, crafts, cuisine and culture.

Half of U. S. Represented

From the United States, about half the 50 states are represented, many with extensive displays and shows. The federal government, with one of the largest shows on the grounds, will have a sweeping variety of things to see and do—including a "you are there" journey through the sights and sounds of American history.

Some astonishing spectacles have been created by the giants of American commercial enterprise—General Motors, General Electric, Bell Telephone, Ford, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont.

So extensive are their shows and displays that the visitor can spend the better part of a half day viewing each.

12-15 Minute Tours

The most spectacular parts are arranged in the form of tours which last 12 to 15 minutes. These may be viewed from moving chairs or vehicles which create a feeling of almost personal and private tours.

Brief Descriptions

Here is a brief description:

General Motors — In the "Futurama" visitors will be seated in a train of contoured chairs, with miniature loudspeakers mounted in the headrests for music and description of the sights.

The visitor will, in effect, be whisked to the moon to see man and machine at work exploring it. There will be scenes depicting how man will conquer the polar areas, jungles, deserts and live, work and play underneath the seas. The tour lasts 15 minutes and concludes by taking the citizen of today into the city of tomorrow.

General Electric — A multifaceted exhibition called "Progressland" will feature a demonstration of thermonuclear fission, seeing and hearing an atomic blast.

A "Carousel of Progress," witnessed from moving seats, employs lifelike and animated human figures created by Walt Disney. It depicts home living conditions from the 1880s to the present.

A "skydome spectacular" uses the building's inner dome in planetarium-like fashion for a striking dramatization of the power of nature's energy sources.

Another Chair Ride

Bell Telephone—The keynote of the exhibition will be another chair ride with music and description through the history, present and future, of communications.

Effects employ motion pictures, stage settings, lighting, special scenery, optical illusions and multiple screens.

The building also will feature demonstrations of how computers work, phone-vision of the future, how light waves carry sound, tricks with sound.

Ford—One of the most ingenious tours at the fair is a "time tunnel" created by Disney. Visitors will sit in 1964-model automobiles for a trip into the past and future. Music and commentary will flow from radios in the cars. There are pushbuttons for four different languages.

Start in Prehistoric Past

The tour begins in the prehistoric past.

Du Pont—A combination of arts has been devised to dramatize "the wonderful world of chemistry." Live actors will sing, dance and talk on a stage with life-sized figures projected by motion picture. A screen character will hand a rose to a live performer; a live actor blows out candles on a screen cake and splashes frosting on another live performer.

Eastman Kodak—A simulated lunar landscape has been created atop the Kodak building to provide a setting for unusual photographs by visitors. Towering above will be a display of giant photographic color transparencies.

Hall of Science—Audio and visual demonstrations of a variety of scientific subjects: a simulated rendezvous of full-sized manned orbital space vehicles, how the brain works, the molecular activity which creates and sustains life, the science of color, a simulated atomic laboratory for children only to enter and operate, the chemistry of the sea, a modern airport control tower and how it works.

Radio Corp. of America—Color television shows produced on the spot. Visitors can see themselves on color television.

U.S. Space Park—Display of some of the nation's most powerful rockets, an X15 plane, and models of moon exploratory equipment.

Invested Assets Of Insurance Co. Show Increases

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company assets invested in New York amount to $2,021 million at the end of 1963, it was announced today by George H. Devine, manager of the company's Kingston office.

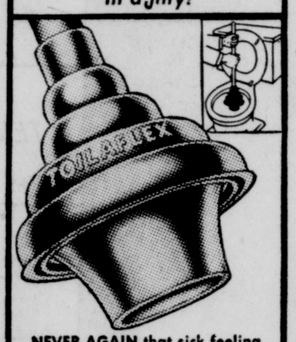

Metropolitan contributed significantly to demands for capital in New York to finance industrial expansion and research; to help meet the needs of large and small businesses; and to spur the trend towards home ownership. For example, more than $779.5 million was invested in corporate securities in New York, and Metropolitan mortgage loans in the state amounted to $437 million.

The company's holdings of U. S. government bonds alone apportioned to New York on the basis of its population—amounted to $88.4 million. Other Metropolitan assets attributable to the state amount to $715.9 million.

Total company assets — held for the protection of policyholders and in order to pay future benefits—reached a new high of $20.5 billion at year-end, an increase of 4.4 per cent during the year. The net interest return on the Metropolitan portfolio was 4.45 per cent, the highest return achieved since 1932.

Texas uses more natural gas than any other state and more than the rest of the world outside the United States.

"Where do you get your rebozos?"

"The same place I get my cement."

Many years ago, rebozos, colorful hand-woven shawls, were a major export of Mexico. Today, Mexican exporters are more apt to be offering cement.

Like other nations, Mexico became industrialized, and more technically accomplished. Now, Mexico exports more than 1000 manufactured articles, ranging from ball bearings to electric toasters. And the tradition of quality synonymous with rebozos is kept alive in today's products. You can still get rebozos—the same place you get your cement.

Knowledge of our modern neighbor is important today. Send for the free 16-page booklet, "Know Mexico," Box 1900, New York 19.

Nothing But Trouble

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A mother of 11 adopted children parked a borrowed car outside the County Courthouse and gave her 15-year-old son Gary money for a parking meter. Mrs. Verna Underwood went inside with another son to file his marriage license and came out minutes later to see the car leaving. When Gary got out of the car to deposit the coin, a man jumped in and drove away. Mrs. Underwood went back into the Courthouse to report the theft to the sheriff. She had borrowed the car from a patient at Bataan Hospital, where she is a nurses aide.

The U. S. had about 143 physicians per 100,000 of population during 1962.

Effects employ motion pictures, stage settings, lighting, special scenery, optical illusions and multiple screens.

The building also will feature demonstrations of how computers work, phone-vision of the future, how light waves carry sound, tricks with sound.

Ford—One of the most ingenious tours at the fair is a "time tunnel" created by Disney. Visitors will sit in 1964-model automobiles for a trip into the past and future. Music and commentary will flow from radios in the cars. There are pushbuttons for four different languages.

Start in Prehistoric Past

The tour begins in the prehistoric past.

Du Pont—A combination of arts has been devised to dramatize "the wonderful world of chemistry." Live actors will sing, dance and talk on a stage with life-sized figures projected by motion picture. A screen character will hand a rose to a live performer; a live actor blows out candles on a screen cake and splashes frosting on another live performer.

Eastman Kodak—A simulated lunar landscape has been created atop the Kodak building to provide a setting for unusual photographs by visitors. Towering above will be a display of giant photographic color transparencies.

Hall of Science—Audio and visual demonstrations of a variety of scientific subjects: a simulated rendezvous of full-sized manned orbital space vehicles, how the brain works, the molecular activity which creates and sustains life, the science of color, a simulated atomic laboratory for children only to enter and operate, the chemistry of the sea, a modern airport control tower and how it works.

Radio Corp. of America—Color television shows produced on the spot. Visitors can see themselves on color television.

U.S. Space Park—Display of some of the nation's most powerful rockets, an X15 plane, and models of moon exploratory equipment.

Invested Assets Of Insurance Co. Show Increases

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company assets invested in New York amount to $2,021 million at the end of 1963, it was announced today by George H. Devine, manager of the company's Kingston office.

Metropolitan contributed significantly to demands for capital in New York to finance industrial expansion and research; to help meet the needs of large and small businesses; and to spur the trend towards home ownership. For example, more than $779.5 million was invested in corporate securities in New York, and Metropolitan mortgage loans in the state amounted to $437 million.

The company's holdings of U. S. government bonds alone apportioned to New York on the basis of its population—amounted to $88.4 million. Other Metropolitan assets attributable to the state amount to $715.9 million.

Total company assets — held for the protection of policyholders and in order to pay future benefits—reached a new high of $20.5 billion at year-end, an increase of 4.4 per cent during the year. The net interest return on the Metropolitan portfolio was 4.45 per cent, the highest return achieved since 1932.

Texas uses more natural gas than any other state and more than the rest of the world outside the United States.

Nothing But Trouble

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A mother of 11 adopted children parked a borrowed car outside the County Courthouse and gave her 15-year-old son Gary money for a parking meter. Mrs. Verna Underwood went inside with another son to file his marriage license and came out minutes later to see the car leaving. When Gary got out of the car to deposit the coin, a man jumped in and drove away. Mrs. Underwood went back into the Courthouse to report the theft to the sheriff. She had borrowed the car from a patient at Bataan Hospital, where she is a nurses aide.

The U. S. had about 143 physicians per 100,000 of population during 1962.

LBJ: A 'Bouncing' President Who Always Stays in Focus

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has such a knack for staying in focus it's hard to recall a day he hasn't been photographed since he took office.

President Kennedy had the same knack. It's almost a hobby with Johnson.

No would-be president, particularly in an election year like this, can compete with the man in the White House in that priceless piece of political acreage: the field of public exposure.

Johnson is making full use of the advantage, but not in quite the same way as Kennedy who got special mileage from his televised news conferences. Johnson is neither as witty nor easily graceful in handling newsmen.

But he probably has more contact with them generally—and with photographers—in suddenly called, almost informal but non-televised conferences or in sudden, unexpected appearances in their midst.

Constantly 'Bouncing'

So, in a bouncy kind of way, he is more unpredictable than Kennedy was. He is constantly bouncing, which seems a good word, into unpredictable situations almost all of them made to order for cameramen.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday were good examples. It should be remembered, any time you see a Johnson picture, it almost surely means a number of pictures of him in that same situation were taken from different angles by a number of photographers.

Friday — Labor-management leaders in the rail dispute met with him at the White House, trying to settle it. He was photographed with them in couples, trios and groups. Later he was pictured announcing a strike truce.

He was photographed discussing NATO with top American officials; getting a pass to American League baseball games from the league president, Joe Cronin; trying out his arm for the opening day's pitch; conferring with Secretary of State Dean Rusk; another in a session on the approved wheat-cotton bill.

He suddenly appeared on a White House balcony with poet Carl Sandburg, yelling "hey" to newsmen and photographers below. Appropriate pictures were snapped.

Then he suddenly bounced into the White House lobby, announcing he was ready to call a news conference. But there were no reporters there. They were all in an inner offic at that momnt, getting a news briefing from Johnson's news secretary, George Reedy.

Johnson bounced in there for a moment, bounced out, went back to his own office.

Handshaking in Focus

Saturday — Various pictures of Johnson with congressmen and farm representatives as he signed the wheat-cotton bill. These pictures included the signing and shaking hands all around; more of Johnson shaking hands with classmates of his daughter, Luci, who had a White House reception for them.

More pictures when Johnson spotted sightseers outside the White House gates, ordered the gates opened for them, took them on a tour of the grounds, and waved goodby at the end of the tour.

Then he had a news conference (more pictures) and dashed off to see Felix Frankfurter, Supreme Court justice who retired a couple of years ago after a stroke. There were no pictures of Frankfurter but on the way out Johnson was photographed shaking hands with the elevator man and the cook.

Church and More Golf

But the day wasn't done. Johnson went off to play golf, attired in an appropriate outfit, which meant more pictures.

Sunday — he started off the day by going to church with his wife and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Mrs. McNamara. There were a lot of pictures of him when he came out and went around shaking hands with practically everyone in sight.

Back to the White House. More pictures of him handshaking tourists outside the White House gates and of him walking around the grounds with the McNamaras, and then Johnson shaking hands through the gates with the sightseeing tourists. Then he went to play golf again. More pictures.

Dried on Phone Line

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A Wichita housewife had to ask the phone company to bring in her wash. The woman hung a shirt on a utility line at her house to dry. A stiff wind quickly dried it — and blew it along the line to the top of a utility pole. The phone company sent out a repairman to retrive the wash.

Cornell University supervised the weighing and production testing in cooperation with the official herd improvement programs of the Holstein Association.

Our research scientists at Phillips 66 are, by and large, pretty conservative fellows. They are not apt to go overboard about anything.

But when these scientists developed present Trop-Artic, they said it was the greatest motor oil that they had ever seen. No if's, no and's, no but's about it. The greatest. So we had this Trop-Artic tested against six other great long-mileage motor oils—including some motor oils that cost up to $1.00 or more a quart. These recognized tests included established standards which have been set by the Automotive Manufacturers Association.

As you can see in the chart, Trop-Artic won hands down. In over-all performance, none of the other oils were in the same league. So it really adds up to this: You can pay more for other motor oils—a lot more. But why pay more? Trop-Artic is in a class all by itself.

Marina Building Badly Damaged By Connelly Fire

Early discovery Sunday evening of a fire in a large two story frame building owned by Cordon Baxter, Port Ewen, proprietor of the Mid-Hudson Marina at Connelly, averted what might have resulted in a very costly loss.

Stored in a large warehouse only a short distance away were boats valued at close to a million dolars.

Joseph Scully discovered flames shooting from the windows of a 100 by 30 foot frame structure which had formerly been used as a tool house and office by the Hiltebrant shipyards. The fire was discovered about 8:55 P. M. Sunday and both Connelly and Port Ewen firemen were called to the scene. Before the blaze was out the front and upper floor of the building had been damaged.

The fire apparently started in the front of the building on the lower floor and before it was extinguished had burned through to the second floor. The building was not in use at the time and contained only a quantity of old tools.

Located on the Rondout Creek off First avenue, the building was only 50 feet from the large storage shed in which Mr. Baxter had stored a number of valuable boats. Had the blaze not been discovered quickly, or had there been a high wind, the flames could have easily communicated to the boat storage building with great loss.

The fire, the twelfth in the area within a year, is under investigation by County Investigator Thomas Mayone.

Since the first of the year there have been five suspicious fires in the area. Only last Thursday fire was discovered in two houses. On March 18 there was a fire in the Connelly house and on February 13 fire threatened the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Smith.

Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone reported the fire Sunday was the tenth fire involving structures and during the year there have been two wood fires in the area which are of suspicious origin.

Assisting in the investigation of Sunday's fire was Deputy Sheriffs Robert Doran and John Daly.

Hot Bricks Are Blamed for Fire On Grant Street

A fire said to have started from hot fire place brick damaged a living room floor area and cellar timber in the home of Max Bruns, 83 Grant Street, early Sunday.

Units from Central Station and the Wicks Company, with Deputy Chief Julius E. Buchholtz in charge, answered a call at 4:14 a. m.

The blaze caused considerable smoke throughout the house. A hose line was used.

Firemen from Cornell Station doused a blaze which gutted an abandoned, unlicensed sedan off Dock Street near the Rondout Creek bridge Sunday. The call was at 6:32 p. m. A unit from Cornell Station also answered a call at 7:56 p. m. Sunday for a brush fire in an area off Hudson and Spruce streets.

Rondout Valley Lions Schedule Dinner May 2

The Rondout Valley Lions Club will hold its annual chicken dinner at the Marbletown Central School, Stone Ridge, Saturday, May 2. Serving will start at 5 p. m. Tickets may be purchased from any member or at the door.

Painting Exhibition At Lions Exposition

One of the many helpful booths at the Kingston Lions Club Exposition and Home Show will be that of Johnny Walker's Mary Carter Paint Stores on Albany Avenue Extension, Kingston and the Hudson Shopping Plaza in Poughkeepsie. A painting demonstration to illustrate comparative values of various type paints will be a feature of the booth, and helpful information on home painting and decorating will be available to all interested homeowners. All visitors to the booth will receive a souvenir gift.

Volunteer Firemen Were Busy Sunday

Grass, brush and other types of fires totaling 17 kept volunteer firemen in several area districts busy on Sunday, according to a dispatcher at the County Fire Control Center. New Paltz firemen extinguished three brush fires, and Woodstock volunteers were called out to quell two brush fires in that district. Grass fires were reported at Tillson, Modena, Saxton, and brush fires occurred in Shandaken, Kerhonkson, Bly-Atwood, Marlboro, and Cedar Grove. Port Ewen volunteers checked a tree fire.

Drive to Restore Ford's Theatre

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ninety-nine years ago Tuesday, the curtain went down at Ford's Theatre with an awful finality.

That was the night it became the most famous—or most infamous—theater in America.

The curtain stayed down. The building was never again used as a theater. It was stained forever that night with the blood of President Abraham Lincoln, assassinated while he sat in its presidential box and watched its last play.

But now, there is a strong and possibly winning campaign well under way, with considerable support in Congress, to restore the building to what it was the night John Wilkes Booth shot Lincoln.

There is no hope that it can be restored by the time of the centennial of the assassination, April 14, 1965. That had been a target date until a few years ago.

Will Have Money

But Col. Randle B. Truett, National Park Service historian, a dedicated and enthusiastic supporter of the restoration dream, says "We don't have the money—about $2 million—but we will."

There is some difference of opinion as to whether the building should be turned into an active playhouse, in view of the tragedy it symbolizes.

The site was originally occupied by a Baptist church built in 1833. Its physical properties —it could accommodate musical concerts as well as sermons —attracted John T. Ford, a theater man from Baltimore, when he came here in the fall of 1861 seeking a location for theatrical purposes.

Ford leased the building for five years, beginning Dec. 10, 1861.

On Good Friday

Lincoln attended just once in 1865. It was the evening of Good Friday, the stars were Harry Hawk and Laura Keene and the show was "Our American Cousin," a trifle described in the handbills as an eccentric comedy.

Shortly after 10 p.m. Booth climbed the stairs to the dress circle, walked through a passageway and slipped into the unguarded presidential box.

In the darkness, he moved behind the President who was sitting in a rocker. He fired the fatal shot, and in the excitement, leaped to the stage, ran out a back door, jumped on a horse and escaped. Booth was hunted down and shot dead 12 days later in a Virginia barn.

The theater was closed immediately after Lincoln's death, which came in a house across the street at 7:22 a.m., April 15, 1865.

Stolen Car Found In Park Area, Plates Different

A car found down a bank of the upper Hasbrouck Park road Sunday night, police said, had been stolen from the lot of Parsons of Kingston Inc., 300 Broadway and it bore a stolen license plate.

Officers Lewis Keator and George Dougherty reported at 11:04 p. m. Sunday that they had spotted the car, and a check by Officer James Amato revealed that the license plate was taken from a vehicle owned by Bert Bishop, of 174 Flatbush Avenue.

A further check fixed the owner of the car as Peter Perry, of 17 Flatbush Avenue. It was towed from the park.

Briggs Company Will Feature Many Services

This year the J. Ellis Briggs Company will occupy three booths at the Lions Exposition featuring among other things their new services added last fall.

One booth will show their rental center catering to both home and industry. There will be on display everything from small do-it-yourself hand tools to electric generators, steam Jenny pumps, chain saws, concrete mixers and many other pieces of equipment used by contractors. There also will be sick room equipment, hospital beds, wheel chairs, crutches and electric exercising massager. Typewriters, adding machines, etc. also will be on display. The Briggs Rental Center slogan is "We Rent Anything."

A second booth will comprise their home improvement department, where kitchen cabinets and built-in-appliances will be shown. This new service includes dormers, garages, additions, carports and commercial property, such as office and store renovation. All work done by local mechanics.

The third booth will house the Paragon custom-planned home. Here will be displayed a few of the plans and photos from the some 120 homes Paragon has to offer. These homes are pre-cut at their mill near Warwick. Paragon offers a complete finance plan of their own. They also assist prospective home owners who wish to do part of the work themselves. The model home at 81 Amsterdam Avenue is open daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The Briggs Company, which for many years dealt only in appliances, air conditioning and heating, now has over 30,000 items at its store at Shop-Rite Square.

Radial Saw on Display At Lions Exposition

Sears, Roebuck and Company in the Ulster Shopping Plaza, in their booth at the Lions Auto and Home Show, will have on display their new 1964 line of washers, dryers, ranges, refrigerators, freezers, mowers, water heaters and television. Sears personnel on duty at the booth will be ready to answer questions and will be most helpful with ideas and suggestions for the homeowner.

Of particular interest to men will be a new Craftsman 10" Radial Saw. This professional quality 2 HP unit has an electric magnetic brake that stops the blade in 10 seconds, a comforting safety feature.

Marina Building Badly Damaged By Connelly Fire

Early discovery Sunday evening of a fire in a large two story frame building owned by Cordon Baxter, Port Ewen, proprietor of the Mid-Hudson Marina at Connelly, averted what might have resulted in a very costly loss.

Stored in a large warehouse only a short distance away were boats valued at close to a million dolars.

Joseph Scully discovered flames shooting from the windows of a 100 by 30 foot frame structure which had formerly been used as a tool house and office by the Hiltebrant shipyards. The fire was discovered about 8:55 P. M. Sunday and both Connelly and Port Ewen firemen were called to the scene. Before the blaze was out the front and upper floor of the building had been damaged.

The fire apparently started in the front of the building on the lower floor and before it was extinguished had burned through to the second floor. The building was not in use at the time and contained only a quantity of old tools.

Located on the Rondout Creek off First avenue, the building was only 50 feet from the large storage shed in which Mr. Baxter had stored a number of valuable boats. Had the blaze not been discovered quickly, or had there been a high wind, the flames could have easily communicated to the boat storage building with great loss.

The fire, the twelfth in the area within a year, is under investigation by County Investigator Thomas Mayone.

Since the first of the year there have been five suspicious fires in the area. Only last Thursday fire was discovered in two houses. On March 18 there was a fire in the Connelly house and on February 13 fire threatened the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Smith.

Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone reported the fire Sunday was the tenth fire involving structures and during the year there have been two wood fires in the area which are of suspicious origin.

Assisting in the investigation of Sunday's fire was Deputy Sheriffs Robert Doran and John Daly.

Hot Bricks Are Blamed for Fire On Grant Street

A fire said to have started from hot fire place brick damaged a living room floor area and cellar timber in the home of Max Bruns, 83 Grant Street, early Sunday.

Units from Central Station and the Wicks Company, with Deputy Chief Julius E. Buchholtz in charge, answered a call at 4:14 a. m.

The blaze caused considerable smoke throughout the house. A hose line was used.

Firemen from Cornell Station doused a blaze which gutted an abandoned, unlicensed sedan off Dock Street near the Rondout Creek bridge Sunday. The call was at 6:32 p. m. A unit from Cornell Station also answered a call at 7:56 p. m. Sunday for a brush fire in an area off Hudson and Spruce streets.

All visitors to the booth will receive a souvenir gift.

Volunteer Firemen Were Busy Sunday

Grass, brush and other types of fires totaling 17 kept volunteer firemen in several area districts busy on Sunday, according to a dispatcher at the County Fire Control Center. New Paltz firemen extinguished three brush fires, and Woodstock volunteers were called out to quell two brush fires in that district. Grass fires were reported at Tillson, Modena, Saxton, and brush fires occurred in Shandaken, Kerhonkson, Bly-Atwood, Marlboro, and Cedar Grove. Port Ewen volunteers checked a tree fire.

Drive to Restore Ford's Theatre

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ninety-nine years ago Tuesday, the curtain went down at Ford's Theatre with an awful finality.

That was the night it became the most famous—or most infamous—theater in America.

The curtain stayed down. The building was never again used as a theater. It was stained forever that night with the blood of President Abraham Lincoln, assassinated while he sat in its presidential box and watched its last play.

But now, there is a strong and possibly winning campaign well under way, with considerable support in Congress, to restore the building to what it was the night John Wilkes Booth shot Lincoln.

There is no hope that it can be restored by the time of the centennial of the assassination, April 14, 1965. That had been a target date until a few years ago.

BATTLING POVERTY

The United States Government is going to battle poverty. It is a commendable work. Improving stardards of living will strengthen this country socially, economically and morally.

Poverty is of many varieties. And it should be the task of those who carry on this work to limit their activities to fields where the effort promises to be fruitful.

Sloth and indolence, waste and extravagance, intemperance and immorality are all handmaidens of poverty. I have spent a liftime in observing the ill-effects of these evils.

The battle against poverty may boomerang if it is carried into the segments of society where the evils just mentioned exist.

My sympathy for this battle is limited. I was born and grew up in a family and in a community where, in the words of the poet, "life was real and life was earnest . . .' I was taught as a boy that life is a battle. I would not want it otherwise.

For twenty-five years. I taught in three ranking universities. Ninety per cent of my students came from homes where money was scarce. Those young people worked thier way for the most part through college and graduate school.

One of them was reared on an Idaho fruit farm, was graduated with honors at the University of Washington and at the Columbia University of Law. He became at 45 the $250,000-a-year president of one of the world's top corporations.

Another came from an Ohio farm, was graduated from a leading midwestern university and from Columbia University. He once lived in a $3 a week hall bedroom and spent a dollar a day for food at cheap restaurants.

Today, he is one of the greatest merchandising executives in the world. He is worth millions. Two years ago, he gave away $1,750,000 to worthy causes.

Were it not negative, I would write about how indolence. extravagence and intemperance breed poverty.

It is easy to get sentimental about conditions of poverty. For there are millions of people in this country who, for many reasons, have not enjoyed affluence. And, regardless of the forces that have kept them poor, they can usually explain away their own failure to achieve a measure of financial self-reliance.

Most people in America have from 40 to 50 years in which to make a life of affluence.

Industry, thrift, saving and sound investment form the hard core of financial self-reliance. A parent who allows a child to do poor work at school, who gives him undeserved weekly cash allowances and does not encourage him — even at early age —to do some constructive work around the house, is laying the foundation for poverty.

Merchants in New York City tell me that it is difficult to get after-school delivery boys who, if they wanted to, could earn $25 a week in their spare time.

I'll wager that this battle against poverty will accomplish little. Society is not ready to take vocational dictation.'

Missed Home Cooking

MENA, Ark. (AP) — Three children left the governor's mansion in Little Rock, returned home to a 65-acre farm in western Arkansas and said they were glad to be back.

Wayne Cude, 12, and his sisters Delia Marie, 11, and Linda May, 8, were back with their parents after a four-day stay with Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Faubus' wife, Alta, who had cared for the children, kissed them good-by on the steps of the mansion Friday.

"The Faubuses are pretty nice people," Wayne said. "Extra nice. But I missed home cooking. And mostly Momma and Daddy."

Health for All

To See or Not to See

How do you get to know the unknowable, see the unseeable? Man has always yielded to the fascination of the problem.

His eyes, in a sense, have been bigger than his brain. He always wanted to penetrate to what was hidden from his gaze, but for eons he couldn't figure out how. Being human, he resorted to magic — staring into a crystal ball, reading palms, poking around in the innards of a fowl. Although he never learned anything that way, he had the fun of trying and sometimes the illusion of success.

But fun is fun and illusion will only take you so far, particularly if your interests include keeping alive and well. For all of us who have that hobby, the development of X-ray photography several decades ago was a big event. It brought the possibility, for the first time, of find-out the interior condition of our bodies — and thus finding out the state of our health — by the direct evidence of the human eye.

Nowadays there is precious little excuse for anybody to go around wondering whether his heart and lungs, for example, are in good shape. A chest X-ray will give the answer, eliminating guesswork. Such an answer is particularly important because certain chest conditions — for example, lung cancer and enlarged heart — often give no sign of their presence for a long time. The same is true of tuberculosis — which, in addition, can be passed on to others by anyone who has it in active form.

Want to see the unseeable? Make a date with your doctor. He'll show you how things look inside your chest. What's more, he'll tell you how healthy the picture shows you to be.

To See or Not to See

How do you get to know the unknowable, see the unseeable? Man has always yielded to the fascination of the problem.

His eyes, in a sense, have been bigger than his brain. He always wanted to penetrate to what was hidden from his gaze, but for eons he couldn't figure out how. Being human, he resorted to magic — staring into a crystal ball, reading palms, poking around in the innards of a fowl. Although he never learned anything that way, he had the fun of trying and sometimes the illusion of success.

But fun is fun and illusion will only take you so far, particularly if your interests include keeping alive and well. For all of us who have that hobby, the development of X-ray photography several decades ago was a big event. It brought the possibility, for the first time, of find-out the interior condition of our bodies — and thus finding out the state of our health — by the direct evidence of the human eye.

Nowadays there is precious little excuse for anybody to go around wondering whether his heart and lungs, for example, are in good shape. A chest X-ray will give the answer, eliminating guesswork. Such an answer is particularly important because certain chest conditions — for example, lung cancer and enlarged heart — often give no sign of their presence for a long time. The same is true of tuberculosis — which, in addition, can be passed on to others by anyone who has it in active form.

Want to see the unseeable? Make a date with your doctor. He'll show you how things look inside your chest. What's more, he'll tell you how healthy the picture shows you to be.

NEW YORK (AP) — Boosts in take-home pay from the federal income tax cut haven't shown up in retail sales as quickly as expected. Or have they? The official figures say no. But this time the statistics are even more complicated than usual and more subject to tricky interpretations.

Tax Day Deterrent

Bankers suspect many citizens just added to their savings in March while deciding what to do with the windfall that began showing up in pay checks. Others think the approaching income tax settlement deadline was a deterrent to spending.

Merchants aren't sure. They point out that the official figures of the Department of Commerce showing a drop in retail sales from February had to be adjusted this March to seasonal variations that may conceal part of the story.

Others think that comparisons with February spending are further complicated by that month's most unusual shopping-day pattern five Saturdays and by a possible psychological quirk of consumers who spent more than usual this February because of the expected take-home pay increases.

The Department of Commerce says that seasonally adjusted the March retail store sales were $21.1 billion, down 1 per cent from the February record. This still put March 4 per cent ahead of a year ago, but many had expected greater things of the month this time.

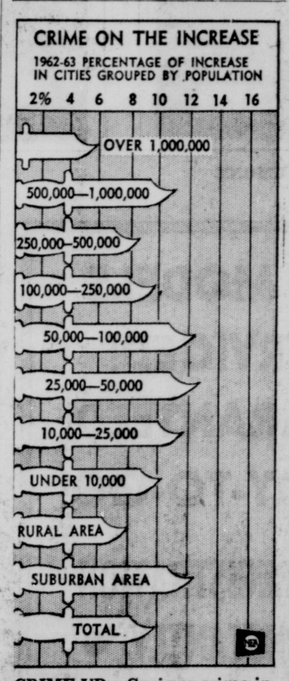

An early Easter may have affected the drop the Commerce Department reports in sales of apparel and department stores. But it may have had less connection with the drop of 4 per cent in the volume of durable goods with automotive and lumber and building materials dealers accounting for most of this. Larger sales by food stores were the brightest feature of March.

Perhaps some merchants were counting too much on the stimulus of more take-home pay. Bankers note that in the past consumers often have taken a while to change spending habits after any sudden rise in income. The bankers say that usually a large part of any windfall goes at first into savings.

But if March didn't meet all of the high hopes for it, the substantial gains for the first quarter as a whole feed the belief that the first half of the year will set records.

Get It in Writing

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Thomas E. Staples, a chef at the city jail, spends his off-duty hours collecting ball-point pens. He now has about 2,300 including "some that won't write but that doesn't make any difference." Most of the pens are inscribed with the name of a firm or place. One of his favorites has a small auto floating around the fluid in the upper section. Another contains a concealed penknife. Staples admits the hobby may pall on him some day but "not until I get about 6,000 of them."

CRIME UP—Serious crime in the United States increased 10 per cent in 1963 when compared with 1962, based on preliminary figures compiled by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The News-chart shows sharp crime rise in suburban areas and cities in the 25,000 to 100,000 population group. Percentage of increase can be determined by referring to figures at the top of chart.

Scout Campaign Chiefs to Be Cited At Catskill Fete

Town chairmen in the Mohican Trail District, Greene County of the Rip Van Winkle Council Inc., Boy Scouts of America, will be cited for their outstanding work in the 1963 Scout Fund Drive, at an appreciation dinner at 7 p. m. Thursday, April 16, at the Hop-O-Nose Marine Restaurant, at the South Main Street Marina in Catskill.

Gifford Beal of Highland, chairman of the Council Finance Campaign to raise funds for 1964 operations, said that Greene County accounted for more than $6,500 in the 1963 drive for 87 per cent of the announced goal. With all returns in, he said, the total represents the best result ever achieved by the district. Beal said the appreciation dinner was intended as a "thank you" to all town chairmen for their "fine cooperation."

Scout trophies will be awarded for the best over-all results by a district campaign chairman, and to the town chairman with the best percentage of card coverage and dollar goal.

Donald D. Haines, of Catskill, served as the 1963 district campaign chairman, assisted by Irvin C. Winchell of Ashland as Mountain Area chairman and J. E. Van Orden, Jr., of Acra as Northern Area chairman. Town chairmen in 1963 included: Dr. DuBois Jenkins, Catskill; Herbert Ramm, Athens; Harry Huckins, Coxsackie; Leland Davis, Greenville; David P. Ricci, Cairo; Arthur Fox, Durham; Welcome Moore, Windham; Edward Lauten, Ashland; James Holcomb, Prattsville; Elwood Hitchcock, Jewett; Alfred Decker, Lexington; Richard Harty, Jr., Hunter; Harry Poladian, Tannersville; and John Pedersen, Haines Falls.

The National Education Association has a membership of 900,000, with 92 per cent being classroom teachers.

CARPETS-BROADLOOMS-RUGS

(Quality)

A Carpet or Rug constructed of good long staple wool yarns is still not only the BEST but is what all other carpets are trying to be.

WOOL Qualities come in many grades and prices, they are made for light wear, medium wear, medium to heavy wear, heavy wear and extra heavy wear.

Since we do not raise any carpet or rug wools in the U. S. A. all the wools we use come from foreign countries, cold countries with grazing areas that are high and cold such as China, India, Australia, North Africa and New Zealand. South America produces much wool of low grade (soft brittle wools) which is blended with better wools for carpets and rugs of lower qualities.

In this blend you get more bulk but less wear. It is beginning to look as if New Zealand will be our best source of supply for long staple wools in the future with over 50 million sheep as present they have the grazing areas of high altitudes to sustain flocks, up to 150 million.

These man-made fibres are made to compete with low-grade wool carpets of lower prices and are not intended to compare with carpets constructed of the good long staple wool yarns which is woven into good wool carpets and Broadlooms.

NYLON, ACRILAN, HERCULON, should be your choice against cheap wool blends up to $1.00 sq. yd. if they are properly constructed. We carry a very wide range of carpets, rugs and broadlooms in the man-made fibres as well as in the wool qualities.

But should you?

Not if you drive on turnpikes or thruways, at sustained turnpike speeds.

Because at high turnpike speeds, riding on an $9.95 tire can be as potentially dangerous as sitting on a time bomb.

The dealer who sells you an $9.95 tire has to make a profit on it. So does the manufacturer. So do the companies that make and sell the raw materials that go into that tire.

Add these profits up. Subtract them from the selling price of the tire. And you can see that no tire made to sell for anywhere near $9.95 can possibly be strong enough to resist the pressures, the heat, the violence of sustained, high-speed driving.

(Which means that no matter what the "come-on" tire ads imply, $9.95 tires for the average driver are no bargain. They may even be a dead loss.)

Why then do we stock and sell an $9.95 tire?

Because it does give good service to the few of our customers who are not average drivers. People who use their cars only for in-town activities. Such as going to church. Shopping. Visiting neighbors. Dropping husbands off at railroad stations. And the like.

But we don't lure people into the store by advertising these tires as great bargains. We tell everybody right in our ads what they're for. And what they're not for.

And when you come into the store, we'll tell you the same thing in person that we tell you in our ads. More, in fact.

If you don't know the difference between 1st, 2nd and 3rd line tires, we'll tell you. In simple English. If you don't understand the differences between first and second quality tires, we'll explain them. Clearly. And we'll tell you how to use original equipment tires as the standard to help you judge tire quality for yourself, without having to depend on salesmen. (Even our own.)

Yes, a tire dealer can be honest with you—and still stay in business.

(We're doing OK. Without bait advertising.)

Take care of yourself.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The wonderful world of the carnival where the life and even the language is strange and foreign, was explored Sunday night by NBC with affection, humor and imaginative camera work.

The armchair visitor to a half dozen of the nation's top carnivals picked up a smattering of a culture and considerable incidental information never encountered on "Continental Classroom."

For instance our guide, veteran carnival performer Sally Rand, said that fire eaters always breathe out while doing their act and that they never use grease inside their mouths lest they burn themselves. She said sword swallowing is "really very easy," provided you can make a straight line between mouth and stomach and conquer a tendency to gag.

The amusing hour was a short course on one of the oldest forms of show business still flourishing.

CBS' excellent coverage of the final holes of the Masters golf tournament live from Augusta, Ga., showed a lot of wonderful golf, but the big lead that winner Arnold Palmer had built up took away any suspense it might have had. At the end, the big cliff-hanger was whether Palmer would break the course record. He didn't.

It wound up, unfortunately for the CBS staff, with almost a half hour of air time left. They filled it with post-mortem interviews, always anticlimactic.

The most dismisally anticlimactic program of the weekend was ABC's showing of film taken of the Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay fight in February. "Wide World of Sports" dragged the six rounds out to a half hour by first showing still pictures of the fight along with comment, then the fight with pauses to show portions in slow motion. And all with a lot of talk.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

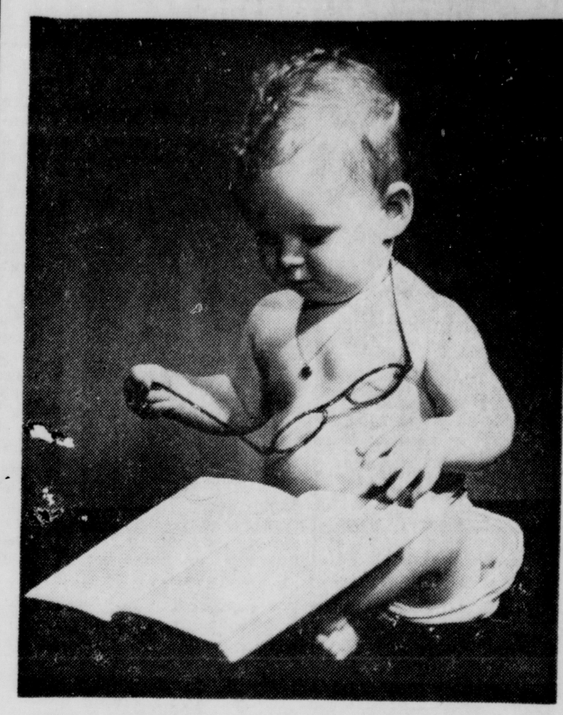

The mention of the Old Mine road, brought some interesting response. Mrs. Van Winkle of Stone Ridge telephoned me that she bought some time ago a book called "Hines Annual—1908" on the front page of which is printed "History and Legend, Fact, Fancy and Romance of the Old Mine Road, from Kingston, N. Y. to the mine holes of Pahaquarry, the Minisink Trail." The book mentions it is 100 miles long, and today most of the trail, she feels is route 209. She read me some items from the book, and suggested someday I drop in and see it. It seems the Old Dutch miners were working the mine and using this road back in the middle 1600's.

April 5, 1964, a lovely sunny Sunday, folks are bragging about their crocus coming up and are working in their gardens. I see the March 29, 1964 garden section says "Sow seeds of annuals outdoors when the maples are in leaf." No doubt an old Indian custom, still used in this most scientific world of 1964, when nature still wins every time. I do not hear much about Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring" book, but there is much written in various newspapers about the thousands of dead fish floating in the Mississippi River, from some sort of pesticides. The Indians and Colonists did not have to worry about that. I remember years ago, a good cook would not think of buying fish unless she saw it alive and lively. Fish markets in Kingston had tanks of water where the fish swam freely to be judged by the careful housewives.

I heard Robert Morley on Jack Parr's program the other night, and he said something to the effect that he feels the invention of the ball was the greatest disaster which befell civilization.

In comparing the English with the Americans he says he does not believe in all this exercise and dieting, and says that over here we have wonderful puddings and desserts, which those who have it on the table and can afford it, pass it up, and he suggests "Do eat up!" as life is usually only 70 years short and sometimes shorter. He also mentions that a child will pick up a ball and throw it down, but the schoolmaster will come along and show him how to waste his time with it, by telling him all about school spirit, that will ruin his precious hours and years forever, playing or watching that "ludicrous nonsense" of ball playing or chasing. He also blames other things on the "schoolmaster." He says that children are wonderful at four, and terrible at fourteen, all the fault of the schoolmaster. I always enjoyed Robert Morley, as an actor, writer and humorist.

I just ran across the following in the colorful illustrated Kingston, N. Y. Tercentenary (1652-1952) souvenir booklet given to me by Lawrence Hyatt. I mentioned before that on page 14 there is a handsome illustration of the De Wall Tavern which was recently demolished to make a metered blacktop parking lot on North Front Street. The following may interest readers: "For entertaining on a larger scale the wealthier residents of Kingston turned to De Wall's Tavern on North Front Street. De Wall was a native Hollander whose tavern boasted the largest ball room in the Hudson Valley . . . No gentleman was admitted except in dress coat, white stockings and pumps. A salver with refreshments was passed after each dance. These consisted of cake or other delicacies and two kinds of wine; Malaga, a sweet wine for the ladies and Terneriffe, a species of Madeira, for the men." More on the De Wall Tavern soon.

CHICAGO (AP) — Quandee Semrow, 4, decided to have a party.

She and a playmate stuffed scribbled addresses on them with crayons and stamped them. To make sure there was no mix-up, Quandee marked each envelope with her parents' address stamp.

There was a mix-up. The letters were returned because they were addressed with first names only. And stamped with trading stamps.

The girl's father, Harry H. Semrow, paid the 20 cents postage due. Semrow is the Chicago postmaster.

The American robin is really a North American thrush; the English robin is the true robin redbreast, being only half the size of the American type and having reddish-orange breast and forehead, brownish-olive upper parts and a white abdomen.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

NEW YORK (AP)—The wonderful world of the carnival where the life and even the language is strange and foreign, was explored Sunday night by NBC with affection, humor and imaginative camera work.

The armchair visitor to a half dozen of the nation's top carnivals picked up a smattering of a culture and considerable incidental information never encountered on "Continental Classroom."

For instance our guide, veteran carnival performer Sally Rand, said that fire eaters always breathe out while doing their act and that they never use grease inside their mouths lest they burn themselves. She said sword swallowing is "really very easy," provided you can make a straight line between mouth and stomach and conquer a tendency to gag.

The amusing hour was a short course on one of the oldest forms of show business still flourishing.

CBS' excellent coverage of the final holes of the Masters golf tournament live from Augusta, Ga., showed a lot of wonderful golf, but the big lead that winner Arnold Palmer had built up took away any suspense it might have had. At the end, the big cliff-hanger was whether Palmer would break the course record. He didn't.

It wound up, unfortunately for the CBS staff, with almost a half hour of air time left. They filled it with post-mortem interviews, always anticlimactic.

The most dismisally anticlimactic program of the weekend was ABC's showing of film taken of the Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay fight in February. "Wide World of Sports" dragged the six rounds out to a half hour by first showing still pictures of the fight along with comment, then the fight with pauses to show portions in slow motion. And all with a lot of talk.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The mention of the Old Mine road, brought some interesting response. Mrs. Van Winkle of Stone Ridge telephoned me that she bought some time ago a book called "Hines Annual—1908" on the front page of which is printed "History and Legend, Fact, Fancy and Romance of the Old Mine Road, from Kingston, N. Y. to the mine holes of Pahaquarry, the Minisink Trail." The book mentions it is 100 miles long, and today most of the trail, she feels is route 209. She read me some items from the book, and suggested someday I drop in and see it. It seems the Old Dutch miners were working the mine and using this road back in the middle 1600's.

April 5, 1964, a lovely sunny Sunday, folks are bragging about their crocus coming up and are working in their gardens. I see the March 29, 1964 garden section says "Sow seeds of annuals outdoors when the maples are in leaf." No doubt an old Indian custom, still used in this most scientific world of 1964, when nature still wins every time. I do not hear much about Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring" book, but there is much written in various newspapers about the thousands of dead fish floating in the Mississippi River, from some sort of pesticides. The Indians and Colonists did not have to worry about that. I remember years ago, a good cook would not think of buying fish unless she saw it alive and lively. Fish markets in Kingston had tanks of water where the fish swam freely to be judged by the careful housewives.

I heard Robert Morley on Jack Parr's program the other night, and he said something to the effect that he feels the invention of the ball was the greatest disaster which befell civilization.

In comparing the English with the Americans he says he does not believe in all this exercise and dieting, and says that over here we have wonderful puddings and desserts, which those who have it on the table and can afford it, pass it up, and he suggests "Do eat up!" as life is usually only 70 years short and sometimes shorter. He also mentions that a child will pick up a ball and throw it down, but the schoolmaster will come along and show him how to waste his time with it, by telling him all about school spirit, that will ruin his precious hours and years forever, playing or watching that "ludicrous nonsense" of ball playing or chasing. He also blames other things on the "schoolmaster." He says that children are wonderful at four, and terrible at fourteen, all the fault of the schoolmaster. I always enjoyed Robert Morley, as an actor, writer and humorist.

I just ran across the following in the colorful illustrated Kingston, N. Y. Tercentenary (1652-1952) souvenir booklet given to me by Lawrence Hyatt. I mentioned before that on page 14 there is a handsome illustration of the De Wall Tavern which was recently demolished to make a metered blacktop parking lot on North Front Street. The following may interest readers: "For entertaining on a larger scale the wealthier residents of Kingston turned to De Wall's Tavern on North Front Street. When Defense Must Duck

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I have just received the quarterly report on the American Bridge Teachers Association. Not only is it brimful of material that should be valuable to teachers, but there is plenty of good stuff for columnists. Of course, columnists are also teachers, or at least they should be.

Hazel Files of Oakland, Calif., shows several hands that illustrate the duck play. Mrs. Files explains that the duck play usually consists of conceding a trick you could take in order to win tricks later.

Her first example is a very simple one, but players frequently miss it.

South is in a very good three no-trump contract, but the combination of a spade opening, a duck play and a losing diamond finesse proves too much for him.

East wins the opening spade lead with his king and returns the five spot. South plays the jack, and if West rushes to take the trick, he will never make another one.

West should play a low spade at trick two and hold back his ace for later. He doesn't know that there will be a later opportunity, but he should realize from the bidding that his partner will hold other high cards beside the king of spades and that if one is the king of diamonds everything will be grand.

West ducks! Declarer can cash only seven more tricks. He must take the diamond finesse. It loses. East leads back his last spade and now West cashes three spade tricks.

Bootlegging Thriving?

CENTRAL CITY, Ky. (AP)—The repeal of Prohibition hasn't changed the situation much in this Kentucky town. It is dry under local option voted in its county. The Chamber of Commerce president protests that liquor is sold by a thriving bootlegging industry, rather than in "taxpaying, Chamber-supporting package stores."

CARS TO BE PRESENTED BY LIONS—Bob Beaumont, left, local Plymouth-Chrysler dealer, who is staging automobile phase of Kingston Lions Home and Auto Show starting Tuesday in New York State Armory on Manor Avenue, wants public to know that it will be well worth it to visit show during its five-day run as he hands car keys to Jack Reynolds, exposition chairman and Karl Pitcock, cochairman. Reynolds said that show is a complete sellout exhibitor-wise, with 159 booths and 89 exhibitors participating. Exposition will continue nightly from 7 to 10:30 and will feature awards, with proceeds going to club's numerous civic, community and charitable activities. (Freeman photo)

9 Senators Say Rights Not Major Issue for Them

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine senators up for election this year in states outside the South agreed generally today that civil rights is not a prime issue in their contests.

Since Alabama's segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace showed unexpected strength in the April 7 Wisconsin primary, politicians have been trying to calculate the depth of possible white resentment to the pace of racial integration.

Wallace said he ran in Wisconsin to demonstrate opposition to the House-passed civil rights bill now pending in the Senate.

But interviews with nine potential senatorial candidates—five Democrats and four Republicans—indicated most of them think Wallace's 25 per cent of the total primary vote proved little, if anything.

Taking a different tack from some of his colleagues, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said it was "utterly immaterial" to him whether his advocacy of civil rights legislation would cost him votes in New York State areas.

Burglary Charged

Accused of burglarizing a Wawarsing bar and grill last Friday, Carl Polick, 21, of that community, was taken into custody Sunday by Ellenville State Police BCI Investigator Michael Mahoney. The accused youth waived preliminary examination before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel at arraignment on a third degree burglary charge. He was committed to the Ulster County jail pending grand jury action.

Civil War Shoot Slated in June

For a non-shooter, the most interesting aspect of a North-South Civil War Swirmish is the variety and imagination displayed by the competing shooting teams in the uniforms they have recreated.

Saturday and Sunday, June 13 and 14, the reactivated 120th Volunteer New York Regiment of Saugerties, will hold its third annual shoot at Knaust Feld. The muzzle-loading team will be host to teams from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut. On these dates there will probably also be Rebel teams from Virginia and Maryland.

Plans for the two day shoot are under the direction of Sgt. Edward Van Gaasbeek, host captain. Teams will arrive at Knaust Field Friday, June 12. The public may visit the field and watch the setting up of the encampment.

Included in the weekend events will be individual competition, cannon competition, team competition and demonstrations. A Blue and Grey Ball will be held on Saturday night.

With a schedule of spring and summer shoots ahead of them, members of the 120th plan to attend the first of the season to be held at Fort Dix, N. J., the weekend of April 18 and 19.

Columbiettes Announce Slate; Vote is May 13

The following slate of officers has been proposed by the nominating committee of the Saugerties Council Columbiettes No. 4536 and will be voted on at the next meeting May 13.

Jeanette Curry, president; Elsie Wey, vice president; Lucille Nau, recording secretary; Mary Pietkiewicz, corresponding secretary; Lorraine Wagner, financial secretary; Mary Campochiaro, treasurer; Eve Sweeney, inner guard and Isabelle Gambino, outer guard.

Delegates to the state convention, Jeanette Curry and Lillian Conte with Betty Lynch and Gerry Ruddy as alternates.

Delegates to HV Chapter, Jeanette Curry, Lillian Conte, Elsie Wey, Lusille Nau and Gerry Ruddy with Betty Lynch, Laura Buono, Lorraine Wagner, Mary Riccio and Mary Campochiaro, as alternates.

Masons Confer Degrees on Two

The Third Degree of Masonry was conferred at the regular meeting of Ulster Lodge No. 193, last Wednesday by Kenneth W. Haggins, master. The new Master Mason's are John P. Schneider, and Lester Strickland.

Wednesday evening, April 15, the Fellowcraft Club of Ulster Lodge will have its regular monthly meeting.

The next regular meeting of Ulster Lodge will be April 22, which will be the Official Visit and Homecoming of R. W. C. Freeman Lasher, District Deputy Grand Master of the Greene-Ulster District. This meeting will be preceded by a dinner served by the Fellowcraft Club.

Advanced Education Program Is Planned

A program concerned with planning for advanced education sponsored by the Saugerties High School guidance department will be held in the high school auditorium at 8 p. m. Thursday. Parents of eleventh grade pupils are especially urged to attend this meeting although all interested persons are welcome.

Miss A. Frances Larned, director of guidance, will discuss types of advanced schools, what to consider in selecting an institution, relative costs of various types of advanced education, how to meet the expense of attending advanced schools and related topics. Audio materials will be used to supplement the presentation.

Pamphlets will be distributed providing information concerning selecting and applying for advanced schools, comparative costs at several colleges in the United States, and methods of financing advanced education. Questions from the audience will be welcomed.

Library Lists Current Events

A new series of workshops began at the Saugerties Public Library Thursday. Miss Martha Dykes, consultant in childrens literature for the Mid Hudson System, discussed science books for children. The panel included librarians from Phoenicia, Woodstock and Saugerties, a trustee from Phoenicia and Miss Marie Gustafsen from the libary extension division of the state education department. Problems of supplying material for current science curriculums were discussed. Members of the panel had the opportunity to examine some of the more recent publications in this field.

In honor of National Library Week the public library will have a display in the Howard Lezette Insurance Agency windows, Main Street. In this modern age of research and world wide communication the slogan Reading Is The Key calls attention to the wealth of material to be found in books which are available at public libraries all over the country.

Mrs. Josephine Lowther is displaying two paintings at the public library this month.

The Libbrary has two special selections on display, one of travel books and one of books of general interest to young people.

Recieves Fellowship

Richard Redder, guidance counselor at Saugerties High School, has been awarded a General Electric Guidance Fellowship. This Fellowship is offered for the 1964 summer session at Syracuse University. This will be the fifth year that the General Electric Foundation has sponsored the Summer Guidance Fellowship Program. He is one of 50 fellowship winners selected from applicants in eleven eastern states and Washington, D. C.

A new series of workshops began at the Saugerties Public Library Thursday. Miss Martha Dykes, consultant in childrens literature for the Mid Hudson System, discussed science books for children. The panel included librarians from Phoenicia, Woodstock and Saugerties, a trustee from Phoenicia and Miss Marie Gustafsen from the libary extension division of the state education department. Problems of supplying material for current science curriculums were discussed. Members of the panel had the opportunity to examine some of the more recent publications in this field.

In honor of National Library Week the public library will have a display in the Howard Lezette Insurance Agency windows, Main Street. In this modern age of research and world wide communication the slogan Reading Is The Key calls attention to the wealth of material to be found in books which are available at public libraries all over the country.

Mrs. Josephine Lowther is displaying two paintings at the public library this month.

The Library has two special selections on display, one of travel books and one of books of general interest to young people.

9 Senators Say Rights Not Major Issue for Them

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine senators up for election this year in states outside the South agreed generally today that civil rights is not a prime issue in their contests.

Since Alabama's segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace showed unexpected strength in the April 7 Wisconsin primary, politicians have been trying to calculate the depth of possible white resentment to the pace of racial integration.

Wallace said he ran in Wisconsin to demonstrate opposition to the House-passed civil rights bill now pending in the Senate.

But interviews with nine potential senatorial candidates—five Democrats and four Republicans—indicated most of them think Wallace's 25 per cent of the total primary vote proved little, if anything.

Taking a different tack from some of his colleagues, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said it was "utterly immaterial" to him whether his advocacy of civil rights legislation would cost him votes in New York State areas.

Burglary Charged

Accused of burglarizing a Wawarsing bar and grill last Friday, Carl Polick, 21, of that community, was taken into custody Sunday by Ellenville State Police BCI Investigator Michael Mahoney. The accused youth waived preliminary examination before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel at arraignment on a third degree burglary charge. He was committed to the Ulster County jail pending grand jury action.

Easy Masters Win Is Arnie's First For '64 Season

BY JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sportswriter

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Not so long ago, there was a golf champion everybody liked. He won the big tournaments and did impossible things.

Soon he was rich and famous. Then he didn't win any big tournaments or do any impossible things for a while, and people said he didn't know how to, anymore. They said he was too rich, and besides he couldn't putt like he used to.

Even Arnold Palmer heard the stories.

"The question mark was as big in my mind as in anybody else's when I stepped up to the first tee here," Palmer said, after he won his fourth Masters Golf Tournament over the Augusta National Course Sunday.

"It was like checking out an airplane with new spark plugs. I wasn't sure how they would function."

Consistent Rounds

They worked. Palmer shot rounds of 69, 68, 69 and 70 for 276, and achieved the following results:

He led all the way.

He had the second lowest total in the 31-year history of the Masters.

He had the second largest victory margin, six strokes. Defending champion Jack Nicklaus was second at 282, along with touring pro Dave Marr.

He didn't three putt a green until the 10th hole of the final round, when the issue had already been decided.

He won $20,000 in prize money, and struck what should amount to a million dollar blow for Arnold Palmer Enterprises, which manufacture almost everything but baby food and caskets.

And he struck the biggest blow to cigarette smoking since they locked Sir Walter Raleigh up in the Tower of London.

Palmer quit smoking on Jan. 27, and his resultant struggles were almost as public as the courtship of Elizabeth Taylor.

"I had a block about quitting. It seemed to affect my play around the greens. Now I've licked that," Palmer said.

Palmer opened play Sunday with a five - stroke lead over young Australian pro Bruce Devlin, and six over Marr.

Nicklaus, the big Ohioan who won two of the four big titles last year just missed a third, had never got started in this tournament and was nine strokes back, after rounds of 71, 73 and 71.

Young Jack, the main threat to Arnie's throne, ripped off a final round 67, including a drive on the 15th hole that must have carried 350 yards.

It wasn't enough, of course, as Palmer stroked steadily to his 70.

Young Marr, who played a round he called "not very good, but interesting," scratched to within three strokes of Palmer at No. 10, but he dunked his tee shot into the water at the short 12th, and had to make a 25-foot twisting putt on the last hole to tie Nicklaus for second.

The putt was worth $2,000 to Marr, who would have collected only $8,000 for third if he had missed.

Ithaca First

ITHACA, N. Y. (NEA) — An Ithaca College basketball squad qualified for the National Athletic Association Tournament for the first time.

Al McGuire to Coach Marquette Cage Team

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marquette, hoping to regain a place among the nation's major independent basketball powers, has dipped into the small college ranks and picked Al McGuire as the ninth coach in the university's 47-year history of the sport.

McGuire, a 35-year-old former St. John's University star and pro standout, was recruited from the Belmont Abbey College campus in Belmont, N.C., Saturday to try and restore Marquette court fortunes.

Dr. Thomas R. Abbott, chairman of the Marquette athletic board, said McGuire was selected to succeed the fired Eddie Hickey from more than 50 applicants, only three of whom were interviewed personally.

At the same time, the board named Stan Lowe, 60, a member of the school's athletic department since 1924, as athletic director. Hickey had held both posts until he was fired after the most dismal season in Marquette basketball history. The Warriors won only five of 26 games.

McGuire said that he agreed to a two-year contract.

McGuire was captain of the 1951 St. John's team which finished third in the National Invitation Tournament. He played for the New York Knickerbockers in the National Basketball Association and then served as an assistant at Dartmouth from 1954-56.

He moved to Belmont Abbey seven years ago and compiled an over-all record of 120 victories and 60 defeats. Five of his teams went to small college

Werner And West German Ski Star Are Killed in Avalanche

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP)—Buddy Werner, the hard-luck American ski star, lost a desperate race with an avalanche Sunday and was killed under tons of snow.

The 28-year-old Olympian was taking part in the filming of a ski fashions movie with other top skiers when the wet spring snow thundered down an Alpine slope at Samedan, a village two miles outside of this winter resort.

The avalanche also killed 23, one of West Germany's top women skiers. Fifteen others in the group dug themselves out or were freed by rescuers.

"It was a nightmare," said Fritz Wagnerberger, 27, a veteran German racer.

"We left early in the morning and chose what looked like a safe slope. Avalanches are frequent in the spring, but they rarely come down in the morning.

"We were crossing the slope in a file while the crew was filming when all of a sudden the snow gave way under our skis. It was about 10 o'clock in the morning.

"Pandemonium broke out. It was terrible. We were yelling and the screams could be heard over the thunder of the snow.

Tried To Beat Slide

"Buddy Werner raced down in front of me trying to get away. He was a little lower down and probably thought he had a chance to race away from the slide.

"Perhaps he could have done it, who can say? He got to the bottom, but then he slipped, somersaulted and was lying in the snow as the second arm of the slide crashed right on top of him.

"I think the same happened to Barbi."

Wagnerberger said those who dug themselves out rushed to where Werner and Miss Henneberger were buried and dug into the snow with bare hands. Other skiers from a nearby lift came quickly.

"In the end there were hundreds helping us," Wagnerberger said, "but for Bud and Barbi it was too late."

Miss Henneberger's body was found in eight feet of snow three hours after the slide. Werner's body was discovered an hour later in 10 feet. Both had suffocated.

Elsewhere in Switzerland, at least four Swiss were still missing after avalanches at Kuessnacht, in central Switzerland, and Sargans, near the Austrian border.

Werner, whose first name was Wallace, made his home in Steamboat Springs, Colo., but in the last decade he spent much of his time competing on the world's ski slopes. Although he never won an Olympic medal, he was the first American male skier to be taken seriously by the Europeans.

Trotting Rivalry ResumesSaturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Su Mac Lad and Porterhouse renew their rivalry Saturday night at Roosevelt Raceway and racing luck could reverse last week's decision.

Su Mac Lad was the victory by a neck a week ago when the two made their season's debuts.

Other likely starters in Saturday's race, the $25,000 Trader Horn Trot, are Marco Hanover, Rodare, Jerry Dean and Darn Dandy.

Su Mac Lad is the world's leading money-winning harness horse with earnings of $719,549.

The top money-winning pacer, Henry T. Adios, didn't fare as well in his debut. Henry T. battled with Meadow Skipper for the first half mile in last Saturday night's feature at Roosevelt, the $25,000 Hi-Lo Forbes Pace. Henry T. finished sixth and Meadow Skipper, Third.

Mr. Budlong won the race by a head over Adora's Dream. The mile race was timed in 2:00 3-5. Mr. Budlong returned $25.-10.

In the feature at the only other harness track now open in the state, Ted-Row-Gil defeated Honor Dares and War Haven at Buffalo Raceway. Eldon Harner drove the 5-year-old bay in the mile race timed in 2:06. Ted-Row-Gil paid $4.30.

Curren Five, Stony Point Suffer Losses

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Pulling away in the final period, the powerful Pine Plains Bombardiers edged closer to the Kingston Basketball tournament championship with an 89-75 win over the Curren Lincoln-Mercury five before a good crowd last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

Ray's Tackle Shop held off a belated Stony Point rally to win the opener, 86-81, and earn the honor of meeting Pine Plains next Sunday.

Action in this double elimination tourney continues on Thursday night. The Albany IRA is paired with the Albany Athletic Club at 7:30 and Curren takes on Stony Point at 9 p. m. Losers will be eliminated. The winners will clash at 7:30 on Sunday night while Ray's and the Bombardiers will meet at 9 the same evening.

Curren was supposed to bring Jerry Harkness of Loyola and Bill O'Connor of Canisius to play against Pine Plains. It's doubtful if they would have made that much difference.

The Bombardiers had several anxious moments but they scored when pressure was asserted and finally pulled ahead in the last period.

22 For Werkman

Nick Werkman led the winners with 22 points but most of these came after the game was out of reach. Bill Telasky quarterbacked George Stuetzle's quintet and scored 20 points in the process.

Hank Whitney, another newcomer from the Eastern league, had 17 points and did a bangup job of rebounding. Sunny Sunkett had 14 markers.

Walt Ward and York Larese finished with 17 points each for the New Rochelle outfit while Walt Simon and Nick LaPolla had 16 each.

Pine Plains had quarter margins of 10-19, 50-40, and 63-56.

Citarella Is Hot

The first game was a nail biter. Tony Citarella, who went to NYU for a time, was simply great for Stony Point. He scored 33 points and was flawless from start to finish. Art Orlando, the ex-Manhattan star, tallied 23 markers.

However, balance was the keynote and Ray's had it. Bob Bondar came off the bench to score 18 markers, trailing only Joe Klonowski, who had 19. Joe Uhl added 14, Ron Miller 12 and Chick Boice 11. Ronnie Scheffel fed the big boys underneath to set up several key buckets.

Ward Dunham's classy cagers led, 25-20, 42-41, and 64-57, at the quarter stops. Stony Point came to within three points in the final session before finally going under.

Orange Gridders Begin Sessions

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Coach Floyd (Ben) Schwartzwalder began oiling up his Syracuse University grid machine Monday as he put 90 hopefuls through spring practice drills.

The opening practice session was held Friday after a delay of four days due to rain and poor turf.

Schwartzwalder, beginning his 16th season as coach, said the squad appeared to be in good physical condition.

He hopes to run off the 20 scheduled drills before the Syracuse Varsity-Alumni game May 9.

Finley Refuses AL Request To Remove Home Run Porch

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"It's a matter of principle," Charles O. Finley says of his short home run porch, "to finally bring the Yankees in line." The outspoken Kansas City owner plans another move today with the same goal.

Finley made it clear he has no intentions of giving up his effort to demonstrate—with plyboard fences, paint and temporary bleachers—what he feels are the inequities of New York's Yankee Stadium.

Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, and Joe Cronin, president of the American League, ordered Finley in stern words to take down his "pennant porch," a green and yellow near-replica of the right field sector in Yankee Stadium, where the foul line homer distance is 296 feet.

Finley gave no hint of his next move Sunday, saying "first I want to give Mr. Cronin and Mr. Frick the courtesy of a phone call, which is more than they gave me.

Wants To Be Nice

"I'm trying to be nice and within the rules but I have more moves in mind, if they can't see the fairness of this."

"My manager, Ed Lopat, was a great pitcher with the Yankees," Finley said. "I've talked to others. It's a fact you have to pitch differently in Yankee Stadium than the other nine parks. It's unfair.

"The show hasn't changed in 18 years in the American League," he said. "As an owner, I'm concerned. Yankee domination could reach the point of no return. They win because their hitters learn to take advantage of the stadium with cheap homers.

"Why shouldn't there be a screen in Yankee Stadium to compensate for the homer distance of less than the 325 feet in the rule book? In Boston it's only 315 to left, but the wall is 37 feet high, not 51 inches as in the stadium.

"Certainly, my porch is against the intent of the rule, but what about the Yanks? The rule says 325 to the pole, not the nearest fence and I'm within the rule. I can't operate on intent."

Frick indicated it was a matter of principle with him, too, as he declared, "there's only one interpretation and I make that. There's no hearing, no appeal, no nothing."

Leafs Take Lead In Cup Playoffs

TORONTO (AP) — Coach Sid Abel of the Detroit Red Wings turned out to be a pretty accurate prophet. As a result, his team is one down in the Stanley Cup finals in the National Hockey League playoffs.

The defending champion Toronto Maple Leafs took the opener of the best-of-seven series 3-2 Saturday night and will try to make it two in a row here Tuesday night.

Abel told newsmen last Friday that he figured Bobby Pulford was the most dangerous man on the Toronto team because "he is a hard-nosed guy who is always in there trying."

It was Pulford who broke loose on a dramatic dash while the Leafs were shorthanded to slam home the inning goal with only two seconds left in the game.

The Leafs, seeking their third straight Stanley Cup, beat Detroit four games to one in the 1963 final, and odds on their repeating went up after their victory in the opener.

RVC Jayvees Win Over Ellies, 11-7

Rondout Valley's jayvee team opened the season with an 11-7 verdict over visiting Ellenville Friday at the Stone Ridge field.

Charles Coogan, the winner and James Adams and Harry Simpson saw mound action for Rondout. Larry Larson did the catching.

Steve Schoonmaker belted a triple to pace the attack.

Yankees, Dodgers Are Flag Choices

NEW YORK (AP) —A new baseball season opens today with new hopes, new faces, new managers, a new stadium and a new President throwing out the first ball. But the general forecast is the same—the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees to meet in the World Series.

The professional odds-makers have installed the Dodgers a 6-5 favorite to win the National League pennant. They have made the Yankees an overwhelming 2-5 choice to walk off with the American League championship.

Ortiz Defends Title, Tops Lane

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, fresh off an impressive title defense against Kenny Lane, is expected to choose his next challenger within a month.

Bill Daley, manager of the Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, said today that Ortiz is considering three possible opponents. He has been offered $100,000 to defend against featherweight champion Sugar Ramos in Los Angeles and $60,000 to fight Willy Quatier in Berlin or Johnny Bizzarro in Pittsburgh.

Lane, the Muskegon, Mich., left-hander who had campaigned for his shot at the crown while Ortiz met other challengers, left for home Sunday after fumbling his second, and possibly last, title fight.

"I should have jumped him. I waited too long to get going," said Lane. "If I had pressed the fight, he would have run out of gas."

Ortiz, scornful of the challenger who was forced upon him by the World Boxing Association, called Lane "overrated."

"He ran all night. If he had fought, I would have knocked him out," said the champion. Lane was down for no count in the 14th round.

Hawks Tie Playoffs, 123-95

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks did everything right and the San Francisco Warriors did everything wrong Sunday night in the National Basketball Association playoffs and the score showed it:

St. Louis 123, San Francisco 95.

Warriors' Coach Alex Hannum summed it up: "There's just isn't much you can do in a game like that."

The outcome sent the clubs back to San Francisco to settle the Western Division best-of-seven final set Thursday. Each team has three victories.

The winner meets Boston, the Eastern Division playoff champion, in another best-of-seven series for the NBA title.

St. Louis, utilizing quick hands that stole the ball repeatedly and led to easy fast break baskets, stormed by the Warriors for a 59-33 halftime bulge. That settled the issue as the Hawks never let up after the intermission.

Wilt Chamberlain, who crushed the Hawks with 50 points in a 121-97 Warriors' victory Friday, left the scoring to his teammates in the first half Sunday. Content to pass off, he took only ight eshots and notched only eight points by intermission.

Chamberlain began taking his shots in the second half and finished with a game-high of 34 points, but it was too late.

A brief pushing match spiced the first quarter as players from both benches emptied onto the court. Wayne Hightower and Al Atles of the Warriors were set to take on Beaty, but they were separated before any punches were thrown.

He had the second lowest total in the 31-year history of the Masters.

He had the second largest victory margin, six strokes. Defending champion Jack Nicklaus was second at 282, along with touring pro Dave Marr.

He didn't three putt a green until the 10th hole of the final round, when the issue had already been decided.

He won $20,000 in prize money, and struck what should amount to a million dollar blow for Arnold Palmer Enterprises, which manufacture almost everything but baby food and caskets.

And he struck the biggest blow to cigarette smoking since they locked Sir Walter Raleigh up in the Tower of London.

Palmer quit smoking on Jan. 27, and his resultant struggles were almost as public as the courtship of Elizabeth Taylor.

"I had a block about quitting. It seemed to affect my play around the greens. Now I've licked that," Palmer said.

Palmer opened play Sunday with a five - stroke lead over young Australian pro Bruce Devlin, and six over Marr.

Nicklaus, the big Ohioan who won two of the four big titles last year just missed a third, had never got started in this tournament and was nine strokes back, after rounds of 71, 73 and 71.

Young Jack, the main threat to Arnie's throne, ripped off a final round 67, including a drive on the 15th hole that must have carried 350 yards.

It wasn't enough, of course, as Palmer stroked steadily to his 70.

Young Marr, who played a round he called "not very good, but interesting," scratched to within three strokes of Palmer at No. 10, but he dunked his tee shot into the water at the short 12th, and had to make a 25-foot twisting putt on the last hole to tie Nicklaus for second.

The putt was worth $2,000 to Marr, who would have collected only $8,000 for third if he had missed.

ITHACA, N. Y. (NEA) — An Ithaca College basketball squad qualified for the National Athletic Association Tournament for the first time.

Al McGuire to Coach Marquette Cage Team

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marquette, hoping to regain a place among the nation's major independent basketball powers, has dipped into the small college ranks and picked Al McGuire as the ninth coach in the university's 47-year history of the sport.

McGuire, a 35-year-old former St. John's University star and pro standout, was recruited from the Belmont Abbey College campus in Belmont, N.C., Saturday to try and restore Marquette court fortunes.

Dr. Thomas R. Abbott, chairman of the Marquette athletic board, said McGuire was selected to succeed the fired Eddie Hickey from more than 50 applicants, only three of whom were interviewed personally.

At the same time, the board named Stan Lowe, 60, a member of the school's athletic department since 1924, as athletic director. Hickey had held both posts until he was fired after the most dismal season in Marquette basketball history. The Warriors won only five of 26 games.

McGuire said that he agreed to a two-year contract.

McGuire was captain of the 1951 St. John's team which finished third in the National Invitation Tournament. He played for the New York Knickerbockers in the National Basketball Association and then served as an assistant at Dartmouth from 1954-56.

He moved to Belmont Abbey seven years ago and compiled an over-all record of 120 victories and 60 defeats. Five of his teams went to small college

Werner And West German Ski Star Are Killed in Avalanche

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP)—Buddy Werner, the hard-luck American ski star, lost a desperate race with an avalanche Sunday and was killed under tons of snow.

The 28-year-old Olympian was taking part in the filming of a ski fashions movie with other top skiers when the wet spring snow thundered down an Alpine slope at Samedan, a village two miles outside of this winter resort.

The avalanche also killed 23, one of West Germany's top women skiers. Fifteen others in the group dug themselves out or were freed by rescuers.

"It was a nightmare," said Fritz Wagnerberger, 27, a veteran German racer.

"We left early in the morning and chose what looked like a safe slope. Avalanches are frequent in the spring, but they rarely come down in the morning.

"We were crossing the slope in a file while the crew was filming when all of a sudden the snow gave way under our skis. It was about 10 o'clock in the morning.

"Pandemonium broke out. It was terrible. We were yelling and the screams could be heard over the thunder of the snow.

Tried To Beat Slide

"Buddy Werner raced down in front of me trying to get away. He was a little lower down and probably thought he had a chance to race away from the slide.

"Perhaps he could have done it, who can say? He got to the bottom, but then he slipped, somersaulted and was lying in the snow as the second arm of the slide crashed right on top of him.

"I think the same happened to Barbi."

Wagnerberger said those who dug themselves out rushed to where Werner and Miss Henneberger were buried and dug into the snow with bare hands. Other skiers from a nearby lift came quickly.

"In the end there were hundreds helping us," Wagnerberger said, "but for Bud and Barbi it was too late."

Miss Henneberger's body was found in eight feet of snow three hours after the slide. Werner's body was discovered an hour later in 10 feet. Both had suffocated.

Elsewhere in Switzerland, at least four Swiss were still missing after avalanches at Kuessnacht, in central Switzerland, and Sargans, near the Austrian border.

Werner, whose first name was Wallace, made his home in Steamboat Springs, Colo., but in the last decade he spent much of his time competing on the world's ski slopes. Although he never won an Olympic medal, he was the first American male skier to be taken seriously by the Europeans.

Trotting Rivalry Resumes Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Su Mac Lad and Porterhouse renew their rivalry Saturday night at Roosevelt Raceway and racing luck could reverse last week's decision.

Su Mac Lad was the victory by a neck a week ago when the two made their season's debuts.

Other likely starters in Saturday's race, the $25,000 Trader Horn Trot, are Marco Hanover, Rodare, Jerry Dean and Darn Dandy.

Su Mac Lad is the world's leading money-winning harness horse with earnings of $719,549.

The top money-winning pacer, Henry T. Adios, didn't fare as well in his debut. Henry T. battled with Meadow Skipper for the first half mile in last Saturday night's feature at Roosevelt, the $25,000 Hi-Lo Forbes Pace. Henry T. finished sixth and Meadow Skipper, Third.

Mr. Budlong won the race by a head over Adora's Dream. The mile race was timed in 2:00 3-5. Mr. Budlong returned $25.-10.

Curren Five, Stony Point Suffer Losses

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Pulling away in the final period, the powerful Pine Plains Bombardiers edged closer to the Kingston Basketball tournament championship with an 89-75 win over the Curren Lincoln-Mercury five before a good crowd last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

Ray's Tackle Shop held off a belated Stony Point rally to win the opener, 86-81, and earn the honor of meeting Pine Plains next Sunday.

Action in this double elimination tourney continues on Thursday night. The Albany IRA is paired with the Albany Athletic Club at 7:30 and Curren takes on Stony Point at 9 p. m. Losers will be eliminated. The winners will clash at 7:30 on Sunday night while Ray's and the Bombardiers will meet at 9 the same evening.

Curren was supposed to bring Jerry Harkness of Loyola and Bill O'Connor of Canisius to play against Pine Plains. It's doubtful if they would have made that much difference.

The Bombardiers had several anxious moments but they scored when pressure was asserted and finally pulled ahead in the last period.

22 For Werkman

Nick Werkman led the winners with 22 points but most of these came after the game was out of reach. Bill Telasky quarterbacked George Stuetzle's quintet and scored 20 points in the process.

Hank Whitney, another newcomer from the Eastern league, had 17 points and did a bangup job of rebounding. Sunny Sunkett had 14 markers.

Walt Ward and York Larese finished with 17 points each for the New Rochelle outfit while Walt Simon and Nick LaPolla had 16 each.

Pine Plains had quarter margins of 10-19, 50-40, and 63-56.

Citarella Is Hot

The first game was a nail biter. Tony Citarella, who went to NYU for a time, was simply great for Stony Point. He scored 33 points and was flawless from start to finish. Art Orlando, the ex-Manhattan star, tallied 23 markers.

However, balance was the keynote and Ray's had it. Bob Bondar came off the bench to score 18 markers, trailing only Joe Klonowski, who had 19. Joe Uhl added 14, Ron Miller 12 and Chick Boice 11. Ronnie Scheffel fed the big boys underneath to set up several key buckets.

Ward Dunham's classy cagers led, 25-20, 42-41, and 64-57, at the quarter stops. Stony Point came to within three points in the final session before finally going under.

Orange Gridders Begin Sessions

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Coach Floyd (Ben) Schwartzwalder began oiling up his Syracuse University grid machine Monday as he put 90 hopefuls through spring practice drills.

The opening practice session was held Friday after a delay of four days due to rain and poor turf.

Graduation took its biggest toll along the forward wall. In the backfield, however, the Orange attack will be spearheaded by seniors Jim Nance and Wally Mahle and junior Mike Koski.

Schwartzwalder, beginning his 16th season as coach, said the squad appeared to be in good physical condition.

He hopes to run off the 20 scheduled drills before the Syracuse Varsity-Alumni game May 9.

Finley Refuses AL Request To Remove Home Run Porch

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"It's a matter of principle," Charles O. Finley says of his short home run porch, "to finally bring the Yankees in line." The outspoken Kansas City owner plans another move today with the same goal.

Finley made it clear he has no intentions of giving up his effort to demonstrate—with plyboard fences, paint and temporary bleachers—what he feels are the inequities of New York's Yankee Stadium.

Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, and Joe Cronin, president of the American League, ordered Finley in stern words to take down his "pennant porch," a green and yellow near-replica of the right field sector in Yankee Stadium, where the foul line homer distance is 296 feet.

Finley gave no hint of his next move Sunday, saying "first I want to give Mr. Cronin and Mr. Frick the courtesy of a phone call, which is more than they gave me.

Wants To Be Nice

"I'm trying to be nice and within the rules but I have more moves in mind, if they can't see the fairness of this."

"My manager, Ed Lopat, was a great pitcher with the Yankees," Finley said. "I've talked to others. It's a fact you have to pitch differently in Yankee Stadium than the other nine parks. It's unfair.

"The show hasn't changed in 18 years in the American League," he said. "As an owner, I'm concerned. Yankee domination could reach the point of no return. They win because their hitters learn to take advantage of the stadium with cheap homers.

"Why shouldn't there be a screen in Yankee Stadium to compensate for the homer distance of less than the 325 feet in the rule book? In Boston it's only 315 to left, but the wall is 37 feet high, not 51 inches as in the stadium.

"Certainly, my porch is against the intent of the rule, but what about the Yanks? The rule says 325 to the pole, not the nearest fence and I'm within the rule. I can't operate on intent."

Frick indicated it was a matter of principle with him, too, as he declared, "there's only one interpretation and I make that. There's no hearing, no appeal, no nothing."

Leafs Take Lead In Cup Playoffs

TORONTO (AP) — Coach Sid Abel of the Detroit Red Wings turned out to be a pretty accurate prophet. As a result, his team is one down in the Stanley Cup finals in the National Hockey League playoffs.

The defending champion Toronto Maple Leafs took the opener of the best-of-seven series 3-2 Saturday night and will try to make it two in a row here Tuesday night.

Abel told newsmen last Friday that he figured Bobby Pulford was the most dangerous man on the Toronto team because "he is a hard-nosed guy who is always in there trying."

It was Pulford who broke loose on a dramatic dash while the Leafs were shorthanded to slam home the winning goal with only two seconds left in the game.

The Leafs, seeking their third straight Stanley Cup, beat Detroit four games to one in the 1963 final, and odds on their repeating went up after their victory in the opener.

RVC Jayvees Win Over Ellies, 11-7

Rondout Valley's jayvee team opened the season with an 11-7 verdict over visiting Ellenville Friday at the Stone Ridge field.

Charles Coogan, the winner and James Adams and Harry Simpson saw mound action for Rondout. Larry Larson did the catching.

Steve Schoonmaker belted a triple to pace the attack.

Yankees, Dodgers Are Flag Choices

NEW YORK (AP) —A new baseball season opens today with new hopes, new faces, new managers, a new stadium and a new President throwing out the first ball. But the general forecast is the same—the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees to meet in the World Series.

The professional odds-makers have installed the Dodgers a 6-5 favorite to win the National League pennant. They have made the Yankees an overwhelming 2-5 choice to walk off with the American League championship.

Ortiz Defends Title, Tops Lane

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, fresh off an impressive title defense against Kenny Lane, is expected to choose his next challenger within a month.

Bill Daley, manager of the Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, said today that Ortiz is considering three possible opponents. He has been offered $100,000 to defend against featherweight champion Sugar Ramos in Los Angeles and $60,000 to fight Willy Quatier in Berlin or Johnny Bizzarro in Pittsburgh.

Lane, the Muskegon, Mich., left-hander who had campaigned for his shot at the crown while Ortiz met other challengers, left for home Sunday after fumbling his second, and possibly last, title fight.

"I should have jumped him. I waited too long to get going," said Lane. "If I had pressed the fight, he would have run out of gas."

Ortiz, scornful of the challenger who was forced upon him by the World Boxing Association, called Lane "overrated."

"He ran all night. If he had fought, I would have knocked him out," said the champion. Lane was down for no count in the 14th round.

Hawks Tie Playoffs, 123-95

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks did everything right and the San Francisco Warriors did everything wrong Sunday night in the National Basketball Association playoffs and the score showed it:

St. Louis 123, San Francisco 95.

Warriors' Coach Alex Hannum summed it up: "There's just isn't much you can do in a game like that."

The outcome sent the clubs back to San Francisco to settle the Western Division best-of-seven final set Thursday. Each team has three victories.

The winner meets Boston, the Eastern Division playoff champion, in another best-of-seven series for the NBA title.

St. Louis, utilizing quick hands that stole the ball repeatedly and led to easy fast break baskets, stormed by the Warriors for a 59-33 halftime bulge. That settled the issue as the Hawks never let up after the intermission.

Wilt Chamberlain, who crushed the Hawks with 50 points in a 121-97 Warriors' victory Friday, left the scoring to his teammates in the first half Sunday. Content to pass off, he took only ight eshots and notched only eight points by intermission.

Chamberlain began taking his shots in the second half and finished with a game-high of 34 points, but it was too late.

A brief pushing match spiced the first quarter as players from both benches emptied onto the court. Wayne Hightower and Al Atles of the Warriors were set to take on Beaty, but they were separated before any punches were thrown.

Guilderland Nine Spoils Saugerties Baseball Debut, 3-0

Skogstrand Hurls Two-Hitter, Fans 15 For Winners

Righty Arnie Skogstrand threw bullets past the Saugerties High batters Saturday as Guilderland spoiled the debut of the Sawyers, 3-0, on the SHS diamond.

Skogstrand, who is also a star football performer, struck out the first nine batters to face him and finished with 15 whiffs for the morning.

Coach Jeff Smythe's team was without a hit until the final frame when Mike Brady singled and Earl Martin followed with an infield hit.

However, with the tying run at the dish, Skogstrand hitched up his trousers and blazed a third strike past John Luchkowec to end the game.

Andy Wood went the distance for the Sawyers and he did a good job. Guilderland broke a scoreless tie in the fourth inning on a pair of singles, a fielders choice and an error.

A pair of two out singles and two wild pitches by Wood enabled the final run to cross in the seventh.

The clubs go at it again this afternoon at the Guilderland diamond. Chances are Skogstrand won't be on the mound so it might be a different story this time.

Guilderland Nine Spoils Saugerties Baseball Debut, 3-0

Skogstrand Hurls Two-Hitter, Fans 15 For Winners

Righty Arnie Skogstrand threw bullets past the Saugerties High batters Saturday as Guilderland spoiled the debut of the Sawyers, 3-0, on the SHS diamond.

Skogstrand, who is also a star football performer, struck out the first nine batters to face him and finished with 15 whiffs for the morning.

Coach Jeff Smythe's team was without a hit until the final frame when Mike Brady singled and Earl Martin followed with an infield hit.

However, with the tying run at the dish, Skogstrand hitched up his trousers and blazed a third strike past John Luchkowec to end the game.

Andy Wood went the distance for the Sawyers and he did a good job. Guilderland broke a scoreless tie in the fourth inning on a pair of singles, a fielders choice and an error.

A pair of two out singles and two wild pitches by Wood enabled the final run to cross in the seventh.

The clubs go at it again this afternoon at the Guilderland diamond. Chances are Skogstrand won't be on the mound so it might be a different story this time.

Shea Stadium vs. Chavez-Mets Win

SHEA STADIUM, shown here nearly completed but minus tinsel, is more amazing than the Amazin' New York Mets.

BY BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) For the time being at least Shea Stadium is the ultimate in baseball settings.

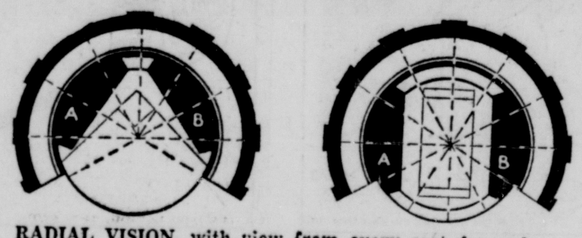

It's so pretty it may even make the New York Mets look good, like a piece of kooky costume jewelry in a Tiffany box.

And it might never have happened if Richard Q. Praeger hadn't been an avid Dodger bleacher fan at old Ebbets Field in Brooklyn.

"To get lost here, you have to be color-blind and illiterate," said Praeger, the partner in charge of engineering for the firm (Praeger-Kavanagh-Waterbury) that designed the 55,000-capacity sports playground in Flushing Meadows. "You notice that seats are a different color on each level. Tickets are colored to correspond to seats and each of the seven banks of escalators is color-coded to the tier it serves."

* * *

The escalators, which can carry 56,000 pesons an hour and are augmented by 24 ramps for those who don't like mechanical gadgets, are an outgrowth of Dodger Stadium in Chavez Ravine, Los Angeles.

RADIAL VISION, with view from every seat focused on same spot, is a feature of Shea Stadium. Left is setup for baseball. Right shows movable field seats, A-B, switched into position for football.

"One of the great things about Dodger Stadium," said Praeger, "is that it is built into the side of a hill. This made it possible to have parking space on the same level as the seat a patron bought. They liked this so much, we wanted the same thing here, but we were on flat ground, so we substituted the escalators to take people where they belong."

The ground at Flushing Meadows was not only flat but so flabby that supporting piles sank 60 feet of their own weight and had to be pounded down an average of 125 feet to hold up the structure and give support to a glass dome, if one ever is incorporated into the stadium.

"Everything has been done for the good of the customer—and the box office," said Praeger, sweeping an arm across the stands. "Look, no columns. This is a great thing in selling tickets. A patron doesn't have to take up the ticketseller's time being assured he isn't behind a column. He knows he always gets a clear view."

* * *

Other helpful aids for the patrons — and box office — are pneumatic tubes from a central office to all windows which will keep an even supply of all sorts of tickets avalable, seats 19-23 inches wide (usually they are 17 or 18) and what Praeger calls radial vision.

"Because of the circular construction, every seat, no matter what you pay for it, faces a spot just behind second base for baseball and exactly on the 50-yard line in football,' he said. "Chavex Ravine can't have this because it isn't round.

"The Dodgers don't have Shea's lighting system, either. The lights here are run in continuous strips on the roof—there are only two towers, beyond right and left fields. We are using, for the first time, a combination of quartzite and mercury vapor lamps that is pretty close to actual daylight and eliminates the yellow tinge of ordinary floodlights."

* * *

With the horrible example of Candlestick Park in mind, the Meadows site was surveyed for wind problems before building started. "We won't have that trouble," assured Praeger.

"This job has been a real pleasure," said Praeger. "I'm Brooklyn-born and used to line up for bleacher seats at Ebbets Field when I was a kid. We were Walter O'Malley's firm when he was trying to find a spot in Brooklyn. A lot of the things we dreamed up at that time went into Chavez Ravine. Then we took the best of the Dodger Stadium and built it into this one. Everybody should be happy with it."

If the Mets ever start to win, even the fans might be delirious with joy.

One of the nice things about owning it is selling it.

A new Volkswagen doesn't depreciate wildly the minute you turn the key.
In a sense, the older it gets the more valuable it gets.
So that in 5 years, the same VW will be worth more than some 5-year-old cars that cost twice as much to begin with.
Old VWs are worth a lot because a lot of people want them.
For one thing, it takes a real car nut to tell a clean used one from a new one.
VWs always look like VWs.
Another reason is that they hold up.
A VW is put together so well, it's practically airtight. (It helps to open a window to close a door. Even on old ones.)
And, new VW or old, there's all that nice money you keep saving on gas, oil, tires, insurance, and repairs.
Which means you can get a nice price for it. (If, for some strange reason, you'd want to sell.)
It's the kind of economy that people are willing to pay an arm and a leg for.

Shea Stadium vs. Chavez-Mets Win

SHEA STADIUM, shown here nearly completed but minus tinsel, is more amazing than the Amazin' New York Mets.

BY BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) For the time being at least Shea Stadium is the ultimate in baseball settings.

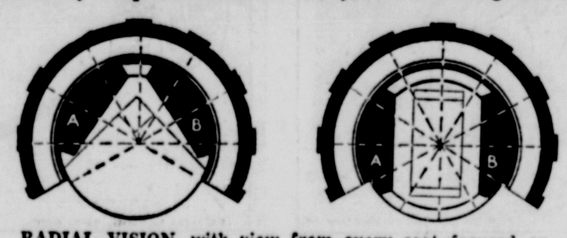

It's so pretty it may even make the New York Mets look good, like a piece of kooky costume jewelry in a Tiffany box.

And it might never have happened if Richard Q. Praeger hadn't been an avid Dodger bleacher fan at old Ebbets Field in Brooklyn.

"To get lost here, you have to be color-blind and illiterate," said Praeger, the partner in charge of engineering for the firm (Praeger-Kavanagh-Waterbury) that designed the 55,000-capacity sports playground in Flushing Meadows. "You notice that seats are a different color on each level. Tickets are colored to correspond to seats and each of the seven banks of escalators is color-coded to the tier it serves."

* * *

The escalators, which can carry 56,000 pesons an hour and are augmented by 24 ramps for those who don't like mechanical gadgets, are an outgrowth of Dodger Stadium in Chavez Ravine, Los Angeles.

RADIAL VISION, with view from every seat focused on same spot, is a feature of Shea Stadium. Left is setup for baseball. Right shows movable field seats, A-B, switched into position for football.

"One of the great things about Dodger Stadium," said Praeger, "is that it is built into the side of a hill. This made it possible to have parking space on the same level as the seat a patron bought. They liked this so much, we wanted the same thing here, but we were on flat ground, so we substituted the escalators to take people where they belong."

The ground at Flushing Meadows was not only flat but so flabby that supporting piles sank 60 feet of their own weight and had to be pounded down an average of 125 feet to hold up the structure and give support to a glass dome, if one ever is incorporated into the stadium.

"Everything has been done for the good of the customer—and the box office," said Praeger, sweeping an arm across the stands. "Look, no columns. This is a great thing in selling tickets. A patron doesn't have to take up the ticketseller's time being assured he isn't behind a column. He knows he always gets a clear view."

* * *

Other helpful aids for the patrons — and box office — are pneumatic tubes from a central office to all windows which will keep an even supply of all sorts of tickets avalable, seats 19-23 inches wide (usually they are 17 or 18) and what Praeger calls radial vision.

"Because of the circular construction, every seat, no matter what you pay for it, faces a spot just behind second base for baseball and exactly on the 50-yard line in football,' he said. "Chavex Ravine can't have this because it isn't round.

"The Dodgers don't have Shea's lighting system, either. The lights here are run in continuous strips on the roof—there are only two towers, beyond right and left fields. We are using, for the first time, a combination of quartzite and mercury vapor lamps that is pretty close to actual daylight and eliminates the yellow tinge of ordinary floodlights."

* * *

With the horrible example of Candlestick Park in mind, the Meadows site was surveyed for wind problems before building started. "We won't have that trouble," assured Praeger.

"This job has been a real pleasure," said Praeger. "I'm Brooklyn-born and used to line up for bleacher seats at Ebbets Field when I was a kid. We were Walter O'Malley's firm when he was trying to find a spot in Brooklyn. A lot of the things we dreamed up at that time went into Chavez Ravine. Then we took the best of the Dodger Stadium and built it into this one. Everybody should be happy with it."

If the Mets ever start to win, even the fans might be delirious with joy.

Each of the new noncommissioned officers will attend a comprehensive two-week course of training at the State Police Academy to assuming their duties in the field.

No Big Drive Is Launched Yet for Strategic Pass

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP — Fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots continued today for the third day in Kyrenia Pass. But there still was no sign the Greeks have launched an all-out onslaught against the strategic pass.

Gunfire sounded again about 7 a.m. after an overnight lull. A U.N. spotter plane flying over the craggy ridge, where both sides are well entrenched, reported a "lot of activity."

Firing also was reported near the Turkish Cypriot village of Temblos, at the foot of ancient St. Hilarion Castle, a Turkish stronghold menaced by the Greek advance on Kyrenia Pass.

A U.N. spokesman said the Turks began the Kyrenia battle by firing on villages. The U.N. moved in a platoon of British paratroopers after the Greeks warned they would strike back in force unless the Turks abandoned their stronghold.

U.N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunch left for Gaza to inspect U.N. troops after telling newsmen his three days on Cyprus gave him a closer look at the 'incoherent war."

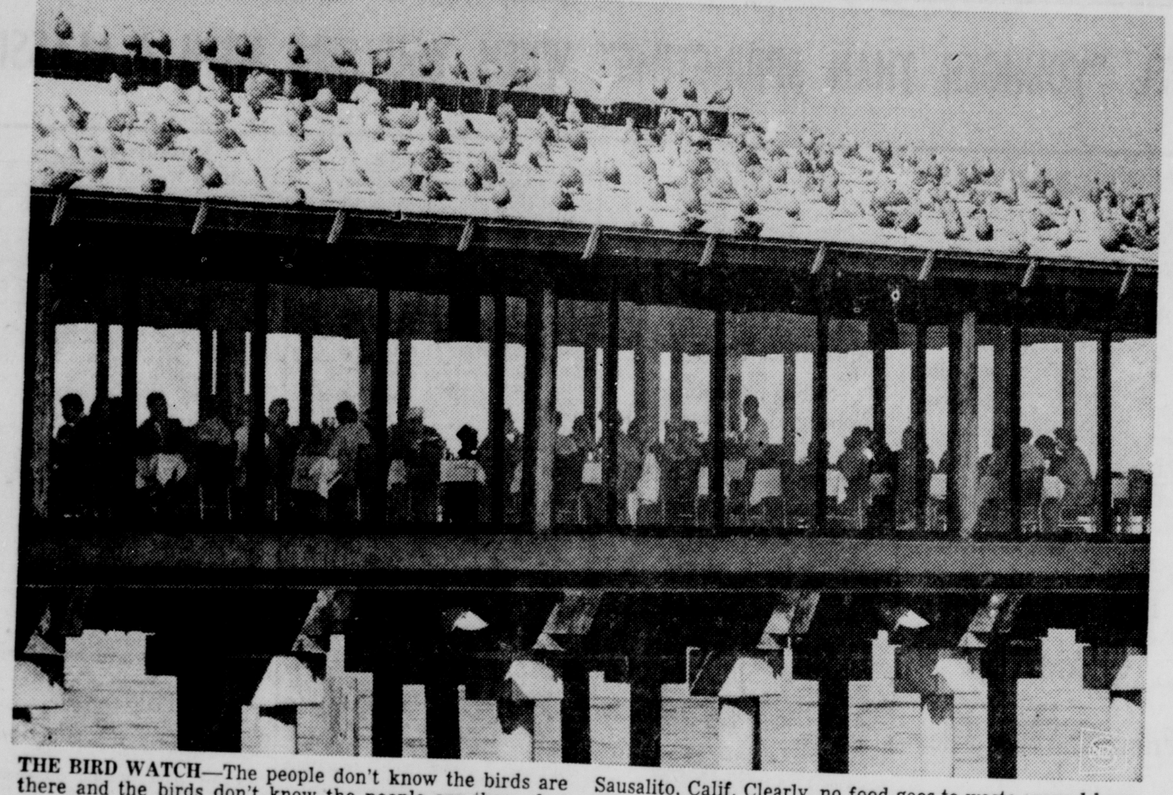

The fighting began in December over constitutional changes advocated by Greek Cypriots and opposed by Turkish Cypriots. The issues appear to have reverted to the old Greek Cypriot demands for union with Greece and counter demands by the Turkish Cypriot minority for partition of the island.

Truck Hits Two Stores, Goes Down Bank Into Creek

A 23-year-old Kingston man was injured and later cited on two motor vehicle violations, after a truck he was driving at 12:30 a. m. today, struck two stores on Route 209 at Accord, went through a fence and down an embankment into the Rondout Creek.

Ellenville State Police said John Heybruck, of 85 Franklin Street, city, received lacerations of the right arm and left eyebrow. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle at a speed not reasonable or prudent, and driving without a license.

Troopers reported the vehicle was traveling north on the highway, negotiating a sharp left curve when it went off the east side of Route 209 and hit a liquor store and barber shop, and rolled down the embankment into the creek.

THE BIRD WATCH—The people don't know the birds are there and the birds don't know the people are there, but everybody knows it's time for lunch. Alfred Hitchcock once did a movie about California birds, but his creatures were more interested in people than scraps of food.

Southern Hungary Hit by Earthquake

VIENNA (AP) — An earthquake hit the city of Szekszard, in southern Hungary today, damaging many buildings and causing panic among the population of 50,000, Radio Budapest reported.

The radio said the building housing the Communist party headquarters was "severely damaged and its occupants escaped in a panic." There were no reports on casualties.

"Panic also broke out elsewhere in the town," the radio said. The tremors occurred at 9:33 a.m.—3:33 a.m. EST—and also were felt in Budapest, 60 miles to the north.

Belgrade, capital of Yugoslavia, also experienced the quake. Two shocks were felt there, and some cracks were seen in downtown buildings. No casualties or major damage were reported.

SATO Goes Into Deep Study of 8-Nation Pact

MANILA (AP) — The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization's 10th anniversary ministerial conference went into secret session today for what was expected to be the most penetrating analysis of the eight-nation pact since it was formed.

Two Asian members, Thailand and the Philippines, indicated at the opening session today that the time has come for some hard talking on the alliance's ability to stem Communist aggression.

France, which recently recognized Communist China and advocates the neutralization of Southeast Asia, also said the time has come "to do away with myths, to eliminate ambiguities and squarely to face realities."

France will face some candid questioning on its neutrality proposal, which has been rejected by the United States, Thailand and the Philippines.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in his opening address, cited such major problems of the area as South Viet Nam's war, the ineffective neutrality in Laos, the Indonesian confrontation of Malaysia and economic problems of the whole region.

Kennedy Library To Be Larger Now

BOSTON (AP)—The John F. Kennedy Memorial Library is going to be a lot larger than originally conceived—and it will be designed by an American architect.

Selection of the architect is expected to be made about June 1, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the assassinated president's brother, said after weekend conferences with an advisory committee.

The attorney general said that the two-acre site on the bank of the Charles River—opposite the dormitory in which the late president lived as a Harvard student — will not be large enough.

Bound for Hawaii

TOKYO (AP)—Edwin O. Reischauer, U.S. ambassador to Japan, will fly to Hawaii for an unspecified period of convalescence from a stab wound when he is discharged from a Tokyo hospital Wednesday.

Reischauer was stabbed in the thigh last March 24 by a mentally deficient youth.

The young man crawled through four barbed wire fences to reach the West.

Try to Identify Body Of Woman Upstate

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Authorities sought today to identify the body of a woman found washed ashore along Lake Ontario Saturday night.

State Police said an autopsy performed Sunday failed to provide a clue as to the cause of death.

Troopers said the condition of the body indicated it had been in the lake a long time.

The body was found on Stony Point near Henderson Harbor.

Cabinet Changes Made In Southern Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Winston Field resigned today as prime minister of Southern Rhodesia, and British Gov. Sir Humphrey Gibbs named Treasury Minister Ian Smith to succeed him.

Both Smith and Field are members of the conservative Rhodesian Front party, which holds 35 of the 65 seats in the legislature and is pledged to maintain the white minority's rule of the self-governing British territory.

Field, in office since December 1962, lost his party's support because its right wing considered him too moderate. Political circles look for tougher government policies and possibly a declaration of independence from Britain.

USSR in Space Again

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched a second unmanned maneuverable space station Sunday, rousing speculation it may be getting ready to attempt an orbital rendezvous by manned space craft.

The new Sputnik, Polyot-2, was launched on the third anniversary of the world's space flight by Yuri Gagarin. Polyot-1 was sent up last November.

Demand Nehru Resign

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Charging the Indian government is weak and paralyzed, opposition political groups today called on ailing Prime Minister Nehru to resign.

Delhi state units of the Socialist and Praja Socialist parties, plus several smaller opposition factions, warned they will open "agitation" in the capital unless Nehru quits by Aug. 15.

Try to Identify Body Of Woman Upstate

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Authorities sought today to identify the body of a woman found washed ashore along Lake Ontario Saturday night.

State Police said an autopsy performed Sunday failed to provide a clue as to the cause of death.

Troopers said the condition of the body indicated it had been in the lake a long time.

The body was found on Stony Point near Henderson Harbor.

Forest products industry of the U.S. ranks third among manufacturing industries in number of persons employed.

$650,000 Winner Pays Rents in Area

LONDON (AP) — Charlie Cooper, the $28-a-week clerk who won $650,000 in a soccer pool, has picked up a big check for his neighbors in the Bethnal Green section of London's East End.

Hundreds of people who live on Wilmost Street will be told when they show up at town hall today to pay their week's rent: "Don't bother. Charlie Cooper has paid it for you."

Charlie sent a check for $4,200 to the Town Council, then ducked away to the country.

Cabbie Testifies Beckwith Looked For Evers Early

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A former cab driver said today Byron De La Beckwith was in Jackson and looking for the home of Medgar Evers four days before the Negro integration leader was killed from ambush.

Lee Swilley was the first witness to testify at the start of the second week of Beckwith's second murder trial. Swilley said he and Herbert Speight, another taxi driver, were parked outside a bus station when Beckwith approached them.

The witness said he reported the incident to police after he read about Evers being shot last June 12 outside the Evers home. He said he identified Beckwith from a police line-up.

Stanley Sanders, a defense attorney, sought to discredit this testimony by charging that the witness had not told the truth at the first trial which ended with a hung jury.

With virtually no new evidence, the trial has moved more rapidly than the first one, which ended Feb. 7.

Beckwith, 43, a Greenwood segregationist, is accused of killing Evers, 37, who was shot in the back by a sniper with a high-powered rifle.

Summer Home Entered

Kingston State police today investigated a burglary at a summer home on Glasco Turnpike, High Falls, owned by Willard Braby, of Brooklyn. Senior Investigator Frank Stainkamp is awaiting the arrival of the camp owner to determine what, if anything, of value might have been stolen, according to Trooper David Wachtel. The building was entered by forcing a rear door.

English Nurse Administrator Is Speaker Here

Miss Gladys Jolly, assistant matron at St. Anne's Hospital, Tottenham, London, England was a guest at the April 8 meeting of District No. 11 New York State Nurses Association held at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill.

Miss Jolly whose post corresponds to assistant nursing service administrator in this country, was a guest of Mrs. Jack Clair while in the Kingston area.

According to Miss Jolly, nurses are in as short supply in her country as here. Expansion of hospitals and increased admissions create a need difficult to meet. Early marriages and home responsibilities prevent full time work among the younger nurses. In England, as in the United States finding nurses to cover jobs 24 hours a day and seven days a week is a major problem.

In a comparison of working hours, it was pointed out that hospitals in this area offer straight eight hour shifts for a five day week, while at St. Anne's, nurses still work split shifts and have one full day and two half days off. In both countries, nurses are among the lowest paid groups of salaried workers.

The education of nurses in England is more uniform than the diverse plans at present in effect in this country.

Reports on projects undertaken by District Associations in New York State to study the education proposals of the American Nurses Association were given by Mrs. Alice Dolan and Miss Kathryn Heavey who attended a conference in Albany March 31.

Miss Jolly commented that the English system tended to emphasize the practical application of studies in contrast to the American emphasis on more classroom work.

During the business meeting, the Catskill Professional Nurses Club was commended for providing subscriptions to the American Journal of Nursing for public libraries in Greene County.

The meeting concluded with refreshments served by the Catskill hostesses.

PietaArrivesFrom Italy on Way to The World's Fair

NEW YORK (AP) — Michelangelo's Pieta, one of the most perfect marble masterpieces of all time, arrived today aboard the liner Cristoforo Colombo en route to the New York World's Fair.

The Pieta was encased in a cushioned package. The 465-year-old work was insured for $6 million for its trip.

Two years ago, Pope John XXIII promised Francis Cardinal Spellman that the statue would be loaned for the Vatican Pavilion at the fair.

The Pieta, which represents Mary grieving over the body of Christ, was completed by Michelangelo when he was 24.

Two Injured When Plane Flips Over

Two men were injured at 2:45 p. m. Saturday when a 1963 Cesna four-place plane flipped over while attempting a landing on a private landing strip owned by Clem Hoovler Jr., of South Cairo.

Leeds State Police said the pilot of the plane, Pasquale Noto, 32, of 6 Sherman Avenue, Plainview, was trying to land the plane when the front wheels hit soft ground and snapped off causing the craft to flip over. The plane was wrecked, troopers said.

Noto suffered lacerations of the upper lip. A passenger, Robert Hills, 39, of Centerport, suffered abrasions of the left leg. Both were taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Town of Ulster Constables Will Meet Wednesday

Town of Ulster constables will meet Wednesday evening at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

Through the office of John F. Malone, assistant director of the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation, N. Y. District, the guest speaker will be a special agent from the bureau who will discuss various phases of police protection, investigations and self protection in the line of police work.

Programs of this nature are being planned by the constable committee of the town board to better equip the constables with a knowledge of their job.

At the last meeting held in March, the group was addressed by Assistant District Attorney Joseph Torraca; Arthur H. Brown, special investigator for the district attorney's office, and Thomas Mayone, Ulster County Investigator, who is attached to the sheriff's office. The discussion at the last meeting proved to be very advantageous and all constables are requested to attend the meeting Wednesday evening.

Finney, Poitier Hard Rivals

This Is Oscar Night, Edge for 'Tom Jones'

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Oscar night tonight and the brilliant movie "Tom Jones" is expected to avenge the Boston Tea Party for Great Britain.

It will be very British at nearby Santa Monica Civic Auditorium with or without the bawdy farce which most movie people call the best movie since "Citizen Kane."

"Tom Jones" won 10 Academy Award nominations and is expected to win a goodly share. Most experts call it a cinch for best picture and best director for Tony Richardson.

Also odds-on favorite to win best actor is Albert Finney, who played the title role of the Henry Fielding classic. He will have potent competition from Sidney Poitier, the great Negro actor of "Lilies of the Field."

Others up for best actor are Richard Harris, the brutish football player of "This Sporting Life;" Rex Harrison—the one who acted while Marc (Richard Burton) Anthony and Cleopatra (Liz Taylor) wooed—and Paul Newman of "Hud."

Patricia Neal of "Hud" is the favorite among top actresses, but Hollywood likes voting on past performances.

That makes Shirley MacLaine (Irma La Douce) and Natalie Wood (Love With a Proper Stranger) potent contenders. Anyone among the actresses could win without causing an upset. Leslie Caron (The L-Shaped Room) and Rachel Roberts (This Sporting Life) are other nominees.

Competition for "Tom Jones" as best picture is "How the West was Won," "Lilies of the Field," "America, America," and Cleopatra."

ABC-TV will broadcast the show starting at 10 p.m. (EST).

Cabbie Testifies Beckwith Looked For Evers Early

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A former cab driver said today Byron De La Beckwith was in Jackson and looking for the home of Medgar Evers four days before the Negro integration leader was killed from ambush.

Lee Swilley was the first witness to testify at the start of the second week of Beckwith's second murder trial. Swilley said he and Herbert Speight, another taxi driver, were parked outside a bus station when Beckwith approached them.

The witness said he reported the incident to police after he read about Evers being shot last June 12 outside the Evers home. He said he identified Beckwith from a police line-up.

Stanley Sanders, a defense attorney, sought to discredit this testimony by charging that the witness had not told the truth at the first trial which ended with a hung jury.

With virtually no new evidence, the trial has moved more rapidly than the first one, which ended Feb. 7.

Beckwith, 43, a Greenwood segregationist, is accused of killing Evers, 37, who was shot in the back by a sniper with a high-powered rifle.

Summer Home Entered

Kingston State police today investigated a burglary at a summer home on Glasco Turnpike, High Falls, owned by Willard Braby, of Brooklyn. Senior Investigator Frank Stainkamp is awaiting the arrival of the camp owner to determine what, if anything, of value might have been stolen, according to Trooper David Wachtel. The building was entered by forcing a rear door.

Pieta Arrives From Italy on Way to The World's Fair

NEW YORK (AP) — Michelangelo's Pieta, one of the most perfect marble masterpieces of all time, arrived today aboard the liner Cristoforo Colombo en route to the New York World's Fair.

The Pieta was encased in a cushioned package. The 465-year-old work was insured for $6 million for its trip.

Two years ago, Pope John XXIII promised Francis Cardinal Spellman that the statue would be loaned for the Vatican Pavilion at the fair.

The Pieta, which represents Mary grieving over the body of Christ, was completed by Michelangelo when he was 24.

Two Injured When Plane Flips Over

Two men were injured at 2:45 p. m. Saturday when a 1963 Cesna four-place plane flipped over while attempting a landing on a private landing strip owned by Clem Hoovler Jr., of South Cairo.

Leeds State Police said the pilot of the plane, Pasquale Noto, 32, of 6 Sherman Avenue, Plainview, was trying to land the plane when the front wheels hit soft ground and snapped off causing the craft to flip over. The plane was wrecked, troopers said.

Noto suffered lacerations of the upper lip. A passenger, Robert Hills, 39, of Centerport, suffered abrasions of the left leg. Both were taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Town of Ulster Constables Will Meet Wednesday

Town of Ulster constables will meet Wednesday evening at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

Through the office of John F. Malone, assistant director of the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation, N. Y. District, the guest speaker will be a special agent from the bureau who will discuss various phases of police protection, investigations and self protection in the line of police work.

Programs of this nature are being planned by the constable committee of the town board to better equip the constables with a knowledge of their job.

At the last meeting held in March, the group was addressed by Assistant District Attorney Joseph Torraca; Arthur H. Brown, special investigator for the district attorney's office, and Thomas Mayone, Ulster County Investigator, who is attached to the sheriff's office. The discussion at the last meeting proved to be very advantageous and all constables are requested to attend the meeting Wednesday evening.

Going Back to Russia

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., (AP)—A Soviet professor who was granted asylum in the United States last January after falling or jumping from a building at Harvard University has returned to the Soviet Union, the Boston Globe said today.

The newspaper said Yuri Asseyev, 35, former professor at the University of Leningrad, left by plane for his homeland Sunday after reconsidering his plea for asylum.

English Nurse Administrator Is Speaker Here

Miss Gladys Jolly, assistant matron at St. Anne's Hospital, Tottenham, London, England was a guest at the April 8 meeting of District No. 11 New York State Nurses Association held at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill.

Miss Jolly wnose post corresponds to assistant nursing service administrator in this country, was a guest of Mrs. Jack Clair while in the Kingston area.

According to Miss Jolly, nurses are in as short supply in her country as here. Expansion of hospitals and increased admissions create a need difficult to meet. Early marriages and home responsibilities prevent full time work among the younger nurses. In England, as in the United States finding nurses to cover jobs 24 hours a day and seven days a week is a major problem.

In a comparison of working hours, it was pointed out that hospitals in this area offer straight eight hour shifts for a five day week, while at St. Anne's, nurses still work split shifts and have one full day and two half days off. In both countries, nurses are among the lowest paid groups of salaried workers.

The education of nurses in England is more uniform than the diverse plans at present in effect in this country.

Reports on projects undertaken by District Associations in New York State to study the education proposals of the American Nurses Association were given by Mrs. Alice Dolan and Miss Kathryn Heavey who attended a conference in Albany March 31.

Miss Jolly commented that the English system tended to emphasize the practical application of studies in contrast to the American emphasis on more classroom work.

During the business meeting, the Catskill Professional Nurses Club was commended for providing subscriptions to the American Journal of Nursing for public libraries in Greene County.

The meeting concluded with refreshments served by the Catskill hostesses.

Puts Ban on Newsmen

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Cambodia's chief of state Prince Nordom Sihanouk, has barred all American and British newsmen from his country.

Sihanouk accused them of "virulent attacks and calumnies." He objected particularly to Time magazipe and the Washington Post.
